Master Plan Will Be Fought By San Geronimo

20,000 Population Is Envisioned Prompting Committee Formation

By JEFF GREER

San Geronimo Valley residents last night formed an ad hoc committee designed to save the valley from potential hazards of the area's 11-year-old master plan and its existing zoning.

Although the 1961-model master plan calls for preservation of the valley's rural nature, it would permit the valley to be turned into an urbanized area of 20,000 population, Marin County Planning Director Werner Von Gundell pointed out.

About 100 residents attended the meeting in Lagunitas School organized by Jean Berensmeier of Lagunitas.

After listening to and questioning Von Gundell, Marin Municipal Water District spokesmen and several environmental group members, a dozen valley residents volunteered to form the committee to draft a new master plan for San Geronimo, Lagunitas, Woodacre and Forest Knolls.

The committee will meet at 8 p.m. Monday in Lagunitas School to pick its leadership, to recruit members from homeowner, church, service clubs and other groups, and to set priorities, Mrs. Berensmeier announced.

One of the committee's first actions may be a petition to the Marin County Board of Supervisors to scrap the existing valley master plan and replace it with an interim plan to prevent massive development of the valley's large acreages.

The petition strategy was suggested by Harold Gregg, director of the Marin Conservation League and a former San Geronimo Valley resident.

Gregg and speakers for the Bolinas Planning Group and West Marin Environmental Action Committee, Patrick Hollern and Jerry Friedmann urged the San Geronimo Valley residents to draft a new master plan to reinforce the concepts of Marin's Countywide General Plan now in preparation.

Von Gundell reported Strawberry, Tam Valley and Bolinas residents are preparing their own such plans, using local talent in some cases and consultants in others.

The valley's 1961 plan was "very advanced for its day" but far behind the times now, Von Gundell said. "We aren't smarter today, we're just more aware" of environmental quality in Marin, he said.

The old plan would permit high density development of the entire San Geronimo Valley and its ridges and merge the four small communities in the valley into one conglomerate, the planner explained. The countywide general plan now being refined proposes to lower density and keep San Geronimo, Lagunitas, Woodacre and Forest Knolls as separate "villages."

Von Gundell suggested that it may be necessary to limit building in the valley to only 300 new homes by 1990 — "about 15 or 16 a year." The 1970 census showed 1,161 homes in the valley, he reported.

Faster or denser development would overtax roads, require sewers and other expensive urban services and destroy the "village" concept, Von Gundell warned.

"The chances are fairly good

Kill Tax Initiative, Top Court Is Asked

Jr. College Association Fears Crowded Schools

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Supreme Court today was asked to strike the Watson property tax limitation initiative from the Nov. 7 ballot or to at least order the measure's title rewritten.

The suit was filed in San Francisco against Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., the state's chief elections officer, by the California Junior College Association.

The initiative, sponsored by Los Angeles County Assessor Philip Watson, would write into the state constitution drastic limitations on local property taxes. Opponents have warned it would trigger an estimated $1 billion increase in state taxes to offset the loss of local revenue.

Charles O'Brien, former state chief deputy attorney general, filed the action on behalf of the community colleges, state Firemen's Association, California School Boards Association, University of California Regent William Coblentz and Julian Nava, member of the Los Angeles Board of Education.

The legal challenge asserts the Watson initiative should be removed from the ballot on grounds it violates the constitution because it covers more than a single subject; revises rather than merely amends the constitution; and has a "misleading" ballot title.

It asks the court to order Brown to remove the proposal from the ballot or failing in that to direct Attorney General Evelle Younger to rewrite the ballot title.

O'Brien said the title refers to several property tax limitations "but nowhere is there any mention of the number of taxes which will be increased, or the impact the measure will have on school finance, mass transit or city and county government."

The suit was filed six days after the Legislature recessed for three months after failing to approve a compromise property tax relief and school finance bill backed by Gov. Ronald Reagan and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti.

Filing of the suit constituted the first major action in an expected all-out public relations campaign to defeat the proposal. A similar Watson-sponsored ballot measure was rejected at the polls in 1968.

Leland W. Myers, an official of the junior college association, warned that the community colleges would be required to turn away about 750,000 students next year if the amendment were approved because it would have such an adverse effect on school finances.

He said the inclusion of the school boards and firemen's groups in the suit "reflected the serious concern" they have about the amendment.

McGovern Dares Nixon To TV Debates On Asia

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) —Sen. George S. McGovern again challenged President Nixon to a series of face-to-face campaign debates today, saying the American people had a right to an open discussion of issues.

There was virtually no chance Nixon will accept, on the basis of the refusal by incumbents in past presidential races to accept such challenges.

ButcGovern, who opened his first campaign trip in the same New Hampshire shoe factory where it all began for him six months ago, called on Nixon to "put aside politics as usual and join me in a series of major television debates this fall."

"If there had been debates in 1968, perhaps we would have learned more about Nixon's secret plan to end the war in Vietnam—a plan that is still secret, about a war that still goes on, four years later," he said.

"Never before has an American president exposed himself less to direct questions from the press, or anyone else in public view."

About 300 persons welcomed the candidate at Manchester airport where McGovern was shown a copy of the Manchester Union-Leader which contained five articles and editorials unfavorable to him. McGovern smiled and accepted a copy.

Meanwhile, the Pentagon accused McGovern of flying in the face of reality with his suggestion that defense spending be cut by $30 billion.

Saigon GIs Make Gains In Quang Tri

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese marines broke a weeks-old stalemate in the Quang Tri area today by capturing a bridgehead south of the city—their first real victory since they relieved the badly battered airborne troops at Quang Tri on July 27.

A marine battalion of 500 men climbed out of its foxholes near the provincial capital just below the North-South border and seized the bridgehead at the Tach Han River, giving them a new attack route toward the Communist-held Citadel, a mile to the north in the center of the city.

The North Vietnamese held onto the 18th Century Citadel despite new American air attacks in which "smart bombs" guided by laser beams blew up part of the wall that forms the fortress. The Communist de-

Stafford Is Seated By Water Directors

By PAT ANGLE

Directors of the Marin Municipal Water District voted 3-0 yesterday to seat Dr. Ronald T. Stafford on the district board despite an attorney's allegation that he may not live in the district. (Another water district story, page 19.)

Director John M. MacPhail Jr. abstained from voting but gave no reason.

Attorney Hugh G. Lawrence asked the board to determine whether the newly-elected director resides within the district. The attorney said he represents Charles S. Adkins of Tamalpais Valley, a resident of Division Fire from which Stafford was elected in June.

The board declined to investigate the matter further after Stafford told them he lives at 270 Currey Avenue in Sausalito, within the district. "This is a witch hunt and I don't want to participate in it," said Director Jack R. Felson.

Lawrence carefully avoided actually stating that the 28-year-old physician and conservationist lives outside the district. But he suggested the board find out when Stafford moved to his new home, at what address the physician's two phone numbers are located, where his personal belongings were before and after the last election and where his mail is being delivered.

"I resent that this board might question any statement I might make here," Stafford said, but added the board could, if it wished, "call my landlord and the post office or have me swear on a Bible."

Board president Jordan L. Martinelli Jr. said he did not believe it was up to the board to determine the doctor's legal residence.

Stafford was elected in June to replace Robert G. Anderson in Division Five which includes most of Sausalito, Belvedere, Tiburon, Marin City and Tamalpais Valley.

When Anderson, who had decided not to seek reelection, announced last month that he was leaving the board before his term expires Dec. 31, the board appointed Stafford since he had been elected.

Before the board meeting yesterday, Lawrence had told the I-J he did not believe Stafford was a district resident at the time of the election and said his client had hired a private investigator to prove that.

Stafford's residency problems began soon after he filed for the board post in February and learned that his home, at 19 Wolfback Ridge Road, was not in the district.

A day before the deadline for filing, he notified county election officials that he had moved to 71 Sunshine Avenue, a single family home containing an apartment in which he had lived before moving to Currey Avenue three weeks ago.

Stafford said that Marin County developers were behind the move to keep him off the board because of his belief that the district should limit growth of the county by limiting future water supply. He said that the district attorney's office had had him "tailed" before the election to determine where he actually resided.

"I think this whole matter is a deterrent to people who want to run for public office," the physician said. "I resent being harassed and having my privacy invaded."

British Use Airlift To Hungry Isles

LONDON (UPI)—The government today ordered military planes to mount an emergency airlift of food and other vital supplies to Britain's most northerly offshore islands.

The airlift was ordered to head off threatened starvation in the Orkney and Shetland islands north of Scotland, which have been virtually isolated by a nationwide ports shutdown now in its 14th day.

Striking longshoremen refused to load even emergency supplies for the 34,000 islanders.

The military airlift to the Orkneys and Shetlands was the first time the government has used the emergency powers it took a week ago.

But it postponed at least until next week use of troops to move foodstuffs blockaded in strike-bound seaports around the country.

There appeared little prospect of a return to work for another 10 days.

In Glasgow 1,200 striking longshoremen voted at a mass meeting not to handle even vital supplies to isolated islands off the coasts of Scotland where food shortages already were becoming acute.

They said it is up to the government to use the emergency powers it took a week ago to deal with the crisis.

The National Farmers Union said the shortage of animal feed is becoming critical.

Britain's 42,000 longshoremen have shut down the country's main seaports since July 28 in a walkout of indefinite duration. It was called to back demands for greater job security and the right for longshoremen to get all jobs at container depots, even at inland sites.

Prime Minister Edward Heath and key government ministers discussed the crisis and heard reports on food and other supplies.

House Panel Votes Funds For Golden Gate Recreation Area

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Interior Committee approved legislation today to create the Golden Gate Urban National Recreation Area at the entrance to San Francisco Bay.

The legislation would authorize appropriations of up to $118.6 million for land acquisition and development. It was expected the cost would eventually be higher.

As approved by the committee, the urban recreation area would be about 10,000 acres larger than proposed in a bill submitted by the Nixon administration.

The bill, which also must be cleared by the House Rules Committee, was approved by unanimous voice vote.

The committee approved 10-5 an amendment by Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-Calif., for a study aimed at coordinating public and private transportation systems serving the recreation area.

The committee erased from Clausen's amendment language that would have required the Secretary of the Interior to recommend a transportation plan. As approved, the amendment merely directs the secretary to cooperate in a study.

The committee expanded the jurisdiction of the recreation area's 15-man advisory commission to include the Fort Point Museum, Muir Woods and the Point Reyes National Seashore, according to Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District.

The bill authorizes up to $60.6 million for land acquisition, including the privately owned Cliff House-Sutro Baths.

But Rep. Roy A. Taylor, D-N.C., chairman of the committee on national parks and recreation, said panel members had agreed private lands should not be acquired unless surroudning state and city lands are donated to the national recreation area.

Taylor noted that development costs had been estimated at $58 million under the more modest administration bill.

"Since the subcommittee has included additional lands, it is safe to assume that the cost will be greater," Taylor told the parent committee. "But in view of the fact that development dollars are scarce, it is my opinion that this authorization will be adequate for the immediate years ahead. "If further authorization is needed, that can be taken care of by a future congress."

The committee also approved an amendment making it clear that the Presidio Golf Course was intended to remain under the Army's jurisdiction so long as it was used for that purpose.

Rep. John P. Saylor, R-Pa., voted against the amendment after protesting that it was "very strange" to have a golf course for "the exclusive use of the military" inside the boundaries of a recreational area meant for the general public.

The bill introduced by Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., a member of the committee, includes lands in both San Francisco and Marin counties.

The recreation area includes extensive private holdings in Olema Valley as sought by Representative Mailliard, military forts and lands in Marin, Alcatraz, Angel Island and other state park lands. The Net Depot on the Tiburon Peninsula is not included in the recreational area.

Viet Cong Demand Saigon Ouster At Paris Debates

PARIS (UPI) — The Viet Cong, detailing for the first time its demands for a coalition regime in South Vietnam, said today the war will rage on and negotiations remain deadlocked until the Saigon government resigns.

Before the actual talks began the Hanoi delegation used statements by actress Jane Fonda, Sen. Eward Kennedy, former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark and U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim to back its claims that the United States was deliberately bombing dikes in North Vietnam.

Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, Chief Viet Cong negotiator, said at the 154th session of the stalemated Vietnam Peace talks, "As long as that administration (of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu) exists, the war goes on and the negotiations remain deadlocked."

U.S. negotiator William J. Porter said the Communists' refusal to accept a cease-fire and then negotiate a political settlement proved their "obsessive pursuit" of a military victory in order to seize power in South Vietnam. He dismissed Hanoi's dike allegations as pure propaganda.

Madame Binh did not specify whether her word "deadlocked" applied to the backstage private talks between Hanoi's negotiators and U.S. Presidential Adviser Henry A. Kissinger as well as to the weekly semipublic sessions on Kleber Avenue.

Today's session of the conference, despite recently expressed optimism of American officials, had the same atmosphere of angry charges and countercharges about alleged U.S. bombing of dikes that marked last Thursday's session.

Bombs Rock Ulster; IRA Officer Caught

BELFAST (UPI)—Six men escaped death or injury today when a fellow worker risked his life to warn them of a sputtering bomb.

The bomb blasted a bus depot in Londonderry just before noon. Another shattered a nearby dress shop moments later. Two others exploded in downtown Armagh.

No one was hurt in any of the blasts.

During the night there was hand-to-hand fighting around the neighborhood social center in the Roman Catholic Andersonstown district of Belfast and it did not end until British soldiers chased the last gangs of teen-agers from the area.

The fighting began Wednesday night as Catholics in the area tried to march to the Roger Casement football stadium. It was the second battle in four days around the park, which troops occupied when they moved into Catholic strongholds two weeks ago.

Across the city in the Catholic Ardoyne district, soldiers arrested one of the Belfast leaders of the Provisional Irish Republican Army (IRA), Martin Meehan, eight months after he escaped from the city's Crumlin Road jail.

Catholics stoned army and police posts across Northern Ireland Wednesday to mark the one-year anniversary of the introduction of internment without trial for suspected IRA leaders.

Only in Andersonstown, scene of fierce rioting Sunday, did the violence threaten to get out of hand.

A crowd of 1,500 Catholics, many of them teen-agers, marched through the Falls Road district shouting "Give us back our country."

As they came within a quarter mile of the ball park, whose club and bar is a social headquarters for the neighborhood, they ran into barbed wire barricades and lines of troops and armored cars.

They charged, brandishing broken bottles and hurling stones. Army riot squads with shields and truncheons took the first shock of the assault, but as they fought the rioters hand-to-hand, groups of 20 to 30 began to break through the army line.

When rioters began tossing gasoline bombs at the soldiers, troops replied with rubber bullets. The fighting continued for several hours, and it was early morning before troops finally cleared the streets.

House Panel Refuses To Subpoena Fonda

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Internal Security Committee refused today to subpoena actress Jane Fonda to testify about her alleged antiwar activities while in Hanoi.

Instead, it decided to ask the Justice Department to report to the committee by Sept. 14 on the progress of an inquiry into Miss Fonda's actions in North Vietnam.

PRO-NIXON GROUPS

Target: Dissident Demos

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Two separate organizations have been formed with the common goal of enticing dissident Democrats into supporting President Nixon. The groups are headed by John B. Connally, former Democratic Governor of Texas, and Floyd B. McKissick, former Director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE).

Connally will serve as national chairman of the Democrats for Nixon committee, a group with 41 vice-chairmen including business executives, entertainers, athletes and politicians.

McKissick said his group, to be called the National Committee for a Two-Party System, will enable Democrats and other blacks who would not support any other Pro-Nixon group to work for his reelection in November.

Connally, the only Democrat in Nixon's cabinet until his resignation as treasury secretary earlier this year, announced in Washington Wednesday that his group would attempt to raise between $2 million and $3 million for Nixon's campaign coffers this fall. He said the group will avoid Congressional and local races and concentrate on enlisting Democrats in behalf of the Nixon-Agnew ticket.

Connally attacked Sen. George S. McGovern's campaign forces. "Rarely in our history," he said, "has a group holding temporary control of a political party done so much to alienate rank-and-file members of that party whose only sin is to have differing views."

He added that the Democratic party, instead of becoming more open, "is becoming an ideological machine closed to millions of Americans who have been the party's most loyal and steadfast members."

JOHN B. CONNALLY
Attack on McGovern

Connally estimated that 20 million Democrats had already decided that "President Nixon is simply the better choice." The total Democratic vote for Hubert H. Humphrey in the 1968 election was 31.3 million.

Connally said the treasurer of the new organization would be Leonard H. Marks, former director of the U.S. Information Agency in the Johnson Administration.

The list of vice-chairmen ranged from entertainers Sammy Davis Jr., and Frank Sinatra to IBM executive chairman Thomas J. Watson Jr., and Robert F. Six, president of Continental Airlines.

In New York, McKissick told a news conference that his group will also work towards Nixon's reelection. "I'm a believer in the development of a strong two party system. We'll never solve the problems as long as blacks participate in one half," he said.

As the anti-McGovern sentiment was voiced, The Democratic National Committee ended its meeting in Washington by compromising a dispute over party control.

The committee, after a brief but heated debate, delayed until after the elections completion of its own membership as well as filling nine vacancies on the powerful 25-member executive committee.

The Democrats also decreed that eight regional members of the party's executive committee would serve only until the end of the year. The compromise was worked out between McGovern supporters and committee members who did not want his forces in control if he loses the election in November.

The committee also adopted a resolution creating a commission to study new methods of selecting a Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

Handgun Measure Is Approved By Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate has responded to the assassination attempt against Gov. George C. Wallace with a new firearms control bill aimed at cheap little guns called "Saturday night specials."

But, in three days of roll call votes that produced passage of the bill Wednesday, members affirmed the right of Americans to keep guns for protection and once again defeated overwhelmingly attempts to ban possession of handguns or require their registration with the government.

The new gun bill, sponsored by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., faces an uphill struggle in the House, and President Nixon's views on the measure are not known.

But it cleared the Senate with surprising ease on a 68 to 25 roll call vote preceded by a only a half-hearted attempt to dilute the measure.

California's two senators, Alan Cranston and John V. Tunney, cast "yes" votes on the legislation.

Democratic presidential candidate George S. McGovern, who had voted against earlier gun registration and confiscation proposals, backed the Bayh bill.

The measure, if enacted, would remove an estimated one million small, cheap and inaccurate firearms from the American market, banning their sale by either manufacturers or dealers.

For the first time, standards would be set on what kind of guns could be sold in the United States—with criteria enforced by the secretary of the treasury on length, weight, caliber and safety features.

In addition, although the Senate has firmly rejected government confiscation, the bill does encourage Americans to turn in handguns by offering compensation to dealers and owners for firearms now in their possession which the secretary decrees may not be sold. The Senate Judiciary Committee estimated this would cost the taxpayers $10 million.

An individual, however, could choose to keep his gun, even though its sale would be prohibited.

Major Victory For 'Sharing'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A $30 billion revenue sharing bill has cleared the Senate Finance Committee and could pass the Senate next week.

The House has already passed a bill allocating $30 billion, but has a different formula for distribution than the Senate measure. The House bill favors suburbs and large, urbanized states.

After the Finance Committee reported the bill out Wednesday, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz reflected administration delight. Shultz said the prospects were good for revenue sharing legislation to be in effect at the start of President Nixon's re-election campaign.

Although there are differences in the Senate and House bills, Shultz said he was "confident that a workable and acceptable solution" could be achieved.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., Finance Committee chairman, said the Senate formula would provide more funds for rural areas and cities than suburbs.

Eagleton Affair: Mental Health Expert's Fears

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The controversy over the case of Sen. Thomas Eagleton may prevent some Americans from seeking treatment when they need it, a mental health expert predicts.

"I think the whole episode has raised the Dark Ages attitude of being ashamed of a stigma because you seek psychiatric help," said Eva Maas of San Francisco, chairman of the National Council on Social Work in Mental Health.

At a news conference yesterday called to discuss the Eagleton affair in light of mental health, Mrs. Maas told of the parents of a 4-year-old girl who recently refused to register her for psychiatric care because they feared it would hurt her in later life.

"They said, 'We don't want to have it follow her around for he rest of her life,'" she said.

Eagleton disclosed his psychiatric treatment after he was selected as the Democratic nominee for Vice President. He withdrew from the ticket less than three weeks later when he said public controversy over his treatment began obscuring election issues.

Mrs. Maas said she fears the reluctance to seek psychiatric help would continue until the public "eliminates the distinction between health care for mental problems and other kinds of health care."

Other mental health workers joined Mrs. Maas in a prepared statement at the press conference saying anyone having a mental health problem should never hesitate to seek treatment.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Agnes' Damage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tropical storm Agnes claimed 118 lives and caused more than $3 billion in property damages, the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) reports.

OEP said the June 16-23 storm flooded 5,000 square miles of land from Florida to New York.

In the first comprehensive report based on both federal and state data, OEP said yesterday that more than 500,000 persons suffered losses. There were 116,000 dwellings and mobile homes damaged or destroyed and 5,800 businesses ravished.

A Tornado Death

NEWTON, Mass. (UPI) — A chain of tornados swooped down in Massachusetts yesterday, causing at least one death and toppling scores of trees and power lines.

The tornados frightened thousands of persons who knew little about tornados — which are uncommon in this area. Telephone service was interrupted in Newton and the neighboring Brookline section of Boston.

The U.S. Weather Service said a preliminary evaluation showed the tornados were associated with the same thunderstorm cell.

Sadat Calls Session

CAIRO (UPI) — President Anwar Sadat has called for an emergency session of parliament next Tuesday and recalled his ambassador to Moscow for consultations on the state of Egyptian-Soviet relations, political sources said today.

Ambassador Yehia Abdel Kader will return to Cairo tomorrow, the sources said.

He was recalled after Sadat received a message from Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist party leader. The semiofficial Al Ahram newspaper said the message could facilitate an Egyptian-Soviet summit.

Political sources, however, said Sadat has failed to make headway in his effort to arrange the conference.

More Surgery?

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — A surgeon said yesterday Gov. George C. Wallace may have to undergo more surgery to drain abdominal abscesses resulting from bullet wounds.

"The abscess drained two weeks ago has been completely healed," Dr. George Hallenbeck said. "X-rays today showed a cavity connected with a previous drain site that will require more time for healing.

Dr. George Traugh, who is directing Wallace's physical therapy program at Spain Rehabilitation Center, said that program "would continue without modification."

In Montgomery, preparations were nearly complete for Wallace's return to the executive mansion. Officials said the time of the return would be left up to his doctors.

Black Is Appointed

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)— Dorothy Anne Farley, the first black psychiatricmental nurse scientist to graduate with a Doctor of Nursing Science Degree in the United States, was appointed by Gov. William T. Cahill Wednesday to the state board of nursing.

Just Another Car

DETROIT (UPI) — It seems any car is subject to recall — Even President Nixon's $500,000 Lincoln Continental limousine which was supposed to be delivered to Washington two days ago for an unveiling.

The five-ton armor-plated chariot was just another Ford to the White House Secret Service staff who found some bugs in the vehicle and left it on a hoist at the Ford Motor Co. Dearborn plant.

"The Secret Service wants some changes. We are not at liberty to discuss the changes," said William Peacock, a Ford spokesman.

Oath Of Office

LISBON (UPI) — Adm. Americo Thomaz took the oath giving him his third seven-year term as president of Portugal yesterday, only hours after three bomb explosions caused temporary power failures throughout the country.

The plastic charges damaged electrical cables, including one at Povoa de Santa Iria, 10 miles northeast of Lisbon. Official sources said the resulting power failure affected 30 per cent of the country, including sections of Lisbon, blacked out for almost two hours.

Thomaz, 77, was sworn in at Belem Palace before the national assembly, corporative chamber, the government and diplomatic corps.

Not Cooperating

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (UPI) — Arthur H. Bremer, sentenced to 63 years imprisonment for trying to assassinate Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, is refusing to cooperate with prison psychiatrists.

When a Prince Georges County jury found Bremer guilty last Friday, it also ruled him sane. But he was ordered by Judge Ralph W. Powers to undergo psychiatric evaluation.

Robert Grams, a Maryland state correctional spokesman, said yesterday that Bremer was "not cooperating 100 per cent" with his psychiatrists.

Romney Says Government Will Not Take Flood Responsibility

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (UPI) —HUD Secretary George Romney drew angry shouts from a crowd of flood victims Wednesday when he told them the federal government will not take over mortgages on homes and businesses destroyed by Tropical Storm Agnes in June.

His statement also sparked a charge by Gov. Milton J. Shapp that the federal government has shirked its responsibilities.

Romney, noting that his Housing and Urban Development Department has been asked to assume mortgages and restore flood victims to complete equity, told the hostile crowd:

"I think it is unrealistic. I do not believe government should assume complete responsibility for people. We must recognize that people have a responsibility, too."

One man in work clothes shouted: "I guess I've been wrong all these years. I thought government was made up by the people."

Mrs. Min Matheson, 63, spokesman for the group, told Romney the federal government was doing "a damn rotten job" in helping the 15,000 families in this area whose homes were severely damaged or destroyed.

"You have been here for two days messing around with politicians," she said. "Why didn't you talk to the people? The politicians don't give a damn whether we live or die!"

"It wasn't necessary to talk to the people to see what the problem was," Romney shouted back. "I am here. I have looked at the problem. I cannot talk to all the individual people.

"Most of the needs have not been met, even on a temporary basis. Nevertheless, government agencies have done more in six weeks than they have done in any other disaster in six months."

The confrontation on a windswept patio of an elementary school followed one private meeting of Romney and Shapp, then another of the secretary, governor and local officials.

Romney barred news media and private citizens from the second meeting. The flood victims tried to enter, but they were physically ejected by guards.

Mrs. Matheson and four others immediately sent a telegram to President Nixon protesting Romney's "inaction, apathy and unconcern" for their problems.

Shapp said there was "no reason the federal government can't do more." He proposed a revival of the Reconstruction Finance Agency (RFC), a mid-Depression agency created by President Herbert Hoover.

Romney said Shapp's suggestion was "very political."

Mr. Bernard Fetzer, proprietor and winemaker of Fetzer wines, called to say that at long last he had some wines to release to two or three Northern California wine shops. His wines have been very well received in Southern California where he first introduced them. The wines are estate bottled, and most are unfiltered and unfined which means they are as natural as they can be — made to last in the bottle, a policy I heartily endorse. We are proud to offer our customers the fine wines of Fetzer Vineyards.

Mr. Bob Thompson, wine columnist of the S.F. Examiner, and other wine professionals have been writing and saying very nice things about a Cru Bourgeois Bordeaux called Chateau Cissac. Ch. Cissac was selected by the world famous author and wine consultant, Mr. Harry Waugh, as an excellent example of a consistently well-made wine from a lesser known chateau. The 1967 Ch. Cissac is available in very limited quantity, but we await with great anticipation the 1970 vintage (the best in Cissac's history, and perhaps the best vintage of the century in all Bordeaux) which will be in our warehouse sometime in July or August of 1973. The 1970 will also be in short supply as the total production of Ch. Cissac is only about 1500 cases, but it will be very reasonably priced (under $6.00, probably) and we urge you to consider placing your orders now as we expect to have most of it sold before it leaves France. We can offer it at a substantial saving to those who place orders within the next three or four months. A wonderful wine, and a wonderful investment in terms of both financial and quality appreciation.

I am happy to report that our new stores at #100 Miracle Mile in San Anselmo, and at the corner of Blackfield and Tiburon Blvd. in Tiburon will be under construction in August. These two stores will be very large and have been designed with particular emphasis on wine. Both stores will have extremely broad selections of California and imported wines, and we look forward to Opening Day.

Our Wine of the Month this month is an imported Johannisberger Riesling which you will not want to miss.

Marinite Named In Insurance Plot

I-J Special Report

INDIANAPOLIS — Federal officials said today that a Tiburon real estate man arrested by the FBI in Tiburon Tuesday is charged with conspiring in a plan to burn down an Ohio warehouse and collect $420,000 in insurance.

William Andrew Stephen Hodge, 34, posted $2,500 bail in San Francisco yesterday and was ordered to appear again next Wednesday before U.S. Commissioner Richard Goldsmith, who set the bail after Hodge spent a night in jail.

Hodge was arrested Tuesday on a federal grand jury indictment handed down Monday in Indianapolis accusing him and four other men of conspiracy to commit arson in connection with a warehouse fire July 24 in Kenton, Ohio.

Hodge, who once owned the Kenton warehouse building, is accused of crossing Indiana and Ohio state lines to aid in racketeering and arson in connection with the alleged plot.

Other accused in the case include a fire adjuster, a securities dealer and another real estate agent.

At the tim of his arrest, Hodge was being questioned by Tiburon police about the theft of a briefcase last Thursday belonging to restaurant owner Lee Carbone and said to contain $28,000 in cash.

Carbone said the briefcase disappeared after he dined with Hodge at the Harbor Light tavern and the Dock restaurant, according to police.

Hodge reportedly drove Carbone and his wife to Tiburon Lodge, where the couple planned to spend the night. Shortly after midnight, Carbone's wife told her husband that his money-filled briefcase was gone, police said.

Police later reported finding $5,200 under the front seat of Hodge's car and said he told them that he had been given the money by Carbone as a tip for taking them to their hotel room.

Fire Board Weighs Annexation Request

Novato Fire Protection District directors last night were asked to annex 31 acres at the Marin Valley Mobile Country Club, south of Hamilton Air Force Base.

Representatives of the mobile home development are seeking annexation of the area where 196 mobile homes are planned, according to Fire Chief Jack Kidder. The board is to study the matter further before making a decision, he said.

Key Prisoner's Rights Ruling

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—A dispute over an inmate's chess board has resulted in a significant ruling in federal court on prisoner's rights and solitary confinement.

U. S. District Judge Thomas W. Masterson ruled Wednesday that due process must be followed before an inmate is put in solitary. He said that the need of the prison security "cannot be used to justify the deprivation of human rights.

The ruling came on a suit filed by Gaylord Nearl, 33, Philadelphia, a former inmate at Greaterford State Prison. He was put in solitary confinement for seven days in 1964 when he tried to appeal a $1 fine for illegal possession of a chess board.

Nearl, who was paroled in 1969 after serving a five-year term for armed robbery, sought $10,489 in damages. He was awarded $514.60.

Davis Trial Cost Still Going Up

SAN JOSE (UPI) — The cost to California taxpayers for Angela Davis' murder trial passed the $1.25 million mark yesterday.

A Santa Clara County administrative analyst added anothar $198,935 to his county's costs — mostly in overtime for sheriff's deputies — bringing the total to $684,900.

Voter Campaign

A national campaign aimed at registering young voters will begin in Marin Saturday at Nixon Headquarters, 1403 Fourth Street, San Rafael, Tom Hayden, chairman of the California Young Voters for the President, announced today. He urged young people to attend.

Plans Approved For Restaurant

Plans for extensive remodeling of Rico's restaurant in Sausalito were given conceptual approval last night by the city's Community Appearances Advisory Board.

Owner Sam Zakessian is seeking to add a second story to the brick structure at 1219 Bridgeway and remodel and reconstruct portions of the restaurant.

Rico's has been closed for several months since the lease of its former operator, Richard Blacow, expired and was not renewed.

Bolinas Board Vacancy Filled

A 65-year-old retired mechanical engineer was appointed last night to fill a vacancy on the Bolinas Community Public Utility District board.

Directors chose Mark L. Ireland, of 10 Hillside Avenue, to replace Fred W. Wade, who resigned last month.

Ireland, a three-year resident of Bolinas, retired in February from General Electric's nuclear energy department in San Jose.

He and his wife have three grown children.

The board passed resolutions necessary to put a $385,000 bond issue on the Nov. 7. ballot. The measure is to finance a proposed waste treatment and disposal system for the community.

Bureaucrats Accused Of Film Mogul Trend

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Barry M. Goldwater Jr., R-Calif., charged the government with spending $500 million a year to become "the largest single audio-visual producer in the world" and said it is robbing professional performers and technical personnel of jobs.

Goldwater Wednesday urged action by both President Nixon and Congress, saying that in production of motion pictures and radio and television tapes the government "has adopted a policy of not using professional personnel, particularly from the performing unions."

His 66-page report, which he said was the result of his own investigations, said "the various agencies and departments use secretaries and any other regular government employes that might be available."

Goldwater was joined in his protest against "unfair government labor practices" by Bill Baldwin, president of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA), AFTRA National Executive Secretary Sanford (Bud) Wolff, and Jack Dales, executive secretary of the Screen Actors Guild (SAG).

Goldwater and the AFTRA and SAG leaders said the government was producing its own films while private production facilities in Southern California and elsewhere sit idle and thousands of professional performers and technicians are jobless.

Goldwater said the present Republican administration was not solely to blame because the situation was typical of a "bureaucratic tangle that is so evident in many areas of government."

He estimated spending at $500 million in 1971.

The report said preliminary inquiries at 13 agencies which produce the most audio visual materials indicated that about $35 million was allocated for such production during the 1971 fiscal year. However, the report said, further investigation showed the amount to be at least $120 million and actual spending was apparently far more, the report said.

The report estimated that the Defense Department alone had spent more than $214 million rather than the $60.2 million it said had been budgeted for the purpose.

The report suggested that lack of coordination which resulted in duplication was one reason for the heavy spending.

"For example, in the last two years the Defense Department produced 12 films on "How to Brush Your Teeth."

Two Black Angus Cows Slaughtered

Two pregnant Black Angus cows were butchered in an Olema pasture along Shoreline Highway late Tuesday or early yesterday by "rustlers" who apparently were scared away.

The slaughter of the beef cows, owned by Olema rancher Boyd Stewart, was discovered yesterday morning on the Righetti pasure land north of Eucalyptus Hill leased by Stewart.

"I think someone startled them," Miss Swift said.

Cast aside were the bodies of the unborn calves. The cows were killed about 200 yards from Shoreline Highway and markings indicated the remains were dragged down to the roadway.

Miss Swift said she believed it took several persons to carry out the operation. "We'd like to find anybody who saw anything going on at the time, probably between midnight and dawn yesterday."

The cows were valued at $500 each and Stewart has offered a $1,000 reward for information about the killing.

leased in Washington was peppered with references to McGovern by name. The Defense Department said "Those who suggest that we can solve our public spending problem by peeling some easy billions off the defense budget are arguing not only with the Pentagon, but with reality, and reality is a formidable opponent."

The Democratic presidential candidate described the two-day trip through New Hampshire, Connecticut and Rhode Island, ending in New York City Friday as a "listening tour."

McGovern prepared for his first full-scale campaign trip Wednesday by mending fences with House Democrats. Accompanied by Sargent Shriver, his new running mate, McGovern spent an hour and a half with his party's congressmen, posing for pictures and then addressing the group.

Jury Clears Youth In Holdup Trial

A jury in Marin Superior Court yesterday acquitted Flozell Jefferson Beasley, 19-year-old San Rafael man said to be an Army deserter, of a charge of robbing a Vietnam veteran in San Rafael May 15.

Beasley, who first gave his name as Theodore Alexander when arrested, had been accused of taking about $20 at knifepoint from Theodore Mark, a soldier stationed at the Sacramento Army Depot.

Mark had claimed Beasley robbed him after he had given Beasley a ride to his San Rafael apartment from San Francisco.

After acquittal, Judge David Menary Jr., who heard the trial, ordered Beasley turned over to the Army.

WAR

fenders were heavily protected by big artillery pieces firing from up to 17 miles away.

Despite the limited success at Quang Tri, the situation was serious elsewhere and military spokesmen warned that a Communist force originally estimated at 100 tanks still menaced the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh and Saigon.

The tanks were reported near Highway 1 in the Kompong Trabek area 47 miles southeast of Phnom Penh and 85 miles northwest of Saigon. A Cambodian high command spokesman expressed fear the Communists would win at Kompong Trabek and then move toward Phnom Penh.

Meanwhile, seven Americans were killed in fighting in Vietnam last week and another 36 were wounded, most of them in a pair of Communist rocket attacks on U.S. bases, military spokesmen said today.

The U.S. command said 45,843 American servicemen have died in the Indochina fighting since 1961 and 303,296 have been wounded.

Cotati Trustees Slate Meeting

The Cotati School District board will meet in special session at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the district office to consider ways to provide temporary classrooms.

The Rohnert Park City Council Monday rejected a request to use city funds to buy temporary classrooms and suggested instead that the districts ask help from developers.

Developers have offered to lease houses adjacent to school sites for use as classrooms until schools are built.

OBITUARIES

Kevin Bardwell, 14, Dies In Ross Swimming Pool

Kevin Jude Bardwell, 14, apparently drowned yesterday afternoon while swimming in the pool at Cedars Development Foundation of Marin in Ross.

An autopsy has been scheduled, according to Deputy Coroner Bill J. Thomas, who said the boy had a history of epilepsy and that an epileptic seizure may have caused the drowning.

The boy was participating in a swim class as part of the foundation's summer school program when the accident occurred.

According to an official of the school one of the tpree teachers iced he was absent from the group and found him face down at the shallow end of the pool.

A native of Ohio, he moved to Marin 10 years ago. He lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bardwell at 87 Valley Road, San Anselmo. He attended Magnolia Park School in San Rafael.

He also leaves sisters, Cathie and Jolene, and two grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Nannini of San Anselmo.

A Mass of the Resurrection will be said at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at St. Rita's Church, Fairfax. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael. Recitation of the Rosary will be said at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills, San Rafael.

Memorial gifts to Cedars Development Foundation of Marin or Marin Aid to Retarded Children are preferred.

VALLEY

he could build to the existing zoning and density" if a developer meets the findings required by new planning laws, Von Gundell replied.

He pointed out that if the countywide general plan is adopted by the county and all the cities next year, state laws will require that all areas' zoning be revised to conform with it. Until then, the old zoning would apply unless the valley were changed to interim zoning as the supervisors did when they scrapped the so-called West Marin Master Plan for the Olema-Tomales area, last year.

Preserving the San Geronimo Valley may "be rough" on longtime landowners, the planner warned. "A lot of people will be hurt and disappointed" if they cannot develop their land, he said.

He said he knows only of minor subdivision plans in the valley now, but "there is something stirring in this area. We don't know what it is."

Gregg later said that so far as he knew, the large landowners mostly do not live in the valley. The major holder, he said, is the Lagunitas Land and Development Co.

J. Dietrich Stroeh, engineering chief for the Marin Municipal Water District, said the enlargement of the San Geronimo treatment plant, installation of new water mains and other projects in the valley were not related to new land development.

When the district took over the old valley water service in the 1950s, some of the "mains were only three-quarter-inch," he explained. The district has doubled the treatment plant to serve existing customers in southern and central Marin, Stroeh said, and to "optimize" the capacity of Kent and Nicasio lakes.

Lines are being extended in the valley only to make "loops for better pressure," not to serve new developments, Stroeh said.

Mrs. Behrensmeier explained that last night's meeting was called to get information on the developments hinted by the water system work and the "lifting of large parcels of valley land out of the agricultural preserve."

REFLECTIONS OF A 102 YEAR OLD

Memories of 102 years seem etched in the face of Emma Young as she is presented with a birthday cake at the McChesney Rehabilitation Hospital in San Rafael, where she has lived for the past four years. Surrounded by balloons, crepe paper and music, friends reminisced yesterday about her colorful life as a registered nurse and a professional opera singer who toured with opera great Enrico Caruso. Among her well-wishers were Marin County Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste and Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. President Nixon didn't attend, but he sent a letter of congratulations. Mrs. Young is the oldest patient at the institution, formerly Parkway Convalescent Hospital.

New Kind Of Flu Vaccine Developed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A new kind of flu vaccine containing live viruses has been developed by government scientists who believe it holds hope of greatly containing future influenza epidemics, it was disclosed today.

The vaccine still must be put through extensive tests and trials, before being licensed for use on the public. But scientists who reported the development were hopeful that this could be done before the next major expected U.S. flu epidemic in the latter part of the decade.

Disclosure of development of the new vaccine came in an article by the scientists in a monthly publication, "Journal of Infectious Diseases."

In their research at the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases of the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., the scientists said they employed the live, though weakened, viruses in developing the vaccine.

Present flu vaccines use dead viruses. They have been only partially successful in containing flu outbreaks, partly because, scientists say, flu viruses change their structure and can become resistant to both vaccine and natural immunities developed against them.

The new vaccine contains what was described as a hybrid virus that cannot withstand the heat of the lungs, where live virus can infect an individual. But it thrives in lower temperatures such as the nose and throat where it helps ward off infection, the scientists said.

They said they tested the vaccine on 45 volunteer inmates of a federal reformatory for men at Lorton, Va., near Washington.

They said 17 who took the vaccine via a nasal spray did not come down with flu when exposed to it, while 17 of the 28 others exposed to it, and not immunized, became ill.

Forum Set Tuesday On Marijuana

The Novato Parks and Recreation Department will sponsor a discussion on the initiative to legalize marijuana at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Novato High School lecture hall.

Youths and parents are invited to attend the discussion, part of the Novato Teen Club summer activities, the department reported.

The teen center will sponsor a trip to Stinson Beach Aug. 18. Further information about the trip can be obtained from Michael Ahern or Sue Larsen at the Center, located in the Novato High School cafeteria.

The parks and recreation department reported today that reservations are still available for a trip to the Ice Follies in San Francisco next Wednesday.

Reservations are limited to 70 persons and may be made at the department office, 917 Sherman Avenue.

Jewelry Theft Charges Denied

Terry Tuey, 28-year-old Sacramento beauty salon owner, pleaded innocent yestarday in Marin Superior Court to two counts of grand theft and one of petty theft stemming from items missing from a Sausalito home he was visiting.

Jury trial was set for Oct. 2.

He is accused of taking a $5,000 ruby ring, a $300 diamond ring, a $200 gold chain and $40 in coins from J. Gordon Levinson, Larry E. Lenschmidt and Gordon Johnson Jr., all of 260 Spencer Avenue.

Agreement On Pact Asked Of Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House has asked the Senate to approve the U.S. Soviet agreement limiting offensive nuclear weapons before it recesses next week for the Republican national convention.

The Senate must confirm the interim five-year agreement, signed by President Nixon and Chairman Brezhnev at the Moscow summit May 26, before further negotiations can begin.

Typographers Reject Election Endorsement

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Delegates to the 114th International Typographical Union Convention Wednesday maintained the union's tradition of not making political endorsements and rejected a resolution to support Sen. George McGovern.

A resolution calling for withdrawal of American troops from Southeast Asia was also rejected for the same reason.

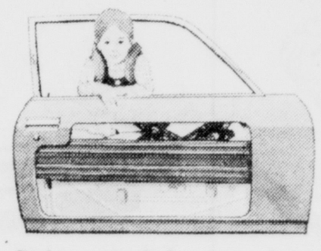
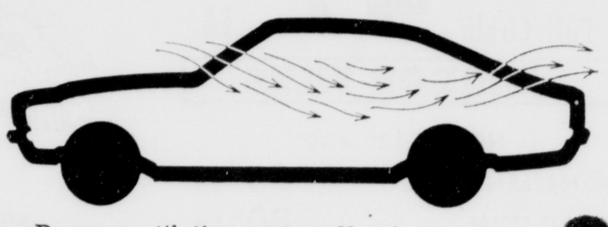
HIGHWAY 101 AT SWEETSER

IT'S EASY TO MAKE AN ECONOMY CAR THAT SELLS FOR A FEW DOLLARS LESS THAN VEGA.

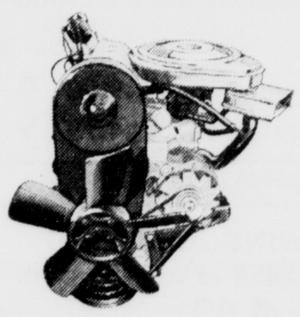
JUST LEAVE OUT THESE IMPORTANT FEATURES:



Side guard beams. Each Vega door is bolstered by a hefty steel beam that looks and works pretty much like the guard rails you see along a highway. You can't see them, but take our word they're there.



Power ventilation system. Vega's ingenious way to keep outside air continuously circulating inside even when the car is standing still and your windows are rolled up.



The engine. A specially designed overhead cam, aluminum block, 4-cylinder power plant. Big words to match an impressive performance. It delivers far more horsepower for its size than other little cars plus gas mileage that's right up there with the best of them.

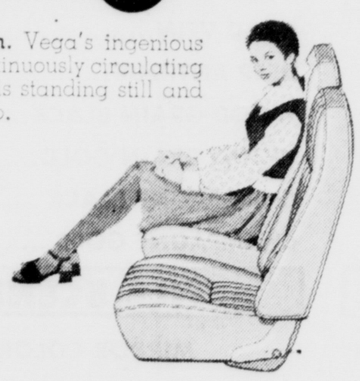
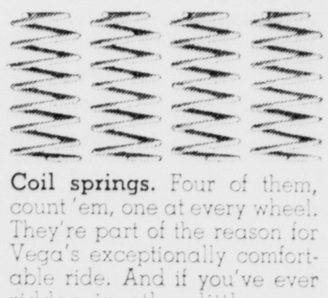
Hidden windshield antenna. Included when you order a factory installed AM or AM/FM radio.



Full foam bucket seats. No half-way measures here—full deep foam for your bottom and back, tapering up to form a built in headrestraint. Very sporty, as well as comfortable, to go along with the rest of the interior.



Coil springs. Four of them, count 'em, one at every wheel. They're part of the reason for Vega's exceptionally comfortable ride. And if you've ever ridden in other little cars, you'll appreciate what we mean.

Flush-and-dry rocker panels. See those tiny arrows? Assume they're raindrops gushing through your hood and down through your rocker panels to wash away salt and other sediment. Now assume they're little zephyrs of air drying up all that rain. One very effective way to fight ugly rust.

The battery. Every little car has one, obviously, but only Vega has a sealed side-terminal energizer-type battery. Which means your terminals will probably never corrode.

Double panel roof. One steel roof firmly attached to another steel roof to make Vega a little stronger on the outside and a little quieter on the inside.

Remember, buckling your seat and shoulder belts is an idea you can live with.

The map pocket. No big thing, really. But it's indicative of the many little touches you don't have to sacrifice in order to drive our little car. Besides, it's a good place to stash your candy bar wrappers.

HE FINALLY GAVE IT A GO

Herbert Hoover's old college roommate decided that, after 101 years on the ground, he'd "give this flying thing a try." So, Dr. Charles D. Snyder landed in San Francisco yesterday after a jetliner trip from Baltimore and was met by his son and daughter-in-law, with whom he will live on the Peninsula. Snyder, the oldest living graduate of Stanford University, shared a room with the former President and graduated in 1896. (UPI Telephoto)

Olive Avenue Annexation Is Approved

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission last night approved annexation of 94 acres on Olive Avenue to the City of Novato.

According to Tracy Friedman, the commission's assistant executive officer, annexation was approved on a 4-1 vote with Commissioner Louis H. Baar dissenting.

Baar sided with two residents of the sparsely populated area who opposed joining the city.

Other commissioners noted, however, that to exclude those residents' land from the annexation would be to create an island of unincorporated area surrounded by the city.

The commission also approved annexation of 26 acres on Laguna Vista Drive to the City of Novato.

The commission also gave the go ahead to its staff for a "spheres of influence study" to determine what should be the ultimate boundaries of Marin's 11 cities and numerous special districts.

Friedman said the cities and districts have been asked to submit their proposed future boundaries which will be reviewed and discussed at the commission's October meeting.

The commission's next meeting was shifted from Sept. 13 to Sept. 7 at the request of several commissioners.

Typewriter Stolen

An electric typewriter valued at $175 was stolen yesterday from the United Methodist Church, Fifth and D Streets, Petaluma police reported. Entry was made by breaking the office window.

Mendocino Timber Fire Still Raging

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Firefighters retreated a half mile today before a brush and timber blaze in Mendocino County, then set up new lines and backfires along existing roads in an effort to contain the 5,800-acre fire.

State Division of Forestry spokesmen said the 520 men battling the fire near Laytonville had been unable to hold one side because of extremely rough terrain.

So they backed off to the existing roads and began widening them and setting the backfires. The fire was considered 90 per cent contained by mid-morning and fire officials hoped to have it completely surrounded by lines about midnight.

Stiff winds pushed the blaze Tuesday afternoon, moving the flames so rapidly at one point that a husband-wife firewatcher team had to flee their lookout on 4,233-foot Cahton Peak near Branscomb.

They drove down the tower's access road when the fire moved to within a quarter-mile of the lookout point.

The blaze, largest of a series of scattered forest and brush fires started by arsonists and lightning storms in northern California, was being fought with nine aerial tankers, 29 bulldozers, two helicopters and 33 trucks.

The division said the probable cause was arson.

No structures are threatened, the division added, although the fire has ruined new growth timber including Douglas fir, brush and some redwood trees.

The largest of Tuesday's 87 lightning-caused fires ranged over 530 acres of brush and grass near Fall River Mills in Shasta County before being contained.

Still burning out of control is another lightning-caused fire five miles south of Portola in Plumas National Forest. The 450-acre fire is moving eastward toward Beckwourth Peak in a timbered area and is being fought by 425 men from the U.S. Forest Service.

Federal spokesmen said two crews of Flathead Indian fire fighters from Idaho would join in that battle today as well as aerial tankers.

The Plumas fire, one of 10 caused by lightning in that area, was contained until rekindled Wednesday by strong winds.

Most of the other lightning ignited blazes were small and quickly brought under control in the Modoc, Klamath and Shasta-Trinity National Forests.

Bennett Files Suit Against Phone Co.

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Consumer advocate William M. Bennett of Kent Woodlands has filed a suit in the state Supreme Court against partial rate increases granted to the Pacific Telephone Co. by the Public Utilies Commission.

The suit filed in the clerk's office of the court here Wednesday follows the PUC's order earlier this week for Pacific Telephone to refund $163 million to subscribers and to reduce present rates by $87.9 million.

The commission's new order, which resulted from the state Supreme Court's order in June nullify a $143 million increase, also granted Pacific Telephone a $124.3 million interim rate increase.

Bennett, a member of the state Board of Equalization and one of the attorneys who won the case nullifying the original rate increase, contended in the suit that the PUC did not reduce the rates to the point where they were ordered to do so by the court.

Bennett also said in the suit that the PUC did not hold open hearings in making its decision on the new rates.

The suit asks the court to block the PUC's new order and prohibit Pacific Telephone from going ahead with the interim rate increase.

Boards Taken From Construction Site

Redwood and Douglas fire boards worth $200 were stolen from a construction site at 190 Wilson Way in Larkspur that city's police reported.

Merritt Peter Bitz of 19 Mountain View Avenue, Mill Valley, told police he delivered the lumber at 4 p.m. Tuesday and when he arrived for work yesterday morning it was gone.

FBI's Gray May Seek More Funds To Beef Up Manpower

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Predicting a resurgence of kidnapings in the wake of the hijacking craze, acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III said today he may have to ask Congress for supplemental funds to beef up his force of nearly 9,000 agents.

Gray said in an interview he would justify the need for more agents because of "the increased amount of crime occurring in certain areas which require instant diversion of agents." He listed hijacking, kidnaping, bank robberies and bombings.

"I don't have that many agents to work with when you consider all I have to do," Gray said, mentioning the recent hijacking to Algeria and the record $1 million ransom paid kidnapers of the wife of a Minneapolis financier as cases which required instant assignment of many agents.

"We just had another a few hours ago," Gray said, punching a button on the huge console beside his desk to check the facts in the most recent kidnaping of the son of a wealthy Visalia, Calif., rancher.

"I think we're going to see more kidnapings stem from the hijacking of aircraft," Gray predicted. "It's really an outgrowth of air piracy cases. Others are beginning to see how easy money is to take and they say to themselves, 'We'll jolly well take someone and ask for ransom.'"

L. PATRICK GRAY III
Fears kidnap wave

Gray did not say how many more agents he might request.

The late J. Edgar Hoover, whom Gray succeeded last May 3, did not request any more staff when he made his annual appearance before the House Appropriations Committee.

Gray, who had been selected to become deputy attorney general until Hoover's death, ranged over many topics as he talked for more than an hour about his 14 weeks in the office occupied for 48 years by the founder of the FBI.

He said the first two women accepted as agent-applicants once he removed Hoover's all male ban were "doing very well" in their 14 weeks training period at the FBI academy at Quantico, Va.

Gray disclosed that he probably will not fill two top level vacancies in the FBI because the structure of the hierarchy established by Hoover "doesn't comport with the way I like to operate."

After Hoover died, two key men, who had held the title of assistants to the director, retired. They were Alex Rosen, who was in charge of all investigations, and John P. Mohr, who was responsible for all administrative matters.

"I prefer to deal more directly with the number two man," Gray explained, referring to W. Mark Felt, whom Hoover promoted to the number three spot behind his long time friend and associate director, Clyde A. Tolson. The ailing Tolson quit the day after Hoover's death May 2.

New Home Loan Rules Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Home Loan Bank Board proposed new regulations today to allow federal savings and loan associations to offer variable interest rate mortgages to home buyers for the first time.

The regulations merely permit savings and loan associations to offer such mortgages. Not only would the associations have the choice, but homebuyers could choose between a fixed and a variable interest rate when borrowing from federally insured savings and loan associations.

The regulations contain provisions for the variable interest rate to fluctuate both up and down according to a specified index that would be readily available to the homebuyer.

Variable interest rates could result in changes for either the term of the mortgage or the monthly payment or both. A mortgage could be extended to a maximum maturity of 35 years.

Chairman Preston Martin said the variable rate mortgage would appeal to the home buyer who finds himself locked into loans with high interest rates without being able to refinance them except by penalty fees.

He also said the change would make a home mortgage a more attractive investment, thus making money more readily available to borrowers, especially during tight-money situations.

Lenders like the idea because it offers protection against an inflationary impact as reflected by rising interest rates.

SEWAGE WATCHDOGS

Powerful New Bay Agency Forms

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — San Jose Mayor Norman Y. Mineta has been elected president of the powerful new Bay Area Sewage Services Agency at the initial meeting of the nine-county regional government agency.

The agency, created by the 1971 Legislature, is empowered to force construction of sewage facilities when local officials either cannot or will not act. The agency can step into a community and tax property to finance sewage facilities needed to meet the agency's master plan.

Run by a 21-member appointed board of trustees, the agency (BASSA) has until Jan. 1, 1974, to complete its regional water quality management plan. It also will enforce it by exercising veto power over water pollution control projects by local government agencies which do not conform with the regional plan.

The agency also will review applications by local agencies for state or federal funds for sewage facilities.

Alameda and Santa Clara counties each have five members on the board, San Francisco has three, Contra Costa and San Mateo counties each have two and Marin, Sonoma, Napa and Solano each have one. Marin's representative is San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini.

Mineta and San Leandro Mayor Jack D. Maltester, who was chosen vice president, will serve on the agency's executive committee along with San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein, Daly City Mayor Bernard J. Lycett and Charles Gibbs, a director of the Central Costa Sanitary District.

The board named Robert Bernicchi of Daly City, engineer-manager of the North San Mateo Cgunty Sanitary District, as temporary secretary to provide clerical support until the agency finds an office and hires a staff.

The board also voted to meet on the first and third Wednesday evenings of each month, probably in the Alameda County Board of Supervisors chambers in Oakland. Details of the next full board meeting, set Sept. 6, will be announced.

The executive committee, which will meet more frequently, will hold its first session at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the San Francisco Board of Supervisors conference room in City Hall.

The agency's costs will be paid by the nine counties, each paying a share proportional to its population. The maximum county share is the equivalent of a property tax rate of one-half cent per $100 assessed valuation.

$17.5 Million Added For Storm Victims

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Appropriations Committee has added $17.5 million to President Nixon's request for $1.56 billion to aid victims of tropical storm Agnes.

The committee approved the administration request Wednesday but added $1.5 million for a flood control project at Cowanesque Lake, Pa., and $16 million to replenish the emergency fund of the Army Corps of Engineers, which has been depleted by flood fighting work.

Copies Of Health Plan Available

Copies of the Marin County "Plan for Health" are available in room 400 of the civic center or by calling the Comprehensive Health Planning Council there.

Prepared by the council, the plan spells out specific recommendations for solving the county's health care problems. It will be the subject of four public hearings.

Dr. Michael L. Harris, council president, said, "It is extremely importnat that we involve as many people as possible. The hearings will cover each general area of the county, from Novato to Bolinas, providing an opportunity for broad community response."

Public hearings, all at 8 p.m., will be: Aug. 17, Board of Supervisors chambers, civic center; Aug. 22, Bolinas Public Utilities District building, Bolinas; Aug. 31, Manzanita Center, Marin City; Sept. 7, Novato Community Center.

1972-73 Tamalpais CSD Sewer Charges Unchanged

The Tamalpais Community Services District board has granted salary increases of about 9 per cent to its three full-time employees, according to board member Glenn Lambacher.

The new salary figures will add about $2,499 to the services district budget for 1972-1973.

The board also tentatively set district sewer service charges at $45 for a house and $22.50 for an apartment unit. According to Lambacher, the rates are unchanged from last year.

A public hearing will be held on the sewer service charges at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the services district office, 305 Bell Lane.

Last Tuesday night, the district's parks and recreation commission requested $13,000 more this year to develop Eastwood Park. However, no board action was taken on the request.

The board recommended that builders of the proposed additions to the Villa Marin apartments construct a new sewer line from the apartment complex to the district's pump station, rather than sending its sewage through the existing sewer main. A new line would be about a quarter-mile long, Lambacher estimated.

$138 Million School Budget Is Adopted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco's Board of Education adopted a $138 million budget early today for the 1972-73 fiscal year.

The budget is $1.3 million less than recommended by Superintendent Thomas A. Shaheen and would reduce the tax rate by two cents—making it $4.08 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Not One Objection At Annex Hearing

A decade ago, no one anywhere around San Rafael would have suggested that Terra Linda could be absorbed by the City of San Rafael without a knock-down, drag-out battle.

In 1961, Terra Lindans had turned down quite emphatically a proposal for annexation. A majority of them wanted no part of the city. They would "go it alone" — and have it much better, in their belief.

But on Monday night, not a single objection to the proposed annexation was raised at a hearing by the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission. Richard Less, chairman of the Terra Linda Community Services District — which will go out of existence if the area is annexed — did not even appear, figuring the matter was "just routine."

Those who organized the Terra Linda Community Services District in an attempt at 'home rule" and "escape from San Rafael domination" would have been flabbergasted.

QUITE A FEW things have happened to remove the hostility which residents "north of thehill" felt against San Rafael a decade ago. And most importantly, they have learned that it costs a lot of money to have "home rule" in a community which is almost entirely residential —and that the "home rule" obtainable through a community services district isn't very extensive.

This year, Terra Lindans paid a property tax of $1.48 per $100 assessed valuation to support their community services district. In return they got an almost-all-volunteer fire department, some community facilities and parks, and a recreation program.

San Rafael residents paid a city tax of 92 cents per $100 assessed valuation. In return they got full city services, including all-professional fire and police departments, city library, full recreation program, and better street maintenance than the county provides Terra Linda.

IT HAS BEEN evident to Terra Linda leaders for several years that they would get more for a lower tax bill if they joined the city. A principal hangup has been the bonded indebtedness of the CSD, which it in turn absorbed from the Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District.

About $181,000 of this indebtedness is still outstanding. Last year the CSD had to levy 14.5 cents per $100 valuation to make its payment. The bonds won't be paid off until 1991.

The City of San Rafael, however, can pay off those bonds out of revenues which will accrue from the annexation — including sales tax and state subventions which now go into county coffers —without any additional tax levy.

So, purely as a matter of economics, annexation makes such eminent good sense that there was no reason for opposition at the LAFC hearing.

BUT THERE'S MORE than economics involved. And perhaps weighing more heavily than the saving in taxes, for most Terra Lindans, is the realization that they may actually have more say about their local government as part of the city than as a limited-power CSD in unincorporated territory.

If the LAFC hearing is an indicator, the annexation will be voted overwhelmingly when it goes before the electorate. And that, too, would flabbergast those Terra Linda leaders of a decade ago.

Do All Who Shout 'Peace!' Really Want It? If They Did, The World Would Have No War

Politicians call for it. Governments say they want it. Protesters march for it — but do all the voices that shout "peace" actually want it? Never has the clamor against war been louder, but as this article, first printed in the Christian Science Monitor Dec. 16, 1936, shows, the longing for peace is nothing new. . . and neither are the munitions of war.

By ROBIN ENGLAND

Asked if he wants peace, the man in the street will answer "Yes," without hesitation. But this is not accurate. What he means is, "No, I do not necessarily want peace; I want war — when it suits me, where it suits me, how it suits me, and I want to be pretty sure of winning before I start. I certainly do not want to be forced to fight for something which does not affect or interest me personally, at a time inconvenient to me, or at a risk too great. But fight I will in my own time and place."

And fight he does. He verbally fights his neighbor over the garden wall — if he feels in the mood; he fights his rival through the law — if he is confident of victory; he fights by scheming to oust his competitor from the market — if he fears for his livelihood; he even fights by stealing — if he thinks he can get away with it.

ALL THIS STRIFE indicates a mental condition of perpetual opposition, strain, and stress: it pictures a state of siege, with everybody and everything forming the investing army. This is war in essence. These little private wars going on in individuals are the sparks that in time burst into the great conflagration. It needs but a clever and unscrupulous schemer to gather these war thoughts, focus them on a common enemy, fan them by propaganda, and lo! a first-class war!

But it is no new creation. It is but a collection, organization, and manipulation of what already existed. It seems unaccountable that so many great speakers today say, "The vast majority of the people in the world want peace." They do not. If they did they would have it, and have it permanently, for they entirely control the situation.

It is a well-known saying that it takes two to make a quarrel. If this "vast majority" would refuse to be the "ones" of the "twos," there could be no quarrel.s If they would "seek peace and ensue quarrels. if they really desired peace, peace with their relatives, friends, and neighbors, and made real efforts to live peaceably with them, then would prevail such harmonious living that even the word "war" would be eliminated from their vocabulary.

EVERY PERSON who harbors thoughts of enmity is a munition maker. Those who hate are manufacturers of bombs: those who are jealous are makers of poison gas. They are. Here is no metaphor. Hatred, jealousy, cruelty, greed, fear, pride, are munitions of war. The things made of iron and chemicals are but the inanimate expression of the real munitions: and are, of themselves, helpless, and, unsupported by the real munitions they are also harmless.

We read of the mystery that though the people individually do not want war, yet nations are surely drifting toward it; we need only to qualify the statement and the mystery disappears. Individuals certainly do not want the sort of war that nations indulge in, but unless they are actively engaged in seeking peaceful solutions to every domestic and business problem that confronts them, they are actively engaged in making munitions for the sort of war they do not want.

War is a terrible master, and once submitted to, once people consent to fight, quarrel, hate, and suspect, they have submitted to the decree of Mars, who says, "You have shown your liking for war, now you shall have it." It is a fallacy to suppose that individual peace-lovers can become united into a warlike mass. There is nothing in the mass that is not first in the individual, and the mesmerism of masses merely liberates the feelings that are normally restrained by pride, fear, shame, or honest desire to reform.

REAL REFORMATION must begin in the individual: it must come by quiet reading, thinking, teaching, and practicing. It is hopeless to try to teaeh a crowd. A cheering, hilarious horde is but noise, signifying neither friendliness nor enmity, support nor opposition, beyond the lifetime of the froth that has been beaten up: but a man who steadfastly sets himself the task of loving his neighbor is a real peacemaker.

Here may it be said that he, perhaps being English, for example, does not have to declare heroically that he loves Chinese, Hindus, Hottentots, and Bushmen, all of whom he is fairly sure not to meet, but he has to love the man next door with the too-loud radio, the lady whose car spoils his flowerbed, the boys who draw pictures in the dust on his new car.

It is here, right home in his own home in his own house, that he must begin to shatter the war-plant, and when he no longer produces the mental munitions, he will find that as he ceases to war on his neighbor, his neighbor has no incentive to war on him, and then another factory is demolished. By this process and by this alone can war be eliminated from human experience.

Reducing Sign Size Won't Hurt Business

Mr. Graff's letter (Aug. 3), complaining that ugly sign removal in San Anselmo will hurt business, is full of strange and fallacious assumptions about the consumer. Reducing sign size is approved of by just about everyone — consumer and taxpayer alike. Many people, myself included, do not patronize businesses with huge garish signs . . .

We in San Anselmo applaud our city planning commission, and no one, Mr. Graff, will drive on into San Francisco to buy shoes when you reduce your sign size.

Sign Complaint Aimed At Wrong City Board

Reference is made to letter to the editor entitled "Sign Removal Will Hurt Business" appearing in your issue of Aug. 3 and written by Mr. Rube Graff. It is obvious that Mr. Graff is in disagreement with our sign ordinance and it is also obvious that he has singled out the wrong body as his target for criticism. For the benefit of the general public, matters concerning signs are within the jurisdiction of the design review committee and are not the responsibility of the planning commission.

Buses Are Filled With Exhaust Fume

Ever ride one of our new buses to the city or anywhere in the county? If you do, and the sun is even shining (never mind what the temperature is), wear a gas mask. The operators of the new "air-conditioned" buses keep the air system going full blast, sucking in the exhaust fumes and stink from every car on the highway, and it is forced down a rider's lungs with aid of a motor! Ask one of these drivers to cut it down and you get a stony silence and no action.

They're yelling for business and doing what they can to discourage it.

Maybe if you'll publish this, the Transit Company there in San Rafael will sit up and take action to stop the bus riders from having to ride in a stinking, drafty bus.

Reasons For Not Restricting Handguns

1. Murder, assassination, robbery, kidnaping, etc. are already illegal, and they were common activities of mankind long before guns were invented.

2. If it is really the crime you want to stop, then put the blame on the perpetrator, not the tool he has misused. Punish him, not the law-abiding owners of similar tools, or their manufacturers.

3. Even if we could outlaw handguns (remember Jack Kennedy was killed with a carbine) effectively, the criminal would only turn to knives, poisons, meathooks, ropes, ground glass, baseball bats or even his bare hands. Would you outlaw all those too?

4. Did prohibition cure alcoholism? Has Ralph Nader stopped automobile accidents? Is the beer can manufacturer to blame for roadside litter? Are printing presses the cause of pornography?

5. Isn't it odd that the same slobbering social engineers who have stopped capital punishment also want to blame the firearms manufacturers for crime?

Your analogy with the licensing of automobiles or drivers was incorrectly drawn because you are talking about a prohibition of guns. Actually, handguns and their owners are already registered and controlled in a way similar to that of automobiles and their operators. In neither case have regulations stopped killings. . .

I don't own a gun. I never have, and I may never want one, but neither you nor Professor Zimring, who is a persumptious fat head for putting all homeowners down as clumsy jerks likely to shoot their own relatives, should prevent my neighbor from owning one if he desires. . .

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Sauce For The Gander In Public Representation

By EARL G. WATERS

In a noble effort to inject more consideration for the public and less concern about the imagery of the various professions, Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco, sponsored legislation to broaden the membership of the professional licensing boards.

The idea that perhaps the public would be better protected by having public members serve along with the professionals on these boards is not new. Proposals to add a public member to such boards as the medical examiners and dental board came to fruition amid moans and groans from the boards during the administration of Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

On the theory that what's good for one is good for all, the Legislature adopted measures installing one public member on almost all of these boards.

IN PRACTICE it was learned that just having one layman on a board didn't achieve the purpose of enforcing upon the professionals the idea that their function was the protection o the public, not their professional image.

Either the lone public member was wooed and won by the professionals or else, not wishing to be the skunk at the party, refrained from expressing discordant views.

It was perception of this situation which prompted Willie Brown to sponsor his bill substantially increasing the number of public members.

In achieving passage in the Assembly, Brown argued that the influence of laymen with broad experience on the boards would have a balancing effect on the tendencies of the professionals.

BROWN WAS FAIRLY thorough in his coverage of the boards. He included nearly all of the healing arts professions and gathered in some others including the accountants and contractors.

Unfortunately, excepting the dry cleaners, he overlooked some of the boards which in the past have demonstrated a greater need for outside help than even the doctors or others in the healing arts.

Assemblyman Ray E. Johnson, R-Chico, was quick to point this out and offered an amendment to include the board of governors of the California Bar Association.

AMIDST SCREAMS from Brown that Johnson was hijacking his bill, Johnson argued that it didn't seem right to give the doctors and others the help of experienced laymen and deprive the lawyers of such leveling influence.

Despite the fact that there are a large number of attorneys serving assemblymen, Johnson's arguments were persua sive and his amendment carried the day.

The turn of events so confused Brown that he inadvertently voted against the bill and then quickly changed his vote. He said ruefully, however, that he wasn't sure he still supported the bill.

STROUT IN WASHINGTON

Hazardous To Your Health But Subsidized By Your Taxes

By RICHARD L. STROUT

WASHINGTON — To Frank Moss it seemed ridiculous. Here the government has banned cigarette advertising from the airwaves and at the same time it spends millions to promote the raising of tobacco. Since Mr. Moss is the junior senator from Utah and, incidentally, a Democrat and a Mormon, he made his views known in Senate debate on the agriculture appropriations bill the other day.

It is rather odd, when you come to think of it. The authoritative surgeon general's report in 1964 left no doubt that cigarette smoking is a health hazard, and he has followed it up with half a dozen subsequent reports. Each cigarette package now carries a compulsory health warning. And yet tobacco farmers make their livelihood from the crop, just as do hard-working farmers in certain warm climates from raising poppies. The two things are not in the same order of magnitude, of course; yet each group has a big economic stake in his traditional agricultural pursuit.

WHAT GRIPES Mr. Moss is that the federal government should subsidize tobacco raising. All he wants to do is to let Uncle Sam's right hand know what his left hand is doing. Tobacco-state senators sighed as stocky, moustached Mr. Moss rose for the third year in his rather lonely crusade, which is virtually unnoticed by the press but has the possibility of becoming decidedly awkward. He would not ban tobacco raising; he would cut out government subsidies.

"We have going in this country a major effort to combat the effects of smoking," Mrs. Moss began. "We spend several hundred thousands dollars to publicize the health hazards of cigarette smoking.

"We spend several hundred thousand dollars to develop ways to help those who wish to stop smoking."

He paused and went on grimly:

"And we spend millions and millions and millions of dollars supporting the growth, export, advertising, promotion, and grading of this deadly plant which will result in the deaths of more than 50,000 people during the next year . . ."

NOBODY IS SURE what the government tobacco subsidy is, but it may reach $60 million or $70 million. There is the price support program, for example; also export subsidies to aid U.S. tobacco sales abroad; and the subsidized inspection and grading of tobacco, the only crop save cotton supported by free inspection.

Wouldn't it be more logical, reasoned Mr. Moss, to use some of that money to encourage tobacco farmers to turn to some other crop?

"This is a most vicious amendment," exclaimed Herman E. Talmadge, D-Georgia, who, by seniority, has risen to chairmanship of the agriculture committee. He said it would "make paupers out of tobacco growers and cause harm to our national economy."

NOBODY SUPPORTED Mr. Moss as he threw his annual brick into the angry hive of tobacco-state senators. There are around 500,000 tobacco farms in the country, raising two billion pounds, many from small allotments. Like others, Mr. Talmadge emphasized the economic argument. The proposal to make the industry pay for its own grading and inspection is "a contemptible provision," he said, "as are all of the purposes of the amendment."

Senators Cooper and Cook of Kentucky denounced the Moss amendment, as did Sam J. Ervin Jr. of North Carolina and Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, two other interested states. Mr. Ervin struck an emotional note:

"Mr. President," he said, "this amendment will take the bread out of the mouths of hundreds of little children residing in 25 different states."

Mr. Thurmond said whiskey is more dangerous than tobacco and why didn't Mr. Moss attack that? And Mr. Moss replied drily that "if the country ever begins to subsidize" the former he would be on the floor promptly to cut it out.

No roll call vote was taken, and the Moss amendment was rejected.

Everyone At ITT Was Rooting For Anderson On Eagleton Story

WASHINGTON — I am happy to report that Jack Anderson was not all alone during the greatest crisis of his career, when he falsely accused Sen. Thomas Eagleton of being cited for traffic violations while under the influence of.

I have jsut received the tapes of the first call Anderson received after the story broke that he had no proof to back up the charges. It was from his old friend, ITT lobbyist Dita Beard.

"JACK," SHE SAID, "I just wanted you to know that everyone here at ITT is rooting for you."

"It's nice of you to call," Jack said. "You know, it was all a terrible mistake."

"Of course, it was a terrible mistake. I was sying to Hal Geneen yesterday, 'Hal, I can't believe Jack would knowingly do something like this. He must have been under great pressure.' Hal agreed and said, 'It broke my heart when I read about it. I didn't sleep a wink all night.'"

"Geneen said that?" Anderson asked.

"I give you my word. He told me to call you and say that everyone in the ITT organization, including the Hartford Fire Insurance Co., is hoping you'll come out of this okay. He didn't talk to Attorney General Kleindienst, but he is sure he feels the same way."

"GOSH, THAT'S REALLY nice of all of you."

"What are friends for? Hal wants to know if you'd like the company plane to go away for a while."

"No, I'm going to stay here in Washington and keep apologizing."

"What about a good hospital in Denver where you could rest up?"

"I'll take the name, but I doubt if I'll need it."

"Would you like to go to San Diego and stay at one of our new Sheraton hotels?"

"WELL, COULD WE lend you our paper shredder? You mightwant to destroy the photostats of Eagleton's drunk-driving tickets."

"There are no photostats of Eagleton's tickets," Anderson said sadly.

"No photostats? Everyone here said there had to be photostats or you wouldn't have gone with the story," Dit said.

"It wasn't my fault," Anderson said. "I had this source, a former high official in Missouri, and he told me he had seen them, and I was afraid of being scooped because I knew a lot of reporters were on the same story. So I broke it."

"Well, that makes sense," Dita said. "Anyone would have done the same thing in your shoes. By the way, could you use some shoes? ITT makes nice shoes."

"I DON'T NEED anything, Dita. Your call is enough as far as I'm concerned."

"Geneen's been getting a lot of calls from the press asking waht he thinks of Anderson now, and you know what he's been saying? He's been saying that his opinion of you is the same as it was before the Eagleton story."

"That's what I call a pal," Andrson said.

"Would you like to go to the Kentucky Derby next year, when this whole thing blows over?" Dita asked.

"It sounds good," Anderson said. "Let me think about it."

"THE THING to remember, Jack, is that these things are forgotten in no time. It may be a big story today, but tomorrow people will be wrapping fish in it. Don't get discouraged, and keep in mind that the entire ITT group, including those companies the Justice Department is unfairly forcing us to divest, is behind you 1,000 per cent."

"I don't know what to say," Anderson said, sobbing.

Bar Association Opens Convention

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The American Bar Association opened its 95th annual convention today with its board of governors huddling in closed session and 7,500 members settling in for a week of speeches and seminars.

The 21-member board of governors, the administrative body of the association which represents slightly less than half of the nation's lawyers, held the first of two days of executive sessions.

The only meetings scheduled for the expected 7,500 members were the continuing National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, which began last weekend, a day-long session of the National Associaton of Women Lawyers, the start of a three-day seminar on traffic court problems, and luncheon session of the National Associaton of Bar Executives and National Organization of Bar Counsel.

Major general meetings won't get underway until Monday, when the 315-member policy-making House of Delegates and the ABA Assembly, consisting of all association members, begin four days of sessions.

During the convention, 21 of the ABA's professional sections, 32 committees and more than a dozen affiliated organizations will hold meetings.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger will deliver his third annual "State of the Judiciary" address to the Assembly on Monday and U.S. Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst will be keynote speaker Tuesday. Other speakers include the Rt. Hon. Lord Widgery, lord chief justice of England, and comedian Bob Hope.

The House of Delegates will consider recommendations and reports on "no-fault" auto insurance, uniform marriage and divorce acts, removal of criminal penalties for simple marijuana possession and government consideration of licensing marijuana distribution, encouraging law schools to admit more women students, a code of judicial conduct, electronic surveillance, citizen anti-crime patrols, the world court, and judicial review of all cases involving men now under death sentence.

The house's decisions are considered the official policy of the ABA, which has 157,182 members across the country. This amounts to 46 per cent of the nation's 342,980 lawyers.

Big Missouri Welcome Planned For Eagleton

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., dropped as the vice presidential candidate on the Democratic ticket, planned a triumphal return to his home state tonight.

Many of Eagleton's supporters are expected to greet him as he steps off an airplane at Lambert Field. The pla was to land at the old terminal building on the edge of the airport so that crowds would not disrupt air service at the main terminal.

Shortly after Eagleton and democratic presidential nominee George McGovern made the joint announcement that Eagleton was no longer on the ticket Rep. James Symington, D-Mo., said that Missourians should begin preparing "the biggest welcome" for Eagleton when the senator returns home.

Apparently Symington's statements have struck a responsive note with other Missourians. In the voting by the Democratic National Committee Tuesday night on McGovern's choice of Sargent Shriver as the new vice presidential candidate the Missouri delegation cast all of its 73 votes for Eagleton in a symbolic show of support for the state's junior senator.

3 Sewage Plants To Be Consolidated

The San Rafael Sanitation District board last night agreed to consolidation of three Central Marin sewage plants and called for a joint meeting with the Ross Valley Sanitary District board.

The two boards will hammer out a consolidation and joint powers agreement regarding the administration, financing and environmental impact of the proposed plant merger before next April, according to Norris M. Rawles, San Rafael district administrator.

The board set no date for the joint meeting, Rawles said.

The consolidation plan, drawn up by consultants John Jenks and J. Warren Nute, calls for enlargement of the Ross Valley district's plant on East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and the eventual closure of San Quentin's plant and San Rafael's main plant on Irene Street off Francisco Boulevard.

Consolidation will cost about $13 million with 80 per cent state and federal funding, Rawles said. San Rafael's share will be about $1 million but "we don't know if the money will come from a bond issue, tax hike or other means," said Rawles.

Under the plan, sewage will be dumped into deep bay water off Point San Quentin, 200 feet below low tide level.

14 San Quentin Inmates Taken Off Death Row

The 14 include Dovie Carl Mathis, who in December 1966 came within 23 hours of going to the gas chamber when a federal court ordered a stay of execution and Charles D. (Tex) Watson, a member of the Charles Manson cult.

Watson, 26, on Death Row since last November, was convicted of leading the death team that committed the Tate-La Bianca murders in Los Angeles.

Others who will be integrated into San Quentin's general population are Lawrence Akin Jackson, 45, convictej of the rape-murder of a 52-year-old woman and a Death Row inmate since 1963; Norman J. St. Martin, 44, on death row since July 1970 for the 1968 stabbing of a fellow inmate at Folsom Prison; Dennis Stanworth, 30, on the row since 1970 for the murder of two teen-aged girls in Pinole and Thomas Lamas Varnum, on Death Row since 1968 for the 1963 shooting of a Los Angeles gas station attendant during a robbery.

Also returning to the general prison population this week are Robert Emmet Thornton, 45, the convicted killer of a 45-year-old San Gabriel housewife, on the row since 1967; 26-year-old Michael J. Schwerdtfeger, sentenced to die in December 1969 for the slaying of a service station attendant during a robbery in Vallejo and Herschel A. Gay, 28, a convicted murderer from San Luis Obispo who has been on Death Row since March 1971.

Robert Page Anderson, 35, also due to join the general prison population this week, killed a San Diego pawn shop owner in 1965 and subsequently held off police during a gun battle that raged for four hours.

Million L. McShane, 29, who came to San Quentin in 1969 after he was sentenced to death for shooting a victim he had kidnapped, was transferred to Vacaville.

Richard Welch, on Death Row since August 1969 for killing a young hitchhiker in the Tehachapi Mountains has been moved to Soledad Pirson.

Billy Fonville, 26, a Death Row inmate since July 1971, has been transferred to Soledad Prison North. He stabbed a man during a robbery attempt.

John B. Miller, 52, who has been at the prison since August 1968, for killing a Stanislaus County sheriff's deputy during the investigation of a knifing, was transferred to Vacaville.

Aide Who Attended Convention Rehired

REDDING (UPI)—A Redding woman fired from her government job because she participated in the Democratic National Convention has been rehired to the post.

Mrs. Catherine Barr was rehired Tuesday night as administrative assistant to the Shasta County Community Action Project. The action was taken by the project's board of directors in an executive session.

Mrs. Barr was dismissed last month after she participated in the convention in violation of the Federal Hatch Act which restricts political activities by government employes. On July 31, a federal court ruled the act was unconstitutionally vague pending a U.S. Supreme Court review.

Mrs. Barr attended the board meeting to discuss her case.

She said she was prepared to reiterate her stand against accepting the job on those conditions but the board "decided it could rehire without those conditions."

Mrs. Barr, who said she was "very pleased" with the board's action, said she probably will file suit in an attempt to get her back pay. She attended the convention while on vacation.

Meet Dr. Brothers, Psychologist

FORMER MODEL and television personality, Dr. Cassandra Brothers of Sausalito warms up for the dancing part of her mind-body psychotherapy course. The clinical psychologist leads a talk-session first and then exercises with her patients to learn why they are repressed in their ability to move. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)

Sausalitan Won't 'Put A Bandage On A Crisis'

By PAT BALMES

"Going to a psychologist can make a good situation even better. More and more emphasis is being placed on circumventing problems before they develop into trouble. It's not so much a luxury as a good investment," said clinical psychologist Cassandra Brothers of Sausalito.

When the 25-year-old Dr. Brothers came to San Francisco from Houston two years ago, she treated patients in crisis at a San Francisco hospital's psychiatric ward. One was convinced he could crush light bulbs in his bare hands. Most were too far gone to be helped; they were just being maintained on drugs, she said.

"It was a cultural shock. I don't have the temperament to cope with these violent people," she said.

She decided to redirect her career to preventing trouble instead of "putting a bandage on a crisis."

Wanting to help productive people make their lives better, she became research director for a family therapy institute in Marin and taught psychology at College of Marin.

She also commuted to Los Angeles for eight months to lecture to medical doctors and clergy on Masters and Johnson methodology "about sexual issues most had never heard of." Dr. Brothers is a therapist in marital problems, sexual relations and dysfunctions.

NOW AT her Mill Valley office she assesses pre-schoolers, leads mind-body therapy groups, gives marriage counseling, holds parent-effectiveness sessions, a Sunday confrontation group and obesity clinics, and helps adolescent boys adjust to their peers.

Affiliated with a group of pediatricians, she makes routine assessments of their preschool patients. All but 5 per cent of those parents appraoched joined her innovative pilot program.

"Everyone will do this within the next 10 years. Most pediatricians don't have time. And they would be opening a Pandora's box of troubles with which they aren't equipped to deal," she said.

She has added to her staff a psychomotrist (test data analyzer), a language specialist and a learning-disability specialist. She is on a consulting basis with a neurologist and a psychiatrist.

Dr. Brothers confers daily with the pediatricians about their preschool patients. When intervention is necessary, they can pick up a "hot line" to her. When medication is in question, they work together to regulate it.

Upon finding a child with problems she works with his entire family so the child will not be put back into the same bad situation.

Recently, in talking to the mother of a disturbed child she found that the marriage was in difficulty. It was a case of lack of information which she could solve; the problem had a happy ending.

MANY ADULTS come to her for marital counseling through their children. Approximately one-third are physicians or paramedical professionals who have "so little time to spend with their families."

Working 60 hours a week, Dr. Brothers realized that she was getting into bad physical shape. At a San Francisco dance group she met physical therapist Evalee Harrison. Together they planned mind-body therapy for Dr. Brothers's patients to begin Monday.

The first hour will be psychotherapy and then Dr. Brothers will change into a leotard to join her patients in dance therapy directed by the physical therapist.

"I will see why they are repressed in their ability to move. I will see different aspects of their personalities in different situations when they are more natural. And I will get my exercise in," she said. A neurotic cannot express himself, cannot take responsibility for his actions and cannot be assertive. Poor self-esteem is synonymous with poor mental health, she said.

Lack of self-esteem is the problem of the adolescent boys Dr. Brothers takes on field trips, which are planned so they will be able to react to new situations.

"I missed being a teen-ager," she said, explaining her many recreational interests. "I feel that people do not have to live their lives chronologically."

AS A CHID in San Antonio, Tex., she became interested in reading at 3, "taught school" in the neighborhood and "tried to drain the libraries." She graduated from high school at 16.

Her father was an investment banker. Her uncle, a surgeon, interested her in medicine. Her mother was "an expert bridge player who did not encourage academic pursuits. She thought I should join the Junior League, like everybody else."

Graduating from University of Houston at 19, she applied to its graduate school which accepted only 27 candidates for the psychology doctorate program from among 3,000 applicants.

"They laughed and told me to go to home ec. I had to run an extra mile to prove my seriousness. I did not fit their idea of what a graduate student should be," said Dr. Brothers, who has a modeling and television background.

Then she helped set up the Southwest Psychological Research Center and helped organize a drug center in Houston.

Her future includes new offices in Larkspur furnished with one-way mirrors and closed circuit television and a television talk-show on psychological problems is in the planning stage.

ALINOR STERLING (left) brings flowers to Dr. Cassandra Brothers. The psychologist makes routine assessments of pre-school children to detect minimal cerebral disfunctions or undercover psychological problems. Pediatricians receive test results and get a better understanding of their patients' general situations.

CARNIVAL ATMOSPHERE

Three Marin Women Are In Palms-Pines Air Race

By KAREN PETERSON

In the same excitement-filled, contagious atmosphere of a carnival ride, two Marin women taxied down the runway at Gnoss Field yesterday on their way to Santa Monica where they will join 75 other women pilots in the third annual Palms to Pines air race.

Dressed in identical brilliant purple and electric orange skirt and short outfits, the pilot, Mrs. Nancy Wallis of Corte Madera and her co-pilot and navigator, Mrs. Barbara Harpar of San Rafael, did some last minute spot-checking on Mrs. Wallis's Cherokee 140.

The two women, with almost sister-like appearances, left for a coffee klatsch in Concord before their four hour journey to Santa Monica. From there on Friday, they will fly to Independence, Ore. A less than ten hour flight, the race will span two days, with one stop-over in Red Bluff, Tahoma County, Calif., and then on to Independence, just south of Portland.

MRS. WALLIS is a veteran pilot of 15 years. She and her husband, Glen, are both avid aviators and he was the instigator of her interest in flying.

"Before we were married he took me up in a plane," said Mrs. Wallis, "and then bought me my first flying lesson. Now he's the one that pushes me out of the nest. He's really in favor of my flying."

A mother of four children with a son in boot camp at Hamilton Air Force Base, Mrs. Wallis is a speech and language therapist.

"The excitement of flying can grab you at any age. Even grandmothers get excited after their first flight and want to learn how to pilot their own planes," she said.

Marin Women

Mrs. Harper, whose plane is currently at Petaluma's Sky Ranch Airport, has flown for nearly three and one-half years. She is the Public Information Officer for the Civil Air Patrol, Squadron 4, at Hamilton.

Although her husband is a pilot, Mrs. Wallis said her first taste of flying happened during a date. "It really turned me on. It was beautiful.

"Flying gives you a certain degree of confidence. You're the boss, the only leader," said Mrs. Harper. "You make all the decisions; the judgments are all yours alone."

Mrs. Harper has nearly completed the requirements for obtaining a commercial license. "I'm almost 90 per cent finished. You have to be more proficient and know more manuevers to qualify for the commercial license."

Although this is Mrs. Harper's first race, Mrs. Wallis has flown in the Pacific Air Race, a shorter race concentrating on flying the California coast.

Both women are members of the 99's, an international organization of women pilots. Every third Friday of the month the women in the Mt. Diablo chapter fly to lunch, the last lunch being at Pine Mountain where they rode horseback and did some swimming.

ANOTHER MARIN pilot competing in the race in the Piper Cherokee Arrow is Mrs. Joyce Wells of Larkspur. Mrs. Wells is a commercial pilot who is also a veteran of two Powder Puff Derby races.

Besides promoting women in aviation, the Palms to Pine Race serves as a public service for the Direct Relief Foundation (DRF). After completion of the race, the women will be given the opportunity to transport medical supplies for the DRF from Oregon to the warehouse in Santa Barbara.

Although they are not planning to fly back down to Southern California after the race, the local entrants plan to offer their services as far as Marin County, for anyone planning to go further.

"About three months ago I took nearly 250 pounds down to the warehouse," said Mrs. Wallis. "This is really an important service because the shipping costs are very expensive."

Prizes and awards will be given to the winners the morning after they arrive in Independence. But as Mrs. Wallis said, the race is more for fun and for the DRF, the prizes are really incidental.

Pipes Are Used In Furniture

Their Swiss designer, Heinz Meier, used the plumbing on the cocktail table under a half-inch crystal top. The chairs are fitted with slings and cushions of heavy canvas in brilliant colors.

Longtime Marinites Set Move To Southern Ranch

By MOLLY MARIN

After 35 years residence in Marin County, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin D. Edger will be moving to Fallbrook, near San Diego, where they will live on a 42-acre ranch, planted primarily in avocados.

For the past seven years the Edgers have lived in Terra Linda. They are former residents of Mill Valley, San Anselmo, Novato and San Rafael. Both are retiring from responsible positions. Edger has been vice president of Liberty National Bank in San Francisco, and Mrs. Edger a senior sales assistant with Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in San Rafael.

Visiting the couple is their son Benjamin D. Edger Jr., who attends Memorial University in St. John's, Newfoundland, and has been working this summer as a surgical technician at the Montreal Neurological Hospital in Montreal, Canada. Young Edger will leave Monday to visit Mrs. Edger's sister, Mrs. Justus J. Geist in Munich, Germany, in time to attend the Olympic Games.

A BOTTLE of saki was smashed against the bow of the Hong Kong made Pacific Clipper owned by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ross of Belvedere at the San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere Sunday. They named their 25-foot sailboat "Shiranami," which means "white cap" in Japanese. Boating neighbors in adjacent berths shared cocktails and canapes to celebrate the christening.

BRIDE-ELECT Justine Fahy was honored at a luncheon and shower for 20 Saturday at Sabella's restaurant in Mill Valley. The hostesses were her aunts, Mrs. Manuel Dos Reis of San Anselmo, Elmer Hale of Tiburon, Vincent Hale of Napa and Mrs. Ruddy Galleazzi of Greenbrae. Justine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fahy, who now live in San Francisco and were longtime Mill Valley residents. She will marry John Shaw of South San Francisco on Oct. 1 at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church in Mill Valley.

ONE HUNDRED friends are invited for a buffet on Aug. 19 at thenew Rolling Hills home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Noah of Tiburon to celebrate Noah's 65th birthday.

A BUFFET supper will be hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Telford of Marin Country Club Estates to honor Telford's father, Gilbert Logan Telford, formerly of Palm Beach, Fla. The senior Telford has bought property on Logan Drive in the Country Club area and is building a new home there.

Some 20 freinds and neighbors are invited to the Aug. 19 supper.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Swearing Off 'Nice' Attitude Isn't Answer To All Problems

RAP:

"He wasn't so nice? Oh well, keep on being nice yourself and you'll find the right guy."

All my life I've had this "be nice" junk handed to me. They say if I'm "a nice girl" everything will turn out just great.

Well, maybe it works with bubble gun and balloons, but dating boys isn't the same as "Hand this good kid a candy bar."

I'm "nice" and I get hurt. The fellas end up saying "You're too nice." In other words, "I'm bored with you."

I tried being nice in another way to the boy I really fell for, but he just used me and now he's with a loudmouth who probably never earned anything for being "nice."

So send this "sweet thing" a big bouquet of roses. For a booby prize! She sure found out "nice girls don't win!" — SWEARING OFF

DEAR S.O.:

I'll bet there isn't a basically "nice," good-hearted (therefore somewhat easily duped) person in the world who at some time or other hasn't mourned, "Nice guys don't win!" — and resolved to get tougher.

But they seldom join the "black hats" because they aren't built that way and, though you won't believe it now, they usually come out winners in the long run.

. . . That is, if they aren't pushovers, but learn to be selective. — HELEN

SWEARING OFF:

. . . Especially if they aren't pushovers and learn to be selective!

Don't change the way you are. Just be careful in choosing your friends: "Nice guys" sometimes get hurt because they're attracted to "not-so-nice guys," who use them.

Smarten up but don't be bitter. — SUE

DEAR RAP:

Here's a new thing in wedding announcements. These two don't give a hoot about gifts!

We just received an invitation to the wedding of a college friend. Enclosed was a little engraved card which read:

"There are millions of poor who are cold and hungry and there are so many inequalities that this makes us aware of our riches. Therefore, if you had planned to give us a gift, we would appreciate a contribution instead to your favorite charity or cause so that, because of our marriage, life for others may be a little better. Peace."

Pretty neat, huh? — IMPRESSED

DEAR IMPRESSED:

We're impressed, too. (But somehow we doubt that this will start a trend: too many people still "give a hoot about the loot.") — HELEN AND SUE

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

Hoorah for "Respectable Parents" who learned from their kids that pot isn't harmful and are now for legalization.

While I was in Panama for 18 months, I smoked grass all day, every day, with no bad effects.

Believe me, if everyone in the world would have a joint before going about daily tasks, there wouldn't be a war to protest.

In addition, Helen and Sue, have you ever stopped to ask yourselves what the Indians had in those peace pipes while they were trying to gain freedom and peace from the white man? — FOR IT

DEAR FOR IT:

Your last question isn't exactly the best recommendation for pot. While the Indians got peaceful, their country got "took!" — SUE

DEAR FOR IT:

I don't think much of your next-to-the-last-sentence either! If everyone were constantly stoned the world might go up in smoke. Drifing smoke, that is. — HELEN

Dr. Mead Blasts The Suburbs

Anthropologist Margaret Mead has attacked American suburbs as dehumanizing.

"Suburbs don't do anything to enrich human life," she stated in an article for Pageant magazine. "Today's suburbanites are cut off from a fully human social life in which people are really related to other people and to the environment in which they live."

Full humanity, Dr. Mead said, is based on having an active relationship to all generations and different kinds of people that compose one's society.

"This is best exemplified in very small communities where you know everybody and you are 'related' to very old people and newborn babies," she said. "But our suburbs have progressively divided people up by age, religion, income, race, every possible category. We are dehumanizing people by simply isolating them in such small segments."

Dr. Mead believes the lack of easy meeting places in suburbs keeps them from being "truly human communities."

"The fact that everybody has to move around in automobiles also contributes to the breakdown in human relationships in the suburbs. In many suburbs there are no sidewalks, so there's no place that children can walk or even bicycle safely.

The solution is not in doing away with the suburbs, she said, but in more careful planning of new construction.

"They must have adequate public transportation, and be a place where the very young and the very old can walk. The suburbs have to be designed so that people of differing social status and ages and income levels can all live there," she said.

PARENT AND CHILD

Tennis Principle Applied To Kids

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

At Wimbledon, England, this year, Australian tennis player Evonne Goolagong was beaten by American Billie Jean King for the women's singles championship.

During the match and the next day in London newspapers, much was made of the weakness of Miss Goolagong's second serve. "You're only as good as your second serve," a familiar saying in tennis, was often quoted.

In tennis, the server has two chances to get the ball into the proper court. Generally a player tries for a very hard fast serve the first time. If that one doesn't go in, he has a second chance. Usually he gives up a little speed for accuracy so as not to lose the point. But he tries to spin the ball to keep his opponent from scoring easily against him.

If the second serve is not as hard as the first or doesn't have a difficult spin, the opponent has a chance to move in closer to the net and play the ball in such a way that either scores a point or puts the server on the defensive. And this is what Mrs. King was able to do with Miss Goolagong's weak second serve.

NOW, APPLYING the same rult to bringing up children — "you're only as good as your second serve" — how's your second serve?

One parent, or both, often tries to score a decisive point with a teen-age son or daughter, which doesn't get across at all. Maybe the issue is homework. A blast from Dad: "Why aren't you spending two or three hours a night on homework? gets parried with, "There isn't any assigned this month." Now, that was Dad's first serve, and it went into the net.

What should the second serve be?

If the reason why you want your child to do two or three hours of homework is to fill each evening with thought-expanding projects and not with mindless absorption in low-quality music or cheap television dramas, then you need to come up with something specific.

If you use: "What's the matter with your teachers?" as your second serve, that one will miss the court entirely or land with such weakness your child will smash it to win the point. No, you must be ready with something stronger than a criticism of the school or of your child for not making up his own homework.

Maybe your second serve in this instance is a project that will be both an interesting and a natural follow-up to school activities. Or perhaps it will be for both of you to enroll in an evening course together, to act in a civic play, to sing with a choral society, or to develop an appreciation for art.

Suppose the issue is dating, and you don't like the friend your child has chosen. It's possible that your dislike will be sufficient cause for your child to end the relationship. But it may not be enough; you'll need a good "second serve" on this point.

Young adults like to parry and thrust with their parents. You are the one with whom they can disagree vigorously and hopefully still remain friends. Too often parents diagnose this as insubordination, and alienation (not appreciation) is the result.

ART REVIEW

A Comfortable Belsky And A Violent Arnold

By LAURA DEVENDORF

A lot of art is being produced in Mill Valley, some of which eventually finds its way into the community's member-operated Genesis Gallery.

From this member group, Genesis is featuring two artists each month. Chester Arnold and Tom Belsky are the two for August.

Arnold and Belsky are not so far apart in style as they are in viewpoint. As a painter, Arnold's personality is grimly medieval. His violent twists of paint, heavy with dark green, black and reds, are an impassioned cry of doom and anguish.

His topics are no more forgiving. "Nightmare," "Prehistoric Landscape," "Dark Tuesday" and "Mesozoic Sea" reflect his obsession with dark ideas. "Night of the Wolf," for example is a thorough study of evil, the fanged black beast panting beneath a chill moon in a boiling red and deep blue sky. Even his car portraits lose their subjects in a jungle of sinister, frantic paint.

In Arnold's neater, less emotional canvases, the action slows but the foreboding remains. A street scene is distorted as if seen through a bent lens and a figure sits, cleaved open in an invitation to study its entrails.

No such terror invades Belsky's work, no matter how dark or busy his painting style becomes. Instead, his short dashes of paint have the comfortable look of needlepoint. And with this style he paints a continuous fantasy of still lifes, figures, animals, gardens and landscapes. They don't always work out, but when they do they are as musical as his "Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 19," an undulating rainbow of leaning, flower-like strokes.

"Month of the Fire Lillies" shimmers with these checks of color. They lend a fary-tale aura to a bent old woman and child deep in trees and spring flowers. And when Belsky paints heavily wooded areas in these dark-light chips they seem to sparkle with wet leaves and shadow-shattered sunlight.

A cynical drawing concerning the cruelties of politics, a gentle still life of vegetables, a woodcut and some loose, splashy watercolors show Belsky's competence in other media. But his larger storybook paintings in their wavy, check-dash style are the ones which make the viewer most responsive to him as an individual.

Gallery hours for the Arnold-Belsky exhibit are 1 to 5 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays.

Dinner Will Honor Over 100 In Novato

More than 100 volunteer workers and donors of material who created the "dream house" which netted the Novato Boys Club $26,000 will be honored at an appreciation dinner tomorrow at the Sportsman Lodge north of Novato.

Dick Doughty, former television newsman who now heads Telezap Productions in Ignacio, will be master of ceremonies at the dinner given by Peter and Doris Lind, proprietors of Shipwreck Pete's, as their "gift in kind" to the club.

The "Dream House" was built in West Novato early this year and the profits from the sale were donated to the club's building fund campaign.

Reuben Kaehler, Novato contractor who spearheaded the project, will present a check for $26,000 to club president Edward T. Ghirardo.

Admission and registration applications for any of the 41 Indian Valley Colleges fall credit classes in Novato are being accepted. Classes start Sept. 11.

Some 800 to 1,000 students are expected to attend the College of Marin's Novato campus this fall. More than 350 enrolled during its first semester last year.

Admissions and class reservations may be made by phone by calling Barbara Fouts at College of Marin.

The 41 classes in Novato cover most fields, except laboratory sciences and foreign languages. It is permissible for students to enroll at the Kentfield campus and the Indian Valley Colleges at the same time, and no charge will be made for sending transcripts between the two.

Death Penalty Issue 'Not Settled'

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—The chief justice of the California Supreme Court predicted Wednesday that although the U.S. Supreme Court has taken a step to abolish the death penalty, it must still face further decisions before the issue is setttled.

However, Justice Donald R. Wright said because of the slow legal system "it will be years" before the U.S. high court may again have to face a death penalty case.

Third Of Four Concerts Slated By Landmarks

The Bernhard-Carter duo will present the third of four Saturday afternoon concerts sponsored by the Landmarks Society Saturday at 5:30 p.m. at Old St. Hilary's Museum in Tiburon.

The duo composed of Barbara Bernhard (flute) and James Carter (viola) will play works by Mozart, Bach, Hindemith.

Assistant principal flutist with the San Francisco Symphony, a teacher at Stanford and the San Francisco Conservatory, Miss Bernhard received B.M. and M.S. degrees from the Juilliard School of Music in New York. She has played with the Lake George Opera Company, the Fellowship Orchestra at Tanglewood and as principal flutist with the Aspen Chamber Orchestra.

Carter, 20, is a member of the San Francisco Symphony and the youngest performer in any major symphony orchestra. A graduate of Curtis Institute, he has been soloist with many festival orchestras on the east coast and recently was soloist with the 16 concerts soloists of Philadelphia.

Another Fischer Chess Complaint

REYKJAVIK (UPI)—World chess championship officials today refused U.S. challenger Bobby Fischer's demands that seven rows of seats be removed from the spectators' sections to get rid of people he said were rattling candy wrappers.

Fischer wrote a letter of protest to arbiter Lothar Schmid complaining he could hear "conversations, candy being unwrapped, coughing and laughing" while on stage playing world champion Boris Spassky Wednesday in the 12th game of the $250,000 match.

Schmid today ruled that the seats would remain but match officials would make sure that candy-eating children would be made to sit in the rear of the hall.

"People have bought tickets for those seats," Schmid said.

A Fischer aide said after the decision "They are turning the place into a kindergarten."

Fischer, who leads Spassky by two points in the match following Wednesday night's draw, hinted once again he might refuse to play unless his demands were met. Fischer aide Fred Cramer said the American's lawyer, Paul Marshall, was flying in from New York today to take up the complaint.

"I demand an immediate correction of these disgraceful (playing) conditions with an immediate report to me," Fischer wrote to Schmid.

Cramer complained that the West German arbiter refused to join a meeting between Fischer aides and Icelandic organizers today and went to a dentist appointment instead.

Cramer said Fischer was "white hot with rage" following his 55th move draw against Spassky Wednesday. The American twice complained to Schmid during the game about the noise and at one point turned his back on the audience in anger about the talking in the hall.

Fischer drafted the letter on stage between moves and then worked on a final version of it later in his hotel suite. The American then went for a swim "to cool off," Cramer said. But he canceled a bowling match with his friend, Reykjavik policeman Saemon Paalsson.

"He was very, very angry," Cramer said. And cancelling his bowling trip "did nothing to brighten his mood."

Fischer and Spassky played on and on in the 12th game, long after a certain draw was indicated.

Outside in the corridors grandmasters shook their heads, drained coffee cups and one said "Why are they so proud in there? It's the deadest draw in man's memory. One of them should give in and offer the draw."

Finally on the 55th move the Russian world champion looked up from the wooden board, Fischer nodded and put forward his hand. The 12th game in the $250,000 "match of the century" was split down the middle as every grandmaster had predicted since the adjournment on the 41st move Tuesday night.

The 13th game is scheduled to start at 1 p.m. EDT today with Spassky playing white pieces and moving first. Fischer has a 7 to 5 point lead and needs another 51-2 points to become the first American to win the title.

But after Spassky's devastating display and win in the 11th game, grandmasters predicted a battle royal for every half point.

Changes Sought In Belvedere's Tennis Budget

The Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission has recommended that the city council budget $6,000 over the next two years to share with the Reed School District and Tiburon the cost of constructing a tennis court at the Del Mar School.

The city council had previously decided that Belvedere's suggested share of the $20,000 project was too large for the 1972-1973 budget.

At its meeting Monday night, the city council asked the parks and recreation commission to reconsider the financing of the tennis court.

According to Commission Secretary Shirley Backen, the commission on Tuesday recognized that $6,000 was too much for the 1972-1973 budget, but suggested the funds be earmarked during the next two years.

Facing Death: Religion Is Consolation To Some

By MARLENE FREEDMAN
(Last of four articles)

Religion and death seem to come together, a nurse wryly noted as she watched elderly patients at a convalescent hospital waiting to receive the last rites from a visiting priest.

"No matter what they are, even if an atheist, to whom God is not that man on the cross but a cloud," she said, "when they are dying, they still cry out, 'Oh God,' God.' "

Religion, in contrast to the other disciplines which are just discovering death as a topic of study, has always dwelled on death, its meaning and its aftermath.

Funeral rituals, burial procedures, mourning rites, all are explicitly governed.

But most of all, religion attempts to console. It holds out a concept of an afterlife, a promise that something better is awaiting the deceased. Some sort of resurrection. Of body. Of soul. Of spirit.

It doesn't have to be named "heaven." It doesn't even have to be a structured concept.

It shows the outline of a bird in black crayon. On the tip of a wing is a glob of yellow color.

"What does that mean?" asked a solicitous nurse.

"That's a bird of peace," the boy replied, "and that's the glint of sunlight on his wing as he goes to heaven."

The next day, he died.

The sense of faith in the hereafter is so compelling that just about all hospitals have some sort of sanctuary, chapel or meditation room.

One woman, the wife of a dying patient, complained to a hospital administrator that she had no place to console herself.

He directed her to the chapel, but she retorted: "No, that's a place to be quiet and to pray. That's not what I need. I want a place where I can scream."

Rev. John S. Thornton, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Belvedere, visits many sick and dying parishioners as part of his pastoral duties.

Among his touching memories, he recalls an old woman he visited at a hospital where she lay dying.

"I didn't know what to say, so I started reciting 'Yea, though I walk through the valley of death . . . '

"As soon as I got to 'death', she heaved a loud sigh and she died.

"It was as though she had been waiting . . . "

Religious dogma generally treat death ambivalently, acknowledging the grief of the bereaved but stressing the inevitability of it all.

"Thy will be done," the Roman Catholic doctrine decrees.

A learned rabbi philosophizes, "We come into this world, we know not why; we leave this world, we know not when."

The Catholic Church, changing in many ways, is adopting a more positive attitude toward death.

Priests now wear white vestments instead of black at funerals, a white pall is placed on the casket instead of black, the Mass of the Resurrection can be substituted for a Requiem Mass and graveside prayers usually start with "The Lord is my shepherd."

And the last rites are now euphemistically called annointment of the sacraments.

Orthodox Judaism preaches the same sort of inevitability. "Thou are just, O Lord," it says in its prayer of interment. "The Lord has giveth and the Lord has taken."

Grief is not denied, but death is seen as the fulfillment of a plan that God has for all men.

Followers of Jehovah Witnesses await an earthly resurrection, one in which all the dead will be brought back to life in an earthly paradise.

Christian Science believers call "material death" unchristian, believing that life is eternal and so death means nothing.

Their doctrine is almost poetic.

"When we watch a glorious sunset fill the sky, we do not grieve because the sun is no longer visible. We are grateful for the beauty that it has brought into our experience and we know that it continues to shine on scenes now beyond our horizon."

Generally, Eastern religions revere and celebrate death.

The Baha'i sect, which has nine units in Marin, preaches an afterlife so pleasurable that death is looked forward to "with hope and expectation."

The doctrine asks of the bereaved, "Why shouldst thou be sad and heartbroken? This separation is temporal . . . thou shalt find him in the Kingdom of God . . . physical companionship is ephemeral, but heavenly association is eternal."

Whatever the religious ramifications of death, man's final experience on earth is more and more widely recognized as something with which he must come to grips if he is to deal adequately with life.

It is being more and more widely discussed by physicians, psychiatrists and social workers as well as religious leaders. And even among laymen it is gaining acceptance as a topic of discussion, less and less something to be whispered about in fear, snickered about in self-defense or ignored as something unrelated to oneself.

Nixon Rests, Readies Speech

THURMONT, Md. (UPI)—President Nixon has secluded himself at the Camp David mountain retreat to review material for his acceptance speech at the Republican national convention Aug. 23.

The President was expected to return to Washington later today, concluding a three-day stay in which he concentrated on his re-election campaign.

Nixon met with Cabinet members and his campaign leaders Tuesday night, then went into a planning session Wednesday with H.R. Haldeman, according to Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler.

Haldeman, White House chief of staff, assisted Nixon in preparing his schedule for the rest of August and September.

GREEN-THUMBER'S LAMENT

She'll Win No Fair Prize

By JEFF GREER

Martha Scott of Sleepy Hollow has such a green thumb that even her gardening jokes can win prize ribbons in competition at the Marin County Fair.

But she won't be taking ribbons away from other garden hobbyists at the 1972 fair, scheduled for Aug. 31 to Sept. 4. For the second year, she'll be chairman of the floral and horticultural exhibits at the fair in the Marin County Civic Center.

"It breaks my heart that I can't enter," Mrs. Scott said as she stood amid her gentle jungle of a garden at 44 Crane Drive. "The fair this year will be at a much better time. There'll be more variety in flowers — especially mums — and better fruit and vegetables, too."

The Scotts' living room coffee table was strewn with gardening magazines, manuals for judging flowers and vegetables, and premium lists and entry blanks for the 1972 fair.

"I redid all the premium lists myself, for the flowers, fruit and vegetable competition," Mrs. Scott said proudly. She said she worried a bit because the fair eliminated cash prizes this year, but hoped the lack of the $1 to $5 awards wouldn't discourage the avid gardeners.

"And the budget was awfully tight," she added.

Entry blanks for amateurs' specimen plants must be received by Aug. 21. Deadline for the flower arrangements and horticultural exhibits is Aug. 23, she said. The blanks are available from the fair office in the civic center.

Mrs. Scott's involvement with the fair was an outgrowth of gardening entries that won her a drawerful of prize ribbons and cash awards in earlier years.

Ever since the Scott family moved from San Franisco to Sleepy Hollow in 1956, she has lovingly toiled to crowd every inch of the half-acre plot with some sort of ornamental or edible growing thing.

"My husband kept telling me I was planting too many trees," she said. "I gave him fruit trees for his birthday. He couldn't say anything about them after that."

John Scott owns an equipment company in San Francisco, and is called upon only for limited chores in the garden.

"he does the lawn-mowing, prunes the trees and works on the fence," Mrs. Scott said. "I take care of the rest of the gardening — and chase off the deer."

The deer are cause for crisis right now. They've found how to slip in from a neighbor's yard and browse on the lush growth of Mrs. Scott's prized plants. Her husband is rebuilding the fence.

The garden is a thicket of fruit trees, berry bushes, ornamentals, all colors of flowers and clumps of common and exotic varieties of corn, cucumber, squash, onion, asparagus, artichoke, and other vegetables.

Swaths of black nylon netting hang from trees and drape the lower growing plants. It's the latest wrinkle in Mrs. Scott's war against the deer's appetites.

She also runs outside and chases deer away with handclaps and "shoos" each evening, but gives an impression that she's secretly glad they're more afraid of her than she is of them.

"Look, they've even eaten the potted geraniums on the porch," she complained. "And my strawberries — they look like a lawnmower has clipped them all off."

She has cultivated potato plants all over the garden as decoys, hoping the deer would prefer them to more valuable plants. The ruse has worked only moderately well — and besides, "My husband keeps pulling out the potato plants. He says they're weeds."

Several years ago Mrs. Scott spaded up a potato plant to make way for other plants — and found fat tubers among the roots.

"So I entered them in the Marin Art and Garden Fair as a joke. They won second prize and $2," she said.

"I had a good laugh on my husband over his 'weeds'."

DAISY DELIGHT — Martha Scott, Marin County Fair chairman for horticulture exhibits, checks the daisy bed in her front yard, after scattering a small cloud of butterflies and bees visiting the plants. Mrs. Scott cannot enter any of her garden prides in the fair this year because she is chairman for the annual competition.

Larkspur Rec Panel Votes Pier Appeal

The Larkspur Park and Recreation Commission decided last night to appeal a decision of the city's planning commission granting permission for a finger pier on Corte Madera Creek — in direct conflict with the city's policy of banning the piers.

Harlan Barry, recreation director, said chairman Theresa Campbell agreed to appeal the Aug. 1 approval of the pier at the Narra Gardens condominium.

The Larkspur Planning Commission last month adopted a policy regulating docks, piers and floats on the creeks, and staff drafted an ordinance for the city council which specifically banned the piers. Monday night the council postponed a public hearing on the proposed ordinance after learning that an appeal was in the offing.

The Larkspur Park and Recreation Commission also:

TREES — Approved removal of six acacia trees on Onyx Avenue that were leaning over private property.

ACCESS — Decided to recommend the city council deny a request from John B. De Maria for vehicular access through Piper Park to undeveloped property he owns at the end of Boardwalk #1.

SENIORS — Approved a $300 contract with the Marin Senior Coordinating Council for a seniors' program in Larkspur; there will be two meetings a month at a location to be decided later, plus four special events a year.

Black Point Plan Slated For Council

Plans by John E. Kenney to develop 2,300 housing units on 700 acres in the Black Point area will be presented at a joint meeting of the Novato City Council and planning commission at 8 p.m. Aug. 29 at the Novato Community House.

Dan Coleman and Associates of Greenbrae, designers of the proposal for a lagoon-type development, will present the plan.

District Sets Study On Water Pressure

The Marin Municipal Water Ditrict board agreed yesterday to see what the district can do to assist areas in the district which do not have sufficient water pressure for fighting fires. (Another water district story, page 1.)

Directors asked the district staff to explore and report on the possibility of spot moratoriums on new connections in these areas, as well as upgrading the district's system to prevent such problems.

The board acted after two residents of Christmas Tree Hill in Corte Madera told of the lack of water during a fire in a home July 29. (The Eric Murphy residence at 173 Summit Avenue was gutted by the blaze.)

They said firemen could not get sufficient water to fight the fire and noted that the district's water tank in the area had gone dry within 10 minutes.

"Our whole hill could go in the next fire if nothing is done to improve the situation," one man said. The two asked that the district not permit any further hookups in the area since additional demands on the system would worsen the problem.

The Marin Municipal Water District board also:

OFFICERS — Elected Jordan L. Martinelli Jr. president of the board and chose Eugene A. Miller vice president. Both will serve until Jan. 1. Joan Seminario of Kentfield, representing Marin Alternative, protested Martinelli's selection, saying he had supported the Sonoma-Marin aqueduct and tried to stifle public discussion at a past meeting.

BUDGET — Approved a tentative $134,250 1972-73 budget for Improvement District A, with $107,246 to be raised by taxes from residents of those districts and agencies participating in District A which is currently working for a consolidated waste treatment system for Southeast Marin.

PERMITS — Voted to grant free fishing permits for district watershed lands to psychiatric patients at Marin General Hospital.

COMMITTEE — Appointed a seven-man committee to advise consultants Twiss and Dickert, recently hired by the board to inventory watershed lands as the first step in a program to determine the best uses for the various district properties. Selected were: Dr. Gordon Chan, College of Marin marine biologist; Alfonzo Molina, a botanist at the College; Robert McDonald of the U.S. Forest Service; Salem Rice, geologist for the California Division of Mines; Thomas H. Harris, retired forester; Robert Braun of the College of Marin and Robert Hatch, district supervisor for the California Division of Parks and Beaches.

Rare Page Presented To Dartmouth Library

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — What may be the oldest dictionary page preserved in the United States is a 9th-Century manuscript fragment that has been presented to the Dartmouth College Library.

The rare item is a vellum leaf from a Glossarum written in northern France before 850 A.D. On both sides of the sheet are five columns of manuscript on alphabetical listings under the letter R.

The Glossarum leaf, earliest specimen in Dartmouth's collection, was donated by Mark Lansburgh, Colorado Springs, Colo., art historian and an authority on medieval manuscripts.

Shorthanded Tiburon Council Accepts Pastureland Deeds

In a 10-minute special meeting yesterday, the Tiburon City Council accepted deeds to two-thirds interest in the six-acre Blackie's Pasture.

With Mayor Albert H. Sennett and Vice Mayor Allan N. Littman on vacation, the remaining three councilmen first elected Councilman Branwell D. Fanning to serve as acting mayor.

Then, with the gavel in Fanning's hand, the council quickly passed two resolutions which authorized the city to spend $9,748 to close deals with the Tiburon Peninsula Foundation and Samuel M. Shapero.

The foundation sold its one-third interest in the pasture along Tiburon Boulevard, near Trestle Glen, to the city for $7,480 plus $1,015 in closing costs. The city now will pick up the foundation's mortgage payments on the property, which will total about $27,000.

Shapero donated to the city his one-third interest in the pasture. The council authorized the city to pay $1,253 in unpaid property taxes on Shapero's land.

The pasture will be made into a playground by the city when Tiburon Boulevard realignment is completed.

Larkspur Council Orders Zoning Ordinance Review

The Larkspur City Council last night authorized the city's planning consultants, Mocine and Williams, to draft and review zoning ordinances at a cost not to exceed $2,000, heard the proposed countywide general plan and adopted a development policy statement.

City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst said the policy will be used in developing Larkspur's new general plan.

The policy, adopted by the planning commission following a February conference of citizens, commissions and boards, covers ridge areas, the creek and its environs, parks, housing, traffic, commercial and industrial development and ordinances.

The city's new planning and community development director, Arthur M. Stout, was given 60 days to come up with recommendations for further implementation of the plan.

The council, sitting jointly with the planning commission, appointed councilmen Joan Sestak and Robert H. Lee and planning commissioners Earl J. O'Grady Jr. and Otto Hoefler to study the balanced transportation report, as requested by the City-County Planning Commission of Marin.

Bathurst said the council will make recommendations at its Aug. 16 meeting on the countywide plan and on an interim open space element.

Prior to the joint meeting, the council, as the city's redevelopment agency, hired John Klein of Santa Rosa as the agency's attorney on a retainer basis not to exceed $1,600 in the 1972-73 fiscal year.

Youth Band Will Perform At Northgate

SOME BIRDS HAVE IT MADE

This young hooded Oriole gets his meals served personally by Dorian Potter, 7, as he gains strength. Unready to fly when his parents and fellow fledglings took off from their nest in the Harold Potters' yard at 11 Hacienda Court, San Rafael, he fell to the ground and was rescued from the family dog by Dorian. She is raising him until he is well enough to fly. He is fed worms and other delicacies and is allowed out of his cage daily to practice flying. Dorian says he's doing "pretty well."

CANCER CRUSADE

Battle Surges On Many Fronts

(EDITORS NOTE: This past February federal legislation went into effect to speed and expand what the Nixon administration called a crusade against cancer. Following is a status report on that effort.)

By FRANK CAREY

In the latest development, the National Cancer Institute has awarded $44 million in construction grants to 17 U.S. medical-research institutions.

Award of the grants, soon to be announced formally, means the first time in almost a decade that the government has provided funds for construction work in the cancer field.

The cancer institute is administering the $500-million-a-year drive that seeks improved means of detecting, preventing, controlling and curing all forms of cancer.

NCI officials say cancer program costs will range from about a dime a day to feed each of millions of laboratory mice and rats to the $25,000 to $36,000 annual salaries for top researchers.

The building grants will provide new facilities, ranging from a 15-story research hospital for adult cancer patients in Boston to a unique project at the University of New Mexico Medical School in Albuquerque, says Dr. George Jay of NCI.

At the New Mexico site, a special unit will be built to prepare cancer patients for transport to the Atomic Energy Commission's nearly completed "meson factory" in Los Alamos, 90 miles away. There, pioneer trials are planned of a new type of powerful ray that may be useful for treating cancer.

NCI already has announced award of a $6.8 million contract to a private biological research firm to convert the former Army germ-warfare laboratories at nearby Ft. Detrick, Md., into a cancer research center and operate it for at least the first year.

The Detrick contract, largest ever awarded by any arm of the government's National Institutes of Health, was obtained by Litton Bionetics Inc., a subsidiary of Litton Industries, Inc.

The contract, labeled award-fee, is the first of its kind in the history of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The contractor has no guaranteed profit. What he makes depends upon the quality and effectiveness of his work, up to a certain fixed ceiling.

Its tasks include producing "literally buckets-full" of viruses known to cause cancer in animals, for use by researchers throughout the country, according to Dr. Robert Stevenson, who will manage the Detrick facility.

He says it also will be a major national center for the breeding of laboratory mice, rats, guinea pigs, rabbits and monkeys.

Since Feb. 23, the date the National Cancer Act of 1971 became effective, $19.8 million has been awarded for 138 research contracts to both profit-making and nonprofit organizations, including $4.9 million of the $6.8 million Detrick contract. About $15.6 million in grants other than the $44 million in construction grants have been awarded.

Almost completed is a master plan detailing the strategy for achieving the "expanded, intensified and coordinated cancer research program" called for in the act.

Ahead of the master plan, NCI already is moving in some new directions, says Louis Carese, an associate director.

Among them is a multimillion-dollar program of research into some of the major fatal cancers, including malignancies of the bladder, large bowel and prostate gland, which NCI officials say have not received the attention they deserve.

Clinical and basic research has been expanded also into breast and lung cancer, which have been the objects of intensive study for some years.

NCI officials say, for example, that efforts are being pushed to automate the Pap test so that more women may be screend for possible cancer of the cervix.

Dr. Gio Gori, an NCI associate director, says the institute is pushing ahead with plans to play a much more active role than before in cancer control efforts nationwide. Plans include establishng programs for cooperating with state and other health agencies in the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of cancer and rehabilitation of its surviving victims.

Cancer-control programs that include public education are to be one of the major missions of an envisioned national network of comprehensive cancer research and demonstration centers, the first 15 of which are provided for in the new legislation.

On the international scene, NCI has worked to swap with Soviet scientists a number of viruses and promising new anticancer drugs, establish liaison offices in Japan and Europe to foster cooperation in the quest for better drugs, and allocate special laboratories at Ft. Detrick for joint research by American and foreign scientists, including researchers from the Soviet Union and mainland China.

Finally, it's seeking to develop an international cancer research data bank so that eventually researchers in all parts of the world can share their results through a system of computers.

COOL DRINK, CLEAN FEET

Younger Indicates A Possible Surprise For The Political Pros

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —State Attorney General Evelle J. Younger indicates he may surprise the political pros and not run for governor in 1974.

Whether he jumps into the crowded race—as has been anticipated by leaders of both parties—will depend on how he stands alongside other Republicans in the public opinion polls.

"We'll take soundings next year and if I'm the strongest candidate I'll probably run for governor. And if I'm not I probably won't," Younger said. "Even if I am the frontrunner I don't know whether I'll run."

Ever since the 54-year-old former Los Angeles district attorney was elected attorney general in 1970 he has been frequently mentioned in political circles as a probable gubernatorial candidate in 1974 when Gov. Ronald Reagan voluntarily steps down.

Younger until now has done little to discourage such talk—speaking frequently throughout the state, meeting with small political groups and lunching occasionally with newsmen.

Younger told a dozen reporters over lunch Wednesday that —like most aspirants for governor—he soon will begin circulating daily schedules of his activities to the news media. But reporters were cautioned not to interpret this as evidence he is running.

The attorney general portrayed himself as a man satisfied in his work and not particularly anxious to advance.

"I'm not just dying to get into another job," he said. "Unlike other potential candidates, I don't hate what I'm now doing. I find being attorney general exciting."

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke already has announced he will run for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Controller Houston I. Flournoy reportedly is 80 per cent certain of running. Presidential counselor Robert H. Finch is eyeing a race either for governor or senator.

Younger said a "bunched up" field would discourage him from running.

He added, "It's going to be tough for any Republican to get elected. You look at the registration figures and they're just devastating." Democrats outnumber Republicans in voter registration by 3 to 2.

Younger said he will decide by Labor Day, 1973, whether to run for governor. If the decision is no he will run for reelection as attorney general and has complete confidence of winning.

He also disclosed his 1970 campaign still is $80,000 in debt.

Younger ruled out running for the Senate, partly because he wants to remain in California, and said he does not desire to be appointed to the Supreme Court. He was a Superior Court judge once and left the bench "to get more involved."

Break To Lavelle Says Congressman

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Gen. John Lavelle, who was relieved of his command for ordering unauthorized bombing raids over North Vietnam, was given a large tax break as a "retirement present," according to Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis.

Aspin said Lavelle received a 70 per cent physical disability rating when he voluntarily left the Air Force last spring. Aspin said the disability rating allows $23,500 of Lavelle's $25,000 pension to be tax exempt.

Threat To Sears

The Sears store at 9000 Northgate Drive, San Rafael, was evacuated briefly yesterday afternoon after a female caller warned of a bomb hidden in the store's basement. No bomb was found, police said.

Pentagon Lashes At McGovern

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Pentagon accused Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern today of flying in the face of reality with his suggestion that defense spending be cut by $30 billion.

In a 200-page counter-attack peppered with references to McGovern by name, the Defense Department said: "Those who suggest that we can solve our public spending problem by peeling some easy billions off the defense budget are arguing not only with the Pentagon but with reality, and reality is a formidable opponent."

McGovern has proposed to cut the defense budget —now an overall $82.3 billion —by $30 billion. He lost an initial test of the concept when the Senate last week refused to hold military spending for the new fiscal year to last year's level —a $4 billion cut.

—It is a myth the defense budget keeps growing. In reality, it said, once inflation is discounted this year's defense budget is the lowest since 1951.

—It is a myth that more money is being poured into new weapons. In reality, it said, over the past nine years funds devoted to new weaponry rose only 4 per cent and, after discounting inflation, actually fell 24 per cent.

—It is a myth that McGovern's proposal to trim defense spending by $30 billion, or more than one-third, would convert the economy from a war to a peace base.

—It is a myth defense contractors soak the taxpayer for billions in unwarranted profits. In reality, the report said, a study by the Government Accounting Office showed profits on defense work were lower than the profits on commercial sales made by the same firms.

—It is a myth that cutting the defense budget would vastly increase the funds available for social and economic programs.

In actuality, the document said, federal, state and local governments this year are already spending $275.6 billion on nondefense programs and this is expected to reach the $420-$480 billion range by 1978. "It is rather difficult to maintain," the report said, "that we could achieve wonders with, say, $500 billion to spend on social and economic programs —wonders which would somehow escape us if we had 'only' $480 billion to spend."

Lady Bird Marks Project's Start

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Lady Bird Johnson, wife of the former president, who has spent the profits from her book "A White House Diary" for a tree-planting beautification in Austin, dedicated a bronze plaque Wednesday marking the project's start.

"My philosophy of beautification is summed up in two words —use and maintenance. Use it so you can enjoy it, and maintenance so the youngest one of you can enjoy it when you grow up," the former First Lady told a gathering of about 250 persons.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

A Long, Critical Look Into Future Health, Quality Of Life

Many of our leading citizens are taking a long, critical look at what we can expect in the future as pertains to health, well-being, and quality of life. We want our children and their children to do more than survive contamination of air, water, and land. We are more interested in what kind of life they will inherit in terms of personal satisfaction, group self-fulfillment, and social responsibility.

There is no doubt that the despoiling of our environment will also affect man. To obtain ecological stability, some restrictions on personal freedom will be needed. To limit our population, birth control may be one of the first things on the agenda. Or, perhaps, there will be definite restrictions to use or abuse of land, water, air, technology, and health care. But whatever route we take, let us not forget that man is governed more by emotions than by reason.

MANY PEOPLE do not realize that adult stupidity is a form of social pollution. It is the most dangerous of all because lack of intelligence hinders any attempt to solve our problems at their very core. We will need some kind of decision-making group that knows what has occurred and has the vision to look ahead. Emotions must be harnessed so as to direct our energies in rational rather than irrational approaches.

Everyone contributes to pollution and the disruption of our ecological balance. We want automobiles, electricity, toilets, warm homes, and chemical cleansers. We also must work in factories, foundries, and other industries. Farmers want pesticides and fertilizers. Something has to give and those entrusted with decisions should be apolitical, practical, and blessed with good judgment.

THIS IS NO time for emotionalism. So far, few humans have suffered physically as a result of pollution. By the same token, we have had very little progrress in correcting these problesm, despite our good intentions.

SORE THROAT

F. B. writes: My throat has been sore for six months. However, my doctor assures me that I do not have a growth. Do you think it would be wise to have further tests?

REPLY

Yes. A sore throat lasting six months may stem from nervousness, cancer, or a specfic infection.

SMOKING AND HYPERTENSION

REPLY

It might be. Why not have your blood pressure taken several hours after abstaining and then immediately after a cigaret? What about your lungs and heart?

RELAXANT

B. A. writes: What does belladonna do?

REPLY

It relaxes the muscles and valves of the stomach and intestine. It may also suppress sweating, dilate the pupil of the eye, and slow the pulse rate.

PULSE AND THYROID ACTIVITY

W. A. writes: Does a slow pulse accompany too little thyroid production?

REPLY

Yes, and the opposite occurs when the thyroid is overactive.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. has advised local election officials to extend the deadline for registering voters to 30 days before the Nov. 7 general election.

4 Major Issues Killed

Ecology Movement Continues To Have Trouble In Sacramento

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The return-to-nature craze is booming and even Madison Avenue is getting into the act by capitalizing on ecological awareness. But the ecology movement is still having trouble in Sacramento.

Four of the biggest environmental issues — coastline protection, wild rivers legislation, forestry protection and an enviornmental superboard — stalled or were killed during the first chunk of the 1972 legislature's session.

So while the ad men may show the young folk sipping vodka while lounging on grey, moss-covered rocks, many of the proenvironment legislators at the Capitol say it's still tough to sell ecology-type bills.

"We have made some very modest progress with bills that chip away at environmental problems," said Sen. Peter Behr, a San Rafael Republican who authored a tough wild rivers protection bill that stalled on the Assembly floor Aug. 4 — the last day of the session until it resumes Nov. 8 for a three-week session keyed to reapportionment.

"But time will not permit us a pace so slow nor results so small," he added in an interview.

Numerous legislative observaters say that if the environmental consciousness boom has had any real bite, it is in the way the "anti" forces go about their work at the Capitol.

"They've gotton more sophisticated and the arrogance no longer displays itself with them saying 'kill the bill." They now have to try to make deals," said Assemblyman Willie Brown, a San Francisco Democrat who chairs the powerful Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

Assemblyman Edwin Z'berg, a Sacramento Democrat whose environmental superboard bill was killed on the Assembly floor, says the same forces always man the barricades to "oppose any major environmental bill. It's the subdividers, utilities, oil companies, etc. It's no secret who they are."

Going into the remainder of the session, these environment-minded legislators have behind them what Assemblyman Paul Priolo, a Pacific Palisades Republican who chairs the Assembly Planning and Land Use Committee, calls "a pretty grim scoreboard."

Here is a rundown of what the legislators will face when they return to the Capitol in November:

COASTLINE PROTECTION — Environmentalists have given up on getting their version of the coastline protection package through the legislature after seeing it killed twice in the Senate Natural Resources Committee.

Instead they are focusing their strength on the drive to get voter approval of the coastline initiative on the November ballot, the day before the legislature returns. In the November session they are also going to try to block another, less stringent coastline measure, authored by Republican Sen. Dennis Carpenter of Newport Beach, which they consider worse than no coastline law at all.

FORESTRY PROTECTION — The toughest of three lumbering regulation bills up this session has already been killed in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee and the other two measures are sitting in a committee chaired by the author of the defeated bill-Assemblyman Z'berg.

Z'berg has said he doesn't want to let either bill out of his committee — Assembly Natural Resources — without amending it to toughen it up, a move that would not sit well with California's $2.3 billion lumbering industry.

WILD RIVERS — Two rival wild rivers protection bills failed to win final passage on the last day of the session before the legislature recessed for three months.

The Assembly voted instead to take the issue up in November when it will debate if it wants to send either or both bills on to Gov. Reagan's desk. Behr has said he hopes to convince Gov. Reagan that his plan, which includes the Eel River in a 20-year moratorium on dams, is better than Sen. Randolph Collier's bill, which would allow dams on the Eel with permission of the legislature.

ENVIRONMENTAL SUPER-AGENCY — Late in the session Z'berg and the Reagan administration hammered out a first ever compromise that would have combined the present Air Resources and Water Resources boards into one, hopefully setting up a more comprehensive approach to environmental protection. The new board also would have had jurisdiction over solid waste disposal.

The plan won the Sierra Club's backing but even some environmentalists remained wary, saying they were not satisfied that the proposed makeup of the new board would make for a tougher environmental approach.

The Assembly killed the bill, and Z'berg says he will try to muster enough Republican votes in November to win passage.

'Compensation' For Syphilis Project Blacks

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A bill that would compensate survivors of a government experiment under which more than 600 black victims of syphilis were denied treatment has been introduced by Alabama's seators.

Sen. James B. Allen said in a Senate speech the United States government has an "ethical responsibility" to compensate persons injured by the experiment.

Allen was joined by his Democratic colleague, Sen. John J. Sparkman, in introducing the measure. It would authorize payments of up to $25,000 per person.

Marichal Minus Fastball Equals Loss To Padres, 5-2

By JOE SARGIS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Juan Marichal is an enigma to the San Francisco Giants.

When he was winning with monotonous regularity, hardly a day passed that he didn't complain of some physical problem, real or imagined.

Now that he is losing almost as regularly —he dropped his 13th game of the year, 5-2, to the San Diego Padres Wednesday —Marichal rarely says anything. And the one thing he doesn't do is complain, yet his back bothers him to the point where his once-famous fastball is a thing of memory.

The Padres, hardly the kind of team to manhandle a pitcher of Marichal's stature, looked like the old Yankee "Murderers Row" in raking him for nine hits and five runs in seven innings Wednesday.

True, a couple of the hits off him were "seeing eye" singles that eluded converging shortstop Chris Speier and second baseman Tito Fuentes, but at least five others were hit pretty well, and he was never really in command.

Pitching coach Don McMahon said Juan's aching back —it's been hurting him for a couple of months now —has taken away "something" from his fastball and that he now has to rely on other pitches.

"No question, his fastball doesn't have that old velocity," said McMahon, who at 42 throws the ball harder than most pitchers in their 20s, "but his sidearm curve is a better pitch today than it was in the past. One thing about an aching back, you can't put every thing on the ball that you want to, and that's what I think is wrong."

McMahon, at least, has some observations about Marichal. Manager Charlie Fox, obviously puzzled, shrugs off all questions about the Dominican righthander or leans back and scratches his head.

Does this latest defeat mean Marichal may be taken out of the rotation?" someone asked.

"I don't know," replied Fox, looking off into space. "He won't pitch in the next four games anyway. After that we'll re-evaluate the situation."

How about Marichal, what does he have to say?

"No one knows what's wrong with my back," he said. "All I know is it hurts sometimes, even when I'm not pitching. Then there are games when it doesn't hurt at all. I'm not pitching that bad, but I'm not pitching good either. I just don't know."

Wednesday's game was over hardly before it was under way. A single by Dave Roberts, a double by John Jeter and an intentional walk to Nate Colbert filled the bases with one out in the first. Two runs scored when Clarence Gaston bounced a single up the middle and a third run came around while Garry Jestadt was grounding into a force play.

Jestadt, not noted for hi long-ball hitting, then teed off for his fourth homer in the third to make it 4-0, and the Giants never recovered.

Willie McCovey and Ken Henderson hit back-to-back homers off Clay Kirby in the fourth to cut the lead in half but Jerry Morales' third homer of the year made it 5-2 in the sixth.

The Giants, who left 11 runners stranded, finally chased Kirby in the eighth when Speier singled and McCovey walked. Fred Norman, a left-handed screwballer, came on to walk Henderson to load the bases but retired Dave Rader on a foul to first, struck out pinch-hitter Ed Goodson and got Fuentes on a rap to third.

The Giants made one more run at Norman in the ninth when he walked two batters with two out but Fred, a stocky little battler, struck out McCovey to end the game.

How about the Padres, who like the Giants are off today before going back to work on Friday night? Do you think there is anything wrong with Marichal?

"I'll say this," said Colbert, who has hit 31 homers this year, "He's not throwing as hard as he used to."

"That's my feeling, too," added Pads' skipper Don Zimmer. "I don't know what's wrong with him but he's not the pitiher he was two years ago or even last year."

Kirby was rewarded with Wednesday's victory. It was his ninth compared to 12 losses. Marichal slipped to 4-13.

Padres' Dr. Arlin: The Pitching Dentist

Dr. Steve Arlin, pitching dentist of the San Diego Padres, could drop baseball for dentistry but has no intention of doing so.

"I'm in baseball for as long as I can play," said Dr. Arlin. "I could work by a dentist's chair for 14 years and never have a nine-year-old boy come up to me and ask for my autograph."

DR. ARLIN is a streamlined 6-foot-3, 195-pound, 26-year-old righthander who received his degree in dentistry at Ohio State in 1970. He was the pitching ace of the Buckeyes during his undergraduate days. He led college pitchers with 165 strikeouts in 1965 and his 13-2 record made Ohio State runner-up in the College World Series. His 11-1 record and 1.58 ERA in 1966 made the Buckeyes champs of the collegiate world.

Detroit drafted him in 1966 but he did not sign. Philadelphia picked him in the special phase of the June, 1966, free agent draft and he signed with the Phillies. The Padres plucked him out of the Phillies organization in the 1969 expansion draft.

LAST YEAR was Arlin's first full season in the majors. His 9-19 record in 1971 was understandable since the Padres scored two runs or less in 13 of his 19 defeats. Four of his nine wins were shutouts, the most impressive a 2-0 three-hitter July 25 against the Pirates, who went on to become world champs. In that shutout he fanned Willie Stargell with the bases loaded.

This year he one-hit the Giants June 23 for nine innings in a 4-1 win. The one hit in that game was a second-inning triple by Garry Maddox, who scored on a sacrifice fly by Alan Gallagher.

"I WANT TO BE something in baseball," said Dr. Arlin. "I think I'm earning the respect of players as a pitcher of quality. I suppose as a player I don't display the type of emotion that indicates my devotion to the game. But that's probably the doctor's influence showing through. A dentist can't be emotional in front of a patient."

Dr. Arlin acknowledges that his patients want to talk baseball.

"And," said Dr. Arlin, "I enjoy talking baseball with them. It builds a stronger relationship between me and my patient. But I can't talk too long because the appointment schedule gets messed up."

THE PITCHING DENTIST has perfected a time-saving Q. and A. procedure in handling questions such as "What's it like to pitch to Willie Mays, Doc?"

"I don't usually answer until I have a drill in the patient's mouth," said Dr. Arlin. "Then he can't continue the conversation until I'm finished. The timing is important in keeping the schedule rolling."

LET US DANCE

New York Mets' Dave Marshall scored from third base as catcher Ted Simmons of the Cardinals reached for the ball last night in the first inning at St. Louis. The play came after a sacrifice fly to leftfielder Luis Melendez, who made the throw to the plate. Mets won, 8-3.

Olympic Training Begins For DeMont

I-J Special Report

WEST POINT, N.Y. — It possibly seemed like Christmas Day in August for Rick DeMont of Terra Linda.

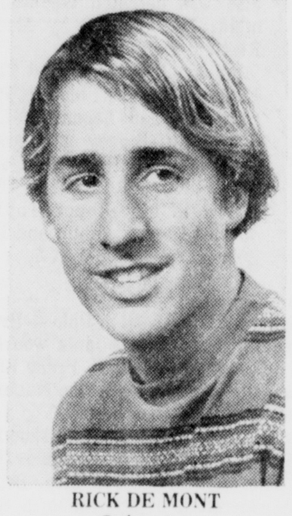
The 16-year-old world record holder in the 1,500-meter freestyle was bombarded with bounty this week, after qualifying for the Olympic games in the 400 and 1,500-free races.

Now here in West Point, N.Y., for the men's training camp, DeMont related by phone yesterday that he has received from the Olympic Committee a camera, anti-chlorine goggles for use during workouts, T-shirts, hand-paddles, shoes, clothing, luggage, not to mention the official team sweatsuits.

"This is all for free? I can't believe it!" he said.

DeMont and room-mate butterflier Robin Backhaus of Redlands, Calif., are currently sitting in the lap of luxury, as are the other 22 members of the U.S. men's team.

Coaching the squad are Peter Daland of USC, and Don Gambril of Harvard. DeMont will continue training, though, the same pattern as he has been with Don Swartz of the Marin A.C. DeMont said, "I will be in touch with Don tonight to get his workouts for me for the next few days."



RICK DE MONT
Swim star

He says ebulliently, "We're having a gas here," in a much more outgoing manner than immediately before the meet. His mother, Mrs. Will DeMont, said, "He was very quiet the last few days before he left. He didn't want to talk about a lot of things."

Although Rick only made the finals by .9 second before his world record swim, he said he wasn't worried about not qualifying. "I looked over and saw Don wasn't freaking out, so I kept going and touched out (Indiana's John) Kinsella to win the heat."

About Kinsella, the former world record holder who didn't make the team in an individual event, DeMont said, "He leaves his meet in the warm pool. He goes so hard before the race."

Since DeMont did not have an opportunity to return home, he called his mother and "asked me to send him some clothes," she said.

DeMont's two younger sisters and one younger brother, were also excited about the achievement. Ken, a Terra Linda sophomore, is a stubborn ping-pong adversary for his brother.

Ken will accompany his parents and grandmother to Munich for the Games, which begin for Rick Sept. 1. "We've got some things going," Mrs. DeMont said about getting tickets at this late date.

DeMont arrived in New York Tuesday, and was surprised at the amount of greenery around the "Army" campus. "There are lots of trees, I'm really surprised. I expected all city and people." Rick is well at home in the outdoors, and plans to major in forestry or wildlife conservation, he said.

Finley Sees A's Drop 3rd In Row

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)— Oakland Athletics owner Charles O. Finley sat in the grandstand here Wednesday nigt for the first time since he took the A's from Kansas City in 1968. He didn't like what he saw.

The A's dropped their third straight to the Kansas City Royals 5-2 and limped out of town with a 1-6 road record, the first losing road trip to Manager Dick Williams' two-year tenure.

About the only noise in the Oakland clubhouse was the whirring of fans. Players sat on stools next to each other and did not say a word.

'PLAYING BADLY'

"We're playing badly besides not hitting," said Bando. "I think our mental part of the game could be a lot better."

The A's open a four-game series tonight in Oakland against the Chicago White Sox, the team that is breathing down their necks.

ON ROAD

After the Chicago series, Oakland goes to Baltimore for two games and then to Detroit for three more. The A's will play nine straight games against contenders.

Kansas City Manager Bob Lemon likened Oakland's four-game series with Chicago to what he experienced as a pitcher for Cleveland in 1954.

"We clinched the pennant with about two weeks to go and won 111 games. But we had a letdown and we couldn't get it up again for the World Series. When things are going bad, you don't figure you're going to turn it around tomorrow."

ROJAS HOMER

Cookie Rojas slammed a two-run homer in the seventh inning, his first ever in Kansas City.

"They're in tough shape right now," the veteran second baseman said of Oakland. "They've got a good pitching staff, but they lost about a seven-game lead in no time flat. And Chicago is hot. I do think Oakland's pitching staff and bullpen is better than Chicago's. But when you're hot, sometimes those things don't matter."

Nicklaus, Palmer To Head Westchester Golf Tourney

HARRISON, N.Y.(UPI) — Jack Nicklaus and defending champion Arnold Palmer, both with excellent past performance records at the Westchester Country Club, head the field in the $250,000 Westchester Golf classic today with most of the top pros on hand except British Open champ Lee Trevino and Billy Casper.

Nicklaus, winner of the Masters and U.S. Open, won the inaugural Classic in 1967, won the Thunderbird over this course in 1965 and warmed up Wednesday with a five under par 34-33—67 in a celebrity pro am.

An "underground" oddsmaker listed Big Jack as the 3-1 favorite in a probable field of 153 Palmer, who won the tournament by five strkes a year ago, was pegged at 7-1 along with Player as second choices. Arnie had a 69 in the pro-am event and Player a par 72 over the 6,700 yard layout.

Palmer not only romped in last year's Classic but twice won Thunderbird titles when that event was scheduled at the Westchester course.The Classic's $50,000 first prize would give him an important boost up the 1972 money ladder on which he now ranks 27th with $60,197.

The $50,000 jackpot to the winner could cause quite a shakeup in the money list—or put Nicklaus out of sight. Jack already has won $190,213 to lead the parade, with the resting Trevino second at $134,097 and young Jerry Heard third with $124,577.

62ND ANNUAL EVENT

Mill Valley Dipsea Race Is Set Aug. 27

Biologists have told the tale many times of how the lemmings, in vast hordes, run pell-mell to the sea. But who ever heard of the lemmings paying $2 and $3 for the privilege?

Yet that will be the case on Sunday, Aug. 27, when the 62nd annual Dipsea race will be held. Sponsored by the Mill Valley Junior Chamber of Commerce, the scenic, rugged foot race will wind along the twisting, 6.8-mile trail from Mill Valley inland to Stinson Beach on the sea.

Entires are now being accepted, and to date over 500 have been received, according to meet director John Drew. He expects a field of about 1,400, the largest in history and some 200 more than last year. And it's a narrow trail.

Prospective entrants can get applications from the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce, 85 Throckmorton Avenue, or the San Francisco Office of the Amateur Athletic Union, 942 Market Street. Or they can write the Jaycees at P.O. Box 30, Mill Valley 94941.

Entry fee is $2 before Aug. 19 and $3 thereafter. Additionally, participants must have a valid AAU card, available from the San Francisco office for $1.50.

Entries will be accepted until the start of the race, but entrants are advised to take care of the paperwork earlier. AAU and race officials will be on hand from about 8 a.m. on race day. The first handicap runners will take off at exactly 10 a.m. and everybody will be running by 10:15.

TENNIS TOURNEY SLATED

A benefit doubles tennis tournament for the Mill Valley branch of the Boyd Natural Science Museum will be held for two consecutive weekends in September. Play will be in three doubles categories: men's, women's and mixed.

Entry forms are now being distributed to the local clubs and sport shops for interested players, according to publicist Priscilla Hoakanson.

Hardman Practicing Again After Surgery

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers' outstanding young defensive end Cedrick Hardmen is working at camp for the first time since his knee operation in the off season.

Coach Dick Nolan says he thinks Hardman will be ready for the season opener Sept. 17 against San Diego at Candlestick.

"I'm pretty sure I'll be ready for the opening game," the 6 foot 3, 235 pounder said after his workout Wednesdsy. Hardman practiced quick starts and cutting and sprinted 40 yards in 5.0 seconds, only a couple of tenths off his usual time.

The team worked out two hours on passing and the pass rush, getting ready for an exhibition game Sunday against the Cleveland Browns at Candlestick Park.

Two other injured 49ers, rookie wide receiver Terry Beasley and linebacker Marty Huff, also did some post-operative running.

Beasley, the team's No. 1 draft choice from Auburn, did a little light jogging in the cast put on his fractured toe. He is expected to run at full speed in two weeks.

Last Inning Rally Lifts King To Win

King Realty scored seven times in the final inning, with Al Hamilton singling across the two go-ahead runs, to defeat Industrial Credit, 10-8 last night in San Rafael adult softball league action.

McKee's edged Loose, 4-3 and Motorcycles Unlimited beat Timmer, 11-8 in other games.

Seals' Jarrett Jumps To WHA

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

CLEVELAND — Left winger Gary Jarrett, a member of the California Golden Seals of the National Hockey League for the past four seasons, was one of five players who signed contracts Wednesday with the Cleveland Crusaders of the World Hockey Association.

Jarrett, 29, averaged 14 goals and 18 assists during his five-year NHL career. His best year was with the Seals in the 1968-69 season when he had 22 goals and 23 assists.

The other four new Crusaders included defensemen Wayne Muloin, who was captain of the Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League last season. Prior to joining the Barons, Muloin spent two years in the NHL with the Seals.

PHILADELPHIA — Top-seeded Marita Redondo and second-seed Laurie Fleming advanced in singles, and Bee Kilgore of Tiburon and partner were felled in doubles play yesterday, in the U.S. Girls' Grass Court Tennis Championships.

Miss Kilgore, who the day before had been defeated in singles, was paired with Cindy Hargadon of Indianapolis. The pair lost to Susan and Sandy Step of Deerfield, Ill., 6-2, 6-3.

Miss Redondo bounced back to win, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, after a shaky first set. Miss Fleming played similarly, winning 3-6, 6-0, 6-2.

Miss Redondo of National City, Calif., rallied to defeat Susan Boyle of San Diego, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2 to gain the quarter-finals. Miss Fleming of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. overcame a strong attack by Rayni Fox of North Miami Beach, Fla. to win 3-6, 6-0, 6-2.

Other seeded players who reached the quarter-final round were Susan Step of Deerfield, Ill., Ann Kiyomura of San Mateo, Calif., Daryl Gralka of Houston, Tex. and Brenda Garcia of Lafayette.

The Stap sisters, Susan and Sandy, advanced in doubles by defeating Bee Kilgore of Tiburon, and Cincy Hargadon of Indianapolis, 6-2, 6-3.

CLEVELAND — Ismail El Shafei of Egypt rifled 10 aces Wednesday night to upset second-seeded Arthur Ashe in the $50,000 Cleveland Tennis Classic, 6-4, 6-7, 6-3.

Raiders' Wells In Action

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—Pass catcher Warren Wells, out of action for a year because of problems with the law, will see action Monday night when the Oakland Raiders engage in a tuneup with the Baltimore Colts.

Wells said at training camp that Coach John Madden asked him whether he would play a quarter.

"I told him that would be about all I could play," he said. "My wind isn't back yet. I'm not ready to play a whole game, but I will be by the time the season starts."

An Alameda County Superior Court judge allowed Wells to return to the Raiders this season after his probation was revoked for repeated scrapes with the law.

A. L. ROUNDUP

Contenders In Hot Flag Drive

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Yankees show signs of being for real, the Orioles of Baltimore are beginning to thrash their wings feverishly and division leaders Detroit and Oakland have developed a case of the "blahs" as the American League pennant drama is staged under the relentless gaze of the August dog days.

The Yankees split a doubleheader with the Tigers Wednesday, winning 2-1 after losing 6-0. The split left the New Yorkers three games behind Detroit.

BALTIMORE

Baltimore remained in second place, just a game off the pace, with a 10-0 rout of Milwaukee and Oakland continued to slump with a 5-2 loss at the hands of Kansas City.

In other AL contests, Boston beat Cleveland 5-2, Texas stopped Minnesota 3-2 and Chicago blanked California 1-0 behind durable Wilble Wilbur Wood.

Celerino Sanchez rapped a two-out single off reliever Fred Scherman in the seventh inning of the second game to produce his second game-winning hit in two days. The hit followed a single by Roy White and a double by Ron Blomberg.

PITCHERS

Starters Rob Gardner of the Yankees and the Tigers' Tom Timmerman locked in an excellent pitching duel in the nightcap, with winner Gardner carrying a one-hitter into the eighth and loser Timmerman yielding a single hit through the first six.

After Gardner gave up his second hit in the eighth inning, skipper Ralph Houk went to Sparky Lyle, the most consistent bullpen ace the Yankees have known since the days of Joe Page. The 28-year-old lefthander fanned Ike Brown and Bill Freehan and tossed out Willie Horton and went on to register his 25th save.

Woody Fryman, a veteran of six years in the National League, blanked the Yankees on six hits as he made his American League debut in the opener. Aurelio Rodriguez—with three hits, three runs batted in and two runs scored— led a Tiger attack that dealt Mel Stottlemyre his 13th loss.

Baltimore, struggling to break free of the lethargy which has unaccountably overtaken the AL champions of the last three years, received four-hit shutout pitching from Dave McNally (who aso hit his first home run of the year) to win its fourth straight game.

KEY HIT

Wood prevailed over the Angels' Nolan Ryan in a stirring pitcher's duel and accounted for the lone run of the game with a two-out single in the seventh inning to pull the White Sox to within a game of Oakland in the West and become the majors' first 19-game winner in the process.

The shutout was the sixth this year for Wood and tied him with Ryan and McNally for the league lead and set the stage for a crucial four-game showdown between the White Sox and Oakland beginning tonight.

APARICIO

The Red Sox managed to beat the Indians when veteran Luis Aparicio slapped a two-run single in the fifth inning to pave the way for Sonny Siebert's 10th victory. Gaylord Perry was dealt his 10th defeat compared to 18 victories.

The Bosox played without their $165,000-a-season left fielder, Carl Yastrzemski, from the fourth inning on. Yastrzemski, the center of the Red Sox' latest internal struggle, managed to ground into two double plays before leaving the game with what was described as intestinal virus.

Carlton Fisk, Boston's All-Star rookie catcher, had charged Tuesday that Yastrzemski and centerfielder Reggie Smith were not supplying the leadership expected of high-salaried players — in short, not hustling.

Yastrzemski missed a team meeting called before the start of Wednesday's game to presumably clear the air of the charges.

DiMaggio Baseball Title Go

One divisional title was decided last night, and another will be up for grabs this evening at 6 p.m., as Marin Joe DiMaggio League baseball pla enters the climax stage.

Annex Motors squeezed by Bank of Marin by a 2-1 score yesterday, using only two hits. Annex, now 9-5, is the champion of the Northern Division, and will vie with the southern champ Saturday for the county title.

Tody's Truckers and Italian Club tuned up for tonight's Southern Division deciding game at Novato High School with three-run victories.

Toby's shut out Villa Builders, 3-0, on the two hit pitching of John Billings. Russ Knudsen slammed a triple and a single, and Mickey Hurley knocked two singles to pace the Truckers' attack.

The Italian Club featured Matt Gondak's three-hit, three RBI power in a 4-1 victory over Drake.

Tonight, Toby's probably will go with curve-balling Jim Petray, while the Italian Club should pitch hard-throwing Gene Frey, according to coach Gary Hughes of the Truckers. The game is a replay of a marathan, extra-inning contest last month that ended in a deadlock.

In the other tilt last night, Holiday Magic (7-6) outscored Kelleher Lumber (5-8) by a 9-8 tally.

Carlton Wins 13th Straight For Phils

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Steve Carlton doesn't dare to look back because the Philadelphia Phillies may be gaining on him.

"I don't think about records because they're something to look back on," Carlton said Wednesday night after he pitched a three-hitter and hit a homer to give the hapless Phils a 2-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates and run his winning streak to 13 straight games.

Carlton hasn't lost since May 30 and since that time the Phils have won 21 games including the 13 by Carlton. For the season, Carlton has almost half of the club's wins—18 of 40. Not since somebody named Noodles Hahn won 22 of 52 games for Cincinnati in 1901 has a National League pitcher Had such a high percentage of his team's victories.

Carlton struck out 12 to boost his league-leading total to 232 and his shutout extended his string of innings without an earned run to 54.

Philadelphia scored the only run it needed off loser Steve Blass, 12-6, in the second inning. Willie Montanez led off with a single, followed by Greg Luzinski's single and when the ball was mishandled by right-fielder Gene Clines, Montanez scored. Carlton then added his homer in the third inning for insurance.

In other National League action, Cincinnati topped Los Angeles, 6-3, Atlanta defeated Houston, 6-0, San Diego downed San Francisco, 5-2, Montreal beat Chicago, 8-2 and New York stopped St. Louis, 8-3.

Henry Aaron hit a two-run homer and George Stone pitched a six-hitter as Atlanta defeated Houston. Aaron hit the 23rd homer of the season and the 662nd of his career in the first inning to give Stone all the help he needed. Aaron is now only 52 away from the mark.

San Rafael Girl Near Best Time In National Swim

I-J Special Report

HERSHEY, Pa. — Jo Hislop of San Rafael notched a near-best 400-meter free clocking, as did two other Marin Aquatic Club swimmers yesterday, in the first day of the National AAU Open Swimming Championships here.

Maura Campion and Denis Ham competed in the 100-meter butterfly, timing 1:10.3 and 1:10.8, respectively.

No local swimmer made the finals ic three first day events, but coach Don Swartz indicates that there is a good possibility of high placing today.

He indicated that all the best swimmers in the country are participating, excepting those that are heading for the Olympics in Munich, Germany.

New York Teams Tax Relief Plans

NEW YORK (UPI) — The city of New York is studying plans to give tax relief to the New York Knicks and Rangers but buying Madison Square Garden is not one of the proposals under consideration, Mayor John V. Lindsay said Wednesday.

Other city officials had said Tuesday the city was thinking about puchasing the Garden and leasing it back to the Knicks and Rangers to prevent the teams from moving to New Jersey.

But Lindsay said "there is no talk about purchasing Madison Square Garden."

Lindsay said the city officials are studying the idea of a Sports Authority to function as a managing unit for various sports facilities. The mayor said, "the paper work has been done" but a final decision on whether to actually create the authority has not been reached.

What the teams want, a garden spokesman said Tuesday, is to gain the same type of tax positions the city has given teams like the Jets, Mets and Yankees. The Garden is reported to be paying $2.1 million a year in tax on the arena.

However, there was some opposition among city officials for any plan to give tax relief to the corporation since both teams are so successful.

Williams Jennings, the president of the Rangers, said he didn't want to give the impression that either team is in trouble financially. "I feel a mistaken impression has resulted that the Garden is trying to keep its head above water. I don't think that's the issue. The real issue is fair treatment and protecting stockholders. We're doing very well financially and hope to do better.

Paradise Pharmacy Romps To Cage Win

Perry's Poor Boys edged Taveggia and Brusati, 55-53 in overtime, and McGillicuddy Construction beat Buresh Vallarino Claxon Castamaga, 85-49 in other games.

8 Win Trophies For Northwoods

Eight archers from the Northwoods Bowmen's Club of Marin collected trophies in a two-day shoot last weekend at the South Tahoe Bowmen's Club at the Arrowhead Range near Lake Tahoe.

Taking first place awards for the Santa Venetia-based club were Hal Mayfield Jr., in youth freestyle C class, and Dave Anderson in the youth freestyle B class. Anderson also racked up most points in the 60-target event among the Northwoods entries.

Dave Nagel took third place in the bare bow B class, while his wife Kitty came in fourth in the women's bare bow C class. Other Northwoods members who placed were Hal Mayfield, third in bare bow A class, Jeff Tuetken, fourth in youth freestyle B class, Charlie Droesch, fifth in bare bow C class, and Greg Tuetken, fifth in youth barebow C class.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

The Smooo-o-oth One

By LEE TREVINO

The really velvet swingers — Gene Littler, Sam Snead, Julius Boros and Bert Yancey — all have the same slow take-away. Their backswings are lazy-like, but not floppy.

The attack area of the downswing is a reflex action of the backswing. The golfer who starts his swing by jerking the club away from the ball loses control at the top unless he has a great grip. If he retains that hurried tempo, he'll rush into the downswing. The result is a misdirected shot.

To concentrate on a smooth backswing, I always look at the target twice. After the forward press I think "one second" as I come back. Nothing else, just a mental "one" as I take the club away from the ball.

I've heard that Patty Berg used to think "ooom-pah" as she began her backswing. It's a good way to establish a tempo.

The speed of a man's backswing isn't that important. Arnold Palmer and Chi Chi Rodriguez have fast backswings, and who says those dudes can't play? It takes different speeds for different breeds.

The speed of your backswing isn't what counts — IF you keep it the same all the time. It's the way you bring it down that counts.

Anti-Trust Action Set vs. NBA Moguls

CHICAGO (UPI)—A federal anti-trust suit has been filed against the National Basketball Association charging that NBA owners have violated the NBA conflict of interest ruling by their association with Emprise Corp.

Irving H. Levin and Harold A. Lipton, both of Beverly Hills, Calif., filed suit Wednesday in U.S. District Court here claiming that NBA owners prefer those who "might assist" the Emprise Corp. The two filed suit after they were denied the transfer of ownership of the Boston Celtics by the NBA owners after the commissioner had approved the move.

Emprise has undergone nationwide investigations concerning reputed links to organized crime.

The men charged that NBA owners "attempt to limit membership in the NBA to persons who might assist Emprise to obtain concession privileges "in stadiums where NBA games are held.

Quarterback Dickey Tries To Earn Oiler No. 1 Spot

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

If Lynn Dickey is to unseat Dan Pastorini as the Houston Oilers' No. 1 quarterback, he must begin to make his move tonight.

Dickey, like Pastorini a second-year man, will get the starting assignment tonight when the Oilers play host to the Chicago Bears in the opening of a four-day exhibition football weekend.

Dickey, who completed 10-of 16 passes last week for two touchdowns in a losing cause, will work with the Oilers' No. 1 receiving corps, Charlie Joiner and Ken Burrough. Pastorini hit the speedy Burrough with a pair of TD passes in the first half last week against the Dallas Cowboys but Dickey worked with the second-string receivers in the second half.

In other action this weekend, Washington is at Denver Friday night while on Saturday, Buffalo is at New Orleans, Cincinnati plays host to Detroit, St. Louis is at Kansas City, Miami entertains Green Bay, the New York Jets take on Pittsburgh in Seattle, Minnesota plays host to San Diego, Dallas is at Los Angeles and New England is at Philadelphia. Cleveland is at San Francisco on Sunday while in a Monday night game, Baltimore plays host to Oakland.

In news from the training camps Wedneesday, Lance Alworth, Dallas' wide reeceiver, has a pulled hamstring muscle and may miss the game against Los Angeles. The Cowboys waived Lonnie Leonard and asked injured waivers on veteran cornerback Mark Washington and running back Bill Thomas, their NUO. 1 draft pick from Boston College.

Pittsburgh announced that Terry Brudshaw, who suffered an injured thigh last week, probably will start at quarterback against the Jets. Terry Hanratty, Bob Leahy and Joe Gilliam also should see action at quarterback. Joe Namath is expected to play about a quarter for the Jets.

Jerry Rhome, who spent four years with the Cowboys, will open against his former teammates. Rhome will quarterback the club since Roman Gabriel still is recovering from a collapsed lung.

John Ralston, Denver's new coach, said he will decide during the exhibtion season whether he will call plays from the bench or allow his quarterback to control the game. the Broncos play their first pre-season game against the Redksins.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY
Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance

South Has A Problem: What To Do With Eight Of Diamonds

It is possible to have too many cards in your best suit. In today's hand, for example, South would be much better off without the eight of diamonds.

FIRST ACTION

South can win the first two diamonds with the king and queen. He can then lead the nine of diamonds to dummy's ace. He would then be ready to win two more tricks in the dummy with the seven and six of diamonds — if he could only get rid of the eight of diamonds. As long as he has that eight, however, he will have to win the fourth round of diamonds in his hand; and then there is no way to get to dummy for a fifth diamond trick.

When the hand was played, South saw that the eight of diamonds was excess baggage, and he found an ingenious way to get rid of it.

West led the king of spades, holding the trick. West confidently led the queen of spades and held that trick also. West continued with the jack of spades and was allowed to win that third trick, too!

NOTHING BETTER

For lack of anything better to do, West led a fourth spade, forcing out dummy's ace. On this trick, South got rid of his offending eight of diamonds!

He could now easily take the king, queen and ace of diamonds in that order to establish the suit. Dummy won two more diamond tricks, and South made game with five diamonds, a spade, a club and two hearts.

CAN'T STOP

West couldn't stop South by switching to a different suit, since then South could take the first four diamond tricks in any sequence and get back to dummy with the ace of spades for the fifth diamond.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one no-trump, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - A 9 5 4
♥ - 6 4
♦ A 7 6 4 2
♣ - J 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs — the Stayman Convention.

This does not show biddable clubs but does ask your partner to show a biddable major suit, if he has one. If partner can show spades, you will raise to game; otherwise you will bid game in no-trump.

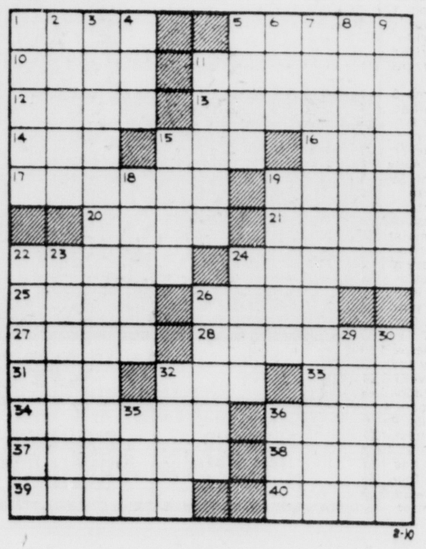
Yesterday's Answer



Market Is Higher At Closing

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market broke out of a mixed pattern today to close slightly higher in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Advances led declines by almost 200 issues among the more than 1,725 crossing the tape.

The upturn began late in the day and many analysts noted it came after the Commerce Department reported July retail sales increased by 2 per cent over June.

For the past three sessions, the market has been consolidating large recent gains. Some analysts noted stock prices are at a high level where many traders are willing to sell.

Bristol Myers was higher most of the day. The consumer products manufacturer recently reported better than anticipated second quarter earnings. For that reason, a major brokerage recommended buying the stock.

MOUNTAIN VIEW (BW) — Spectra-Physics Inc., producer of commercial laser-based products, has announced a net income of $928,200, or 93 cents per share, on sales of $9,980,700 for the nine-month period ended June 30.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Fairmont Foods Should Be Held

By ROGER E. SPEAR

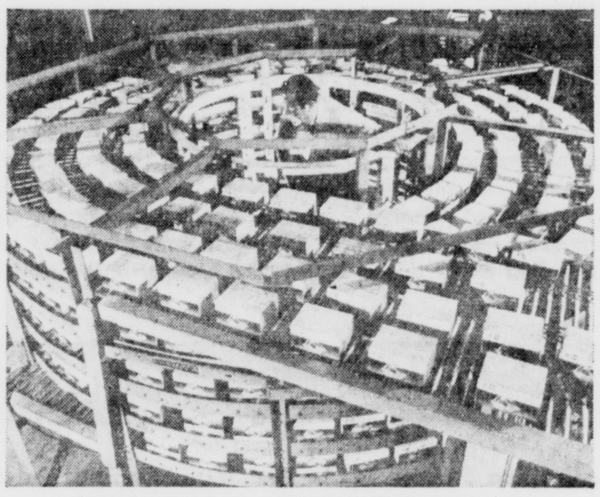
Q. I have had shares of Fairmont Foods (NYSE) for many years. They have never split nor paid an extra dividend and now have cut the existing one in half. They have, however, increased their business immensely. How do you account for this? — D.W.

A. Fairmont Foods' annual dividend was reduced following a depressed fiscal 1971 when earnings fell 27 per cent to 93 cents a share — 7 cents under the $1.00 dividend then being paid. Also, the company reported extraordinary charges that year equal to $1.34 a share, reflecting anticipated losses and other costs related to the closing and realignment of certain unprofitable and marginal operations. Hence, though the firm's volume has been expanding, profits have been having trouble nosing ahead.

This situation is imporving, however. Management recently announced plans to switch emphasis from its dairy products and food processing business (largely responsible for the earnings slump) to its more profitable convenience food business. Thus, with more concentration on nondairy foods, the withdrawal from less profitable product areas and the closing of marginal operations, Fairmont appears on the road to recovery, and may be held for that eventuality.

Q. I own shares of Airco, Inc. for which I paid 20½. What is your opinion of this and the outlook? — D.F.

A. A leading producer of indusrial gases and ferro alloys, whose largest customer is the steel industry, NYSE-traded Airco is and should continue to benefit from the cyclical improvement being experienced in this segment. Company reported significantly improved results in 1971 and thus far in 1972.



INDUSTRIAL MERRY-GO-ROUND

WILMINGTON, Mass. — A spiral conveyor that can be built in tiers up to 20 feet high and occupies half the floor space of conventional conveyor systems is expected to get widespread use in dairy, food, meat, packaging, and industrial markets. Called Tapertrak by its developer, Greer Industries Inc., a division of Columbia Precision Corporation, it has tapered ball bearing rollers that will go backward or forward at from three to 50 feet per minute. It will hold up to 900 linear feet of products like ice cream, TV dinners, cameras, or electronic assemblies.

Airlines Reach For Goodies

NEW YORK (UPI)—The airlines, trying desperately to make up some of their losses, have reached into the goodie bag and are offering everything from strolling minstrels to "Dracula tours'(to get people on board.

With recession-inflicted losses well into the hundreds of millions of dollars during the past two years, airline executives are reaching far afield to get out of the woods.

Typical of the airlines' new promotion campaigns are a series of tours and "inflight happenings" offered by Eastern, American, Pan American and United airlines.

Eastern, for example, is pushing a concept called "the wings of man versus the wheels of man." Company executives hope the promotion, designed to capture part of the vacation market which normally travels by auto, will result in sales approaching $10 to $12 million.

"Eighty-four per cent of the families who take vacations go by car," said Maurice Kelley, Eastern vice president. "It would increase our business fourfold if we got it all, but we'd be happy with only a few per cent." Kelley said Eastern is aiming at middle income families, with one or two small children. Included in the plan are car rental facilities at the destination, babysitters for the kids and other benefits all aimed at making "the experience at the other end" that much more enjoyable.

'Oxy' Agreement Creates Concern

By S. M. MARSHALL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

A massive wave of speculation rolled into the shares of Occidental Petroleum in response to the news of the concern's trade agreement with the Soviet Union and created chaotic trading conditions in securities markets throughout the United States.

This week, as investors stood back and tried to examine the fundamentals behind the stock that is widely known as "Oxy," it was becoming clear that answers to many important questions would be needed to make a sober appraisal of the issue.

Between its closing price July 14 and the peak it reached near to height of the speculation last week, Oxy's aggregate market value shot up by nearly $400 million and the price of the stock itself climbed well over 50 per cent.

On the New York Exchange (NYSE) alone, 5,710,000 shares of Oxy changed hands last week. At least another 3 million shares of the issue were traded in the over-the-counter market and on regional exchanges during the week.

The stock was by far the most active on the Big Board and may well have been the most active in history if you include trading in all markets. However, no records are kept on total nationwide turnover.

The intriguing aspect of the trading binge was that almost all the volume came in small lots to 100, 200, or 300 shares. Joseph Romano Jr., the specialist in Oxy, said there was a surprising absence of block trades.

This indicated that small investors were mainly responsible for the action and that institutions, less inclined to get caught up in the emotional speculation, were sticking to the sidelines.

The principal question about the company's extraordinary trade pact with the Soviets was how much it would be worth to Oxy in terms of earnings and how soon those earnings would be rolling into the company's coffers.

When rumors of the deal first began circulating in Europe July 17, somebody put a price tag of $3 billion on it. When Dr. Armand Hammer, Oxy's flamboyant chairman, confirmed that the deal had been made, he did not confirm the $3 billion figure.

Some of Oxy's followers in Wall Street say it is pure guesswork to estimate how much or when the company might benefit. They hope that the company expects to be paid with oil, gas, and possibly fertilizers,and possibly fertilizers, as well as nickel and chromium.

In other words, it's sort of an old-fashioned barter deal that does not involve a direct exchange of hard cash. This certainly must raise serious questions about the earnings that are likely to be derived from it.

"There is considerable hazard in Oxy's highly speculative shares at the recent price of 16 (NYSE)," said Standard & Poor's, "and the indefinite information about the Soviet deal leaves many question marks."

Since that advisory was issued, the stock continued to weaken, indicating that some of the enthusiastic speculators who had been buyers at 18 were becoming uncomfortable with their holdings.

"The stock should be purchased only by the hardened risk-taker who is able to live with its volatility," Standard & Poor's concluded.

The research concern said it was more significant that Oxy recently had brought in a discovery oil well offshore from Nigeria, producing an 18,600-barrel daily flow from two zones.

The company believes it has found a major oil field in the offshore area. Standard & Poor's concluded that "Nigerian oil could add importantly to Oxy's earnings, beginning in 1973."

The company has good potentials in Venezuela, Peru and the North Sea, where exploratory drilling will get under way this year.

But there are problems, too. Late in June, Libya ordered Oxy's oil production there to be cut back by 20 per cent. Another problem is weak heating-oil prices in Europe.

Standard & Poor's estimates that Oxy's earnings in 1972 should be about 50 cents a share, representing a strong turnaround from a deficit of $1.26 a share in 1971. But in 1970 the company earned $2.92 a share, and in 1969 it earned $2.97.

The deal with the Soviet Union does add up to a coup for the company, in that it apparently represents a first major step in opening trade relations with the Communist country. This fact no doubt was partly responsible for the investor enthusiasm.

Master Plan Will Be Fought By San Geronimo

20,000 Population Is Envisioned Prompting Committee Formation

By JEFF GREER

San Geronimo Valley residents last night formed an ad hoc committee designed to save the valley from potential hazards of the area's 11-year-old master plan and its existing zoning.

Although the 1961-model master plan calls for preservation of the valley's rural nature, it would permit the valley to be turned into an urbanized area of 20,000 population, Marin County Planning Director Werner Von Gundell pointed out.

About 100 residents attended the meeting in Lagunitas School organized by Jean Berensmeier of Lagunitas.

After listening to and questioning Von Gundell, Marin Municipal Water District spokesmen and several environmental group members, a dozen valley residents volunteered to form the committee to draft a new master plan for San Geronimo, Lagunitas, Woodacre and Forest Knolls.

The committee will meet at 8 p.m. Monday in Lagunitas School to pick its leadership, to recruit members from homeowner, church, service clubs and other groups, and to set priorities, Mrs. Berensmeier announced.

One of the committee's first actions may be a petition to the Marin County Board of Supervisors to scrap the existing valley master plan and replace it with an interim plan to prevent massive development of the valley's large acreages.

The petition strategy was suggested by Harold Gregg, director of the Marin Conservation League and a former San Geronimo Valley resident.

Gregg and speakers for the Bolinas Planning Group and West Marin Environmental Action Committee, Patrick Hollern and Jerry Friedmann urged the San Geronimo Valley residents to draft a new master plan to reinforce the concepts of Marin's Countywide General Plan now in preparation.

Von Gundell reported Strawberry, Tam Valley and Bolinas residents are preparing their own such plans, using local talent in some cases and consultants in others.

The valley's 1961 plan was "very advanced for its day" but far behind the times now, Von Gundell said. "We aren't smarter today, we're just more aware" of environmental quality in Marin, he said.

The old plan would permit high density development of the entire San Geronimo Valley and its ridges and merge the four small communities in the valley into one conglomerate, the planner explained. The countywide general plan now being refined proposes to lower density and keep San Geronimo, Lagunitas, Woodacre and Forest Knolls as separate "villages."

Von Gundell suggested that it may be necessary to limit building in the valley to only 300 new homes by 1990 — "about 15 or 16 a year." The 1970 census showed 1,161 homes in the valley, he reported.

Faster or denser development would overtax roads, require sewers and other expensive urban services and destroy the "village" concept, Von Gundell warned.

"The chances are fairly good

Kill Tax Initiative, Top Court Is Asked

Jr. College Association Fears Crowded Schools

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Supreme Court today was asked to strike the Watson property tax limitation initiative from the Nov. 7 ballot or to at least order the measure's title rewritten.

The suit was filed in San Francisco against Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., the state's chief elections officer, by the California Junior College Association.

The initiative, sponsored by Los Angeles County Assessor Philip Watson, would write into the state constitution drastic limitations on local property taxes. Opponents have warned it would trigger an estimated $1 billion increase in state taxes to offset the loss of local revenue.

Charles O'Brien, former state chief deputy attorney general, filed the action on behalf of the community colleges, state Firemen's Association, California School Boards Association, University of California Regent William Coblentz and Julian Nava, member of the Los Angeles Board of Education.

The legal challenge asserts the Watson initiative should be removed from the ballot on grounds it violates the constitution because it covers more than a single subject; revises rather than merely amends the constitution; and has a "misleading" ballot title.

It asks the court to order Brown to remove the proposal from the ballot or failing in that to direct Attorney General Evelle Younger to rewrite the ballot title.

O'Brien said the title refers to several property tax limitations "but nowhere is there any mention of the number of taxes which will be increased, or the impact the measure will have on school finance, mass transit or city and county government."

The suit was filed six days after the Legislature recessed for three months after failing to approve a compromise property tax relief and school finance bill backed by Gov. Ronald Reagan and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti.

Filing of the suit constituted the first major action in an expected all-out public relations campaign to defeat the proposal. A similar Watson-sponsored ballot measure was rejected at the polls in 1968.

Leland W. Myers, an official of the junior college association, warned that the community colleges would be required to turn away about 750,000 students next year if the amendment were approved because it would have such an adverse effect on school finances.

He said the inclusion of the school boards and firemen's groups in the suit "reflected the serious concern" they have about the amendment.

McGovern Dares Nixon To TV Debates On Asia

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) —Sen. George S. McGovern again challenged President Nixon to a series of face-to-face campaign debates today, saying the American people had a right to an open discussion of issues.

There was virtually no chance Nixon will accept, on the basis of the refusal by incumbents in past presidential races to accept such challenges.

ButcGovern, who opened his first campaign trip in the same New Hampshire shoe factory where it all began for him six months ago, called on Nixon to "put aside politics as usual and join me in a series of major television debates this fall."

"If there had been debates in 1968, perhaps we would have learned more about Nixon's secret plan to end the war in Vietnam—a plan that is still secret, about a war that still goes on, four years later," he said.

"Never before has an American president exposed himself less to direct questions from the press, or anyone else in public view."

About 300 persons welcomed the candidate at Manchester airport where McGovern was shown a copy of the Manchester Union-Leader which contained five articles and editorials unfavorable to him. McGovern smiled and accepted a copy.

Meanwhile, the Pentagon accused McGovern of flying in the face of reality with his suggestion that defense spending be cut by $30 billion.

Saigon GIs Make Gains In Quang Tri

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese marines broke a weeks-old stalemate in the Quang Tri area today by capturing a bridgehead south of the city—their first real victory since they relieved the badly battered airborne troops at Quang Tri on July 27.

A marine battalion of 500 men climbed out of its foxholes near the provincial capital just below the North-South border and seized the bridgehead at the Tach Han River, giving them a new attack route toward the Communist-held Citadel, a mile to the north in the center of the city.

The North Vietnamese held onto the 18th Century Citadel despite new American air attacks in which "smart bombs" guided by laser beams blew up part of the wall that forms the fortress. The Communist de-

Stafford Is Seated By Water Directors

By PAT ANGLE

Directors of the Marin Municipal Water District voted 3-0 yesterday to seat Dr. Ronald T. Stafford on the district board despite an attorney's allegation that he may not live in the district. (Another water district story, page 19.)

Attorney Hugh G. Lawrence asked the board to determine whether the newly-elected director resides within the district. The attorney said he represents Charles S. Adkins of Tamalpais Valley, a resident of Division Fire from which Stafford was elected in June.

The board declined to investigate the matter further after Stafford told them he lives at 270 Currey Avenue in Sausalito, within the district. "This is a witch hunt and I don't want to participate in it," said Director Jack R. Felson.

Lawrence carefully avoided actually stating that the 28-year-old physician and conservationist lives outside the district. But he suggested the board find out when Stafford moved to his new home, at what address the physician's two phone numbers are located, where his personal belongings were before and after the last election and where his mail is being delivered.

"I resent that this board might question any statement I might make here," Stafford said, but added the board could, if it wished, "call my landlord and the post office or have me swear on a Bible."

Board president Jordan L. Martinelli Jr. said he did not believe it was up to the board to determine the doctor's legal residence.

Stafford was elected in June to replace Robert G. Anderson in Division Five which includes most of Sausalito, Belvedere, Tiburon, Marin City and Tamalpais Valley.

When Anderson, who had decided not to seek reelection, announced last month that he was leaving the board before his term expires Dec. 31, the board appointed Stafford since he had been elected.

Before the board meeting yesterday, Lawrence had told the I-J he did not believe Stafford was a district resident at the time of the election and said his client had hired a private investigator to prove that.

Stafford's residency problems began soon after he filed for the board post in February and learned that his home, at 19 Wolfback Ridge Road, was not in the district.

A day before the deadline for filing, he notified county election officials that he had moved to 71 Sunshine Avenue, a single family home containing an apartment in which he had lived before moving to Currey Avenue three weeks ago.

Stafford said that Marin County developers were behind the move to keep him off the board because of his belief that the district should limit growth of the county by limiting future water supply. He said that the district attorney's office had had him "tailed" before the election to determine where he actually resided.

"I think this whole matter is a deterrent to people who want to run for public office," the physician said. "I resent being harassed and having my privacy invaded."

British Use Airlift To Hungry Isles

LONDON (UPI)—The government today ordered military planes to mount an emergency airlift of food and other vital supplies to Britain's most northerly offshore islands.

The airlift was ordered to head off threatened starvation in the Orkney and Shetland islands north of Scotland, which have been virtually isolated by a nationwide ports shutdown now in its 14th day.

The military airlift to the Orkneys and Shetlands was the first time the government has used the emergency powers it took a week ago.

But it postponed at least until next week use of troops to move foodstuffs blockaded in strike-bound seaports around the country.

There appeared little prospect of a return to work for another 10 days.

In Glasgow 1,200 striking longshoremen voted at a mass meeting not to handle even vital supplies to isolated islands off the coasts of Scotland where food shortages already were becoming acute.

They said it is up to the government to use the emergency powers it took a week ago to deal with the crisis.

The National Farmers Union said the shortage of animal feed is becoming critical.

Britain's 42,000 longshoremen have shut down the country's main seaports since July 28 in a walkout of indefinite duration. It was called to back demands for greater job security and the right for longshoremen to get all jobs at container depots, even at inland sites.

Prime Minister Edward Heath and key government ministers discussed the crisis and heard reports on food and other supplies.

House Panel Votes Funds For Golden Gate Recreation Area

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Interior Committee approved legislation today to create the Golden Gate Urban National Recreation Area at the entrance to San Francisco Bay.

The legislation would authorize appropriations of up to $118.6 million for land acquisition and development. It was expected the cost would eventually be higher.

As approved by the committee, the urban recreation area would be about 10,000 acres larger than proposed in a bill submitted by the Nixon administration.

The bill, which also must be cleared by the House Rules Committee, was approved by unanimous voice vote.

The committee approved 10-5 an amendment by Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-Calif., for a study aimed at coordinating public and private transportation systems serving the recreation area.

The committee erased from Clausen's amendment language that would have required the Secretary of the Interior to recommend a transportation plan. As approved, the amendment merely directs the secretary to cooperate in a study.

The committee expanded the jurisdiction of the recreation area's 15-man advisory commission to include the Fort Point Museum, Muir Woods and the Point Reyes National Seashore, according to Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District.

The bill authorizes up to $60.6 million for land acquisition, including the privately owned Cliff House-Sutro Baths.

But Rep. Roy A. Taylor, D-N.C., chairman of the committee on national parks and recreation, said panel members had agreed private lands should not be acquired unless surroudning state and city lands are donated to the national recreation area.

Taylor noted that development costs had been estimated at $58 million under the more modest administration bill.

"Since the subcommittee has included additional lands, it is safe to assume that the cost will be greater," Taylor told the parent committee. "But in view of the fact that development dollars are scarce, it is my opinion that this authorization will be adequate for the immediate years ahead. "If further authorization is needed, that can be taken care of by a future congress."

The committee also approved an amendment making it clear that the Presidio Golf Course was intended to remain under the Army's jurisdiction so long as it was used for that purpose.

Rep. John P. Saylor, R-Pa., voted against the amendment after protesting that it was "very strange" to have a golf course for "the exclusive use of the military" inside the boundaries of a recreational area meant for the general public.

The bill introduced by Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., a member of the committee, includes lands in both San Francisco and Marin counties.

The recreation area includes extensive private holdings in Olema Valley as sought by Representative Mailliard, military forts and lands in Marin, Alcatraz, Angel Island and other state park lands. The Net Depot on the Tiburon Peninsula is not included in the recreational area.

Viet Cong Demand Saigon Ouster At Paris Debates

PARIS (UPI) — The Viet Cong, detailing for the first time its demands for a coalition regime in South Vietnam, said today the war will rage on and negotiations remain deadlocked until the Saigon government resigns.

Before the actual talks began the Hanoi delegation used statements by actress Jane Fonda, Sen. Eward Kennedy, former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark and U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim to back its claims that the United States was deliberately bombing dikes in North Vietnam.

Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, Chief Viet Cong negotiator, said at the 154th session of the stalemated Vietnam Peace talks, "As long as that administration (of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu) exists, the war goes on and the negotiations remain deadlocked."

U.S. negotiator William J. Porter said the Communists' refusal to accept a cease-fire and then negotiate a political settlement proved their "obsessive pursuit" of a military victory in order to seize power in South Vietnam. He dismissed Hanoi's dike allegations as pure propaganda.

Madame Binh did not specify whether her word "deadlocked" applied to the backstage private talks between Hanoi's negotiators and U.S. Presidential Adviser Henry A. Kissinger as well as to the weekly semipublic sessions on Kleber Avenue.

Today's session of the conference, despite recently expressed optimism of American officials, had the same atmosphere of angry charges and countercharges about alleged U.S. bombing of dikes that marked last Thursday's session.

Bombs Rock Ulster; IRA Officer Caught

BELFAST (UPI)—Six men escaped death or injury today when a fellow worker risked his life to warn them of a sputtering bomb.

The bomb blasted a bus depot in Londonderry just before noon. Another shattered a nearby dress shop moments later. Two others exploded in downtown Armagh.

No one was hurt in any of the blasts.

During the night there was hand-to-hand fighting around the neighborhood social center in the Roman Catholic Andersonstown district of Belfast and it did not end until British soldiers chased the last gangs of teen-agers from the area.

The fighting began Wednesday night as Catholics in the area tried to march to the Roger Casement football stadium. It was the second battle in four days around the park, which troops occupied when they moved into Catholic strongholds two weeks ago.

Across the city in the Catholic Ardoyne district, soldiers arrested one of the Belfast leaders of the Provisional Irish Republican Army (IRA), Martin Meehan, eight months after he escaped from the city's Crumlin Road jail.

Catholics stoned army and police posts across Northern Ireland Wednesday to mark the one-year anniversary of the introduction of internment without trial for suspected IRA leaders.

Only in Andersonstown, scene of fierce rioting Sunday, did the violence threaten to get out of hand.

A crowd of 1,500 Catholics, many of them teen-agers, marched through the Falls Road district shouting "Give us back our country."

As they came within a quarter mile of the ball park, whose club and bar is a social headquarters for the neighborhood, they ran into barbed wire barricades and lines of troops and armored cars.

They charged, brandishing broken bottles and hurling stones. Army riot squads with shields and truncheons took the first shock of the assault, but as they fought the rioters hand-to-hand, groups of 20 to 30 began to break through the army line.

When rioters began tossing gasoline bombs at the soldiers, troops replied with rubber bullets. The fighting continued for serveral hours, and it was early morning before troops finally cleared the streets.

House Panel Refuses To Subpoena Fonda

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Internal Security Committee refused today to subpoena actress Jane Fonda to testify about her alleged antiwar activities while in Hanoi.

Instead, it decided to ask the Justice Department to report to the committee by Sept. 14 on the progress of an inquiry into Miss Fonda's actions in North Vietnam.

PRO-NIXON GROUPS

Target: Dissident Demos

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Two separate organizations have been formed with the common goal of enticing dissident Democrats into supporting President Nixon. The groups are headed by John B. Connally, former Democratic Governor of Texas, and Floyd B. McKissick, former Director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE).

Connally will serve as national chairman of the Democrats for Nixon committee, a group with 41 vice-chairmen including business executives, entertainers, athletes and politicians.

McKissick said his group, to be called the National Committee for a Two-Party System, will enable Democrats and other blacks who would not support any other Pro-Nixon group to work for his reelection in November.

Connally, the only Democrat in Nixon's cabinet until his resignation as treasury secretary earlier this year, announced in Washington Wednesday that his group would attempt to raise between $2 million and $3 million for Nixon's campaign coffers this fall. He said the group will avoid Congressional and local races and concentrate on enlisting Democrats in behalf of the Nixon-Agnew ticket.

Connally attacked Sen. George S. McGovern's campaign forces. "Rarely in our history," he said, "has a group holding temporary control of a political party done so much to alienate rank-and-file members of that party whose only sin is to have differing views."

He added that the Democratic party, instead of becoming more open, "is becoming an ideological machine closed to millions of Americans who have been the party's most loyal and steadfast members."

JOHN B. CONNALLY
Attack on McGovern

Connally estimated that 20 million Democrats had already decided that "President Nixon is simply the better choice." The total Democratic vote for Hubert H. Humphrey in the 1968 election was 31.3 million.

Connally said the treasurer of the new organization would be Leonard H. Marks, former director of the U.S. Information Agency in the Johnson Administration.

The list of vice-chairmen ranged from entertainers Sammy Davis Jr., and Frank Sinatra to IBM executive chairman Thomas J. Watson Jr., and Robert F. Six, president of Continental Airlines.

In New York, McKissick told a news conference that his group will also work towards Nixon's reelection. "I'm a believer in the development of a strong two party system. We'll never solve the problems as long as blacks participate in one half," he said.

As the anti-McGovern sentiment was voiced, The Democratic National Committee ended its meeting in Washington by compromising a dispute over party control.

The committee, after a brief but heated debate, delayed until after the elections completion of its own membership as well as filling nine vacancies on the powerful 25-member executive committee.

The Democrats also decreed that eight regional members of the party's executive committee would serve only until the end of the year. The compromise was worked out between McGovern supporters and committee members who did not want his forces in control if he loses the election in November.

The committee also adopted a resolution creating a commission to study new methods of selecting a Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

Handgun Measure Is Approved By Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate has responded to the assassination attempt against Gov. George C. Wallace with a new firearms control bill aimed at cheap little guns called "Saturday night specials."

But, in three days of roll call votes that produced passage of the bill Wednesday, members affirmed the right of Americans to keep guns for protection and once again defeated overwhelmingly attempts to ban possession of handguns or require their registration with the government.

The new gun bill, sponsored by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., faces an uphill struggle in the House, and President Nixon's views on the measure are not known.

But it cleared the Senate with surprising ease on a 68 to 25 roll call vote preceded by a only a half-hearted attempt to dilute the measure.

California's two senators, Alan Cranston and John V. Tunney, cast "yes" votes on the legislation.

Democratic presidential candidate George S. McGovern, who had voted against earlier gun registration and confiscation proposals, backed the Bayh bill.

The measure, if enacted, would remove an estimated one million small, cheap and inaccurate firearms from the American market, banning their sale by either manufacturers or dealers.

For the first time, standards would be set on what kind of guns could be sold in the United States—with criteria enforced by the secretary of the treasury on length, weight, caliber and safety features.

In addition, although the Senate has firmly rejected government confiscation, the bill does encourage Americans to turn in handguns by offering compensation to dealers and owners for firearms now in their possession which the secretary decrees may not be sold. The Senate Judiciary Committee estimated this would cost the taxpayers $10 million.

An individual, however, could choose to keep his gun, even though its sale would be prohibited.

Major Victory For 'Sharing'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A $30 billion revenue sharing bill has cleared the Senate Finance Committee and could pass the Senate next week.

The House has already passed a bill allocating $30 billion, but has a different formula for distribution than the Senate measure. The House bill favors suburbs and large, urbanized states.

After the Finance Committee reported the bill out Wednesday, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz reflected administration delight. Shultz said the prospects were good for revenue sharing legislation to be in effect at the start of President Nixon's re-election campaign.

Although there are differences in the Senate and House bills, Shultz said he was "confident that a workable and acceptable solution" could be achieved.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., Finance Committee chairman, said the Senate formula would provide more funds for rural areas and cities than suburbs.

Eagleton Affair: Mental Health Expert's Fears

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The controversy over the case of Sen. Thomas Eagleton may prevent some Americans from seeking treatment when they need it, a mental health expert predicts.

"I think the whole episode has raised the Dark Ages attitude of being ashamed of a stigma because you seek psychiatric help," said Eva Maas of San Francisco, chairman of the National Council on Social Work in Mental Health.

At a news conference yesterday called to discuss the Eagleton affair in light of mental health, Mrs. Maas told of the parents of a 4-year-old girl who recently refused to register her for psychiatric care because they feared it would hurt her in later life.

"They said, 'We don't want to have it follow her around for he rest of her life,'" she said.

Eagleton disclosed his psychiatric treatment after he was selected as the Democratic nominee for Vice President. He withdrew from the ticket less than three weeks later when he said public controversy over his treatment began obscuring election issues.

Mrs. Maas said she fears the reluctance to seek psychiatric help would continue until the public "eliminates the distinction between health care for mental problems and other kinds of health care."

Other mental health workers joined Mrs. Maas in a prepared statement at the press conference saying anyone having a mental health problem should never hesitate to seek treatment.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Agnes' Damage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tropical storm Agnes claimed 118 lives and caused more than $3 billion in property damages, the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) reports.

OEP said the June 16-23 storm flooded 5,000 square miles of land from Florida to New York.

In the first comprehensive report based on both federal and state data, OEP said yesterday that more than 500,000 persons suffered losses. There were 116,000 dwellings and mobile homes damaged or destroyed and 5,800 businesses ravished.

A Tornado Death

NEWTON, Mass. (UPI) — A chain of tornados swooped down in Massachusetts yesterday, causing at least one death and toppling scores of trees and power lines.

The tornados frightened thousands of persons who knew little about tornados — which are uncommon in this area. Telephone service was interrupted in Newton and the neighboring Brookline section of Boston.

The U.S. Weather Service said a preliminary evaluation showed the tornados were associated with the same thunderstorm cell.

Sadat Calls Session

CAIRO (UPI) — President Anwar Sadat has called for an emergency session of parliament next Tuesday and recalled his ambassador to Moscow for consultations on the state of Egyptian-Soviet relations, political sources said today.

Ambassador Yehia Abdel Kader will return to Cairo tomorrow, the sources said.

He was recalled after Sadat received a message from Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist party leader. The semiofficial Al Ahram newspaper said the message could facilitate an Egyptian-Soviet summit.

Political sources, however, said Sadat has failed to make headway in his effort to arrange the conference.

More Surgery?

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — A surgeon said yesterday Gov. George C. Wallace may have to undergo more surgery to drain abdominal abscesses resulting from bullet wounds.

"The abscess drained two weeks ago has been completely healed," Dr. George Hallenbeck said. "X-rays today showed a cavity connected with a previous drain site that will require more time for healing.

Dr. George Traugh, who is directing Wallace's physical therapy program at Spain Rehabilitation Center, said that program "would continue without modification."

In Montgomery, preparations were nearly complete for Wallace's return to the executive mansion. Officials said the time of the return would be left up to his doctors.

Black Is Appointed

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)— Dorothy Anne Farley, the first black psychiatricmental nurse scientist to graduate with a Doctor of Nursing Science Degree in the United States, was appointed by Gov. William T. Cahill Wednesday to the state board of nursing.

Just Another Car

DETROIT (UPI) — It seems any car is subject to recall — Even President Nixon's $500,000 Lincoln Continental limousine which was supposed to be delivered to Washington two days ago for an unveiling.

The five-ton armor-plated chariot was just another Ford to the White House Secret Service staff who found some bugs in the vehicle and left it on a hoist at the Ford Motor Co. Dearborn plant.

"The Secret Service wants some changes. We are not at liberty to discuss the changes," said William Peacock, a Ford spokesman.

Oath Of Office

LISBON (UPI) — Adm. Americo Thomaz took the oath giving him his third seven-year term as president of Portugal yesterday, only hours after three bomb explosions caused temporary power failures throughout the country.

The plastic charges damaged electrical cables, including one at Povoa de Santa Iria, 10 miles northeast of Lisbon. Official sources said the resulting power failure affected 30 per cent of the country, including sections of Lisbon, blacked out for almost two hours.

Thomaz, 77, was sworn in at Belem Palace before the national assembly, corporative chamber, the government and diplomatic corps.

Not Cooperating

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (UPI) — Arthur H. Bremer, sentenced to 63 years imprisonment for trying to assassinate Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, is refusing to cooperate with prison psychiatrists.

When a Prince Georges County jury found Bremer guilty last Friday, it also ruled him sane. But he was ordered by Judge Ralph W. Powers to undergo psychiatric evaluation.

Robert Grams, a Maryland state correctional spokesman, said yesterday that Bremer was "not cooperating 100 per cent" with his psychiatrists.

Romney Says Government Will Not Take Flood Responsibility

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (UPI) —HUD Secretary George Romney drew angry shouts from a crowd of flood victims Wednesday when he told them the federal government will not take over mortgages on homes and businesses destroyed by Tropical Storm Agnes in June.

His statement also sparked a charge by Gov. Milton J. Shapp that the federal government has shirked its responsibilities.

Romney, noting that his Housing and Urban Development Department has been asked to assume mortgages and restore flood victims to complete equity, told the hostile crowd:

"I think it is unrealistic. I do not believe government should assume complete responsibility for people. We must recognize that people have a responsibility, too."

One man in work clothes shouted: "I guess I've been wrong all these years. I thought government was made up by the people."

Mrs. Min Matheson, 63, spokesman for the group, told Romney the federal government was doing "a damn rotten job" in helping the 15,000 families in this area whose homes were severely damaged or destroyed.

"You have been here for two days messing around with politicians," she said. "Why didn't you talk to the people? The politicians don't give a damn whether we live or die!"

"It wasn't necessary to talk to the people to see what the problem was," Romney shouted back. "I am here. I have looked at the problem. I cannot talk to all the individual people.

"Most of the needs have not been met, even on a temporary basis. Nevertheless, government agencies have done more in six weeks than they have done in any other disaster in six months."

The confrontation on a windswept patio of an elementary school followed one private meeting of Romney and Shapp, then another of the secretary, governor and local officials.

Romney barred news media and private citizens from the second meeting. The flood victims tried to enter, but they were physically ejected by guards.

Mrs. Matheson and four others immediately sent a telegram to President Nixon protesting Romney's "inaction, apathy and unconcern" for their problems.

Shapp said there was "no reason the federal government can't do more." He proposed a revival of the Reconstruction Finance Agency (RFC), a mid-Depression agency created by President Herbert Hoover.

Romney said Shapp's suggestion was "very political."

ROME (UPI)—Raffaele Minichiello, who hijacked a Los Angeles-bound jet to Rome in 1969 said Wednesday he was suing hotel owner Nicola Passanti for defamation of character. Passanti fired him as a cashier after 10 days on the job.

WINE NOTES #9

Mr. Bernard Fetzer, proprietor and winemaker of Fetzer wines, called to say that at long last he had some wines to release to two or three Northern California wine shops. His wines have been very well received in Southern California where he first introduced them. The wines are estate bottled, and most are unfiltered and unfined which means they are as natural as they can be — made to last in the bottle, a policy I heartily endorse. We are proud to offer our customers the fine wines of Fetzer Vineyards.

Mr. Bob Thompson, wine columnist of the S.F. Examiner, and other wine professionals have been writing and saying very nice things about a Cru Bourgeois Bordeaux called Chateau Cissac. Ch. Cissac was selected by the world famous author and wine consultant, Mr. Harry Waugh, as an excellent example of a consistently well-made wine from a lesser known chateau. The 1967 Ch. Cissac is available in very limited quantity, but we await with great anticipation the 1970 vintage (the best in Cissac's history, and perhaps the best vintage of the century in all Bordeaux) which will be in our warehouse sometime in July or August of 1973. The 1970 will also be in short supply as the total production of Ch. Cissac is only about 1500 cases, but it will be very reasonably priced (under $6.00, probably) and we urge you to consider placing your orders now as we expect to have most of it sold before it leaves France. We can offer it at a substantial saving to those who place orders within the next three or four months. A wonderful wine, and a wonderful investment in terms of both financial and quality appreciation.

I am happy to report that our new stores at #100 Miracle Mile in San Anselmo, and at the corner of Blackfield and Tiburon Blvd. in Tiburon will be under construction in August. These two stores will be very large and have been designed with particular emphasis on wine. Both stores will have extremely broad selections of California and imported wines, and we look forward to Opening Day.

Our Wine of the Month this month is an imported Johannisberger Riesling which you will not want to miss.

Marinite Named In Insurance Plot

I-J Special Report

INDIANAPOLIS — Federal officials said today that a Tiburon real estate man arrested by the FBI in Tiburon Tuesday is charged with conspiring in a plan to burn down an Ohio warehouse and collect $420,000 in insurance.

William Andrew Stephen Hodge, 34, posted $2,500 bail in San Francisco yesterday and was ordered to appear again next Wednesday before U.S. Commissioner Richard Goldsmith, who set the bail after Hodge spent a night in jail.

Hodge was arrested Tuesday on a federal grand jury indictment handed down Monday in Indianapolis accusing him and four other men of conspiracy to commit arson in connection with a warehouse fire July 24 in Kenton, Ohio.

Hodge, who once owned the Kenton warehouse building, is accused of crossing Indiana and Ohio state lines to aid in racketeering and arson in connection with the alleged plot.

Other accused in the case include a fire adjuster, a securities dealer and another real estate agent.

At the tim of his arrest, Hodge was being questioned by Tiburon police about the theft of a briefcase last Thursday belonging to restaurant owner Lee Carbone and said to contain $28,000 in cash.

Carbone said the briefcase disappeared after he dined with Hodge at the Harbor Light tavern and the Dock restaurant, according to police.

Hodge reportedly drove Carbone and his wife to Tiburon Lodge, where the couple planned to spend the night. Shortly after midnight, Carbone's wife told her husband that his money-filled briefcase was gone, police said.

Police later reported finding $5,200 under the front seat of Hodge's car and said he told them that he had been given the money by Carbone as a tip for taking them to their hotel room.

Fire Board Weighs Annexation Request

Novato Fire Protection District directors last night were asked to annex 31 acres at the Marin Valley Mobile Country Club, south of Hamilton Air Force Base.

Representatives of the mobile home development are seeking annexation of the area where 196 mobile homes are planned, according to Fire Chief Jack Kidder. The board is to study the matter further before making a decision, he said.

Key Prisoner's Rights Ruling

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—A dispute over an inmate's chess board has resulted in a significant ruling in federal court on prisoner's rights and solitary confinement.

U. S. District Judge Thomas W. Masterson ruled Wednesday that due process must be followed before an inmate is put in solitary. He said that the need of the prison security "cannot be used to justify the deprivation of human rights.

The ruling came on a suit filed by Gaylord Nearl, 33, Philadelphia, a former inmate at Greaterford State Prison. He was put in solitary confinement for seven days in 1964 when he tried to appeal a $1 fine for illegal possession of a chess board.

Nearl, who was paroled in 1969 after serving a five-year term for armed robbery, sought $10,489 in damages. He was awarded $514.60.

Davis Trial Cost Still Going Up

SAN JOSE (UPI) — The cost to California taxpayers for Angela Davis' murder trial passed the $1.25 million mark yesterday.

A Santa Clara County administrative analyst added anothar $198,935 to his county's costs — mostly in overtime for sheriff's deputies — bringing the total to $684,900.

Voter Campaign

A national campaign aimed at registering young voters will begin in Marin Saturday at Nixon Headquarters, 1403 Fourth Street, San Rafael, Tom Hayden, chairman of the California Young Voters for the President, announced today. He urged young people to attend.

Plans Approved For Restaurant

Plans for extensive remodeling of Rico's restaurant in Sausalito were given conceptual approval last night by the city's Community Appearances Advisory Board.

Owner Sam Zakessian is seeking to add a second story to the brick structure at 1219 Bridgeway and remodel and reconstruct portions of the restaurant.

Rico's has been closed for several months since the lease of its former operator, Richard Blacow, expired and was not renewed.

Bolinas Board Vacancy Filled

A 65-year-old retired mechanical engineer was appointed last night to fill a vacancy on the Bolinas Community Public Utility District board.

Directors chose Mark L. Ireland, of 10 Hillside Avenue, to replace Fred W. Wade, who resigned last month.

Ireland, a three-year resident of Bolinas, retired in February from General Electric's nuclear energy department in San Jose.

He and his wife have three grown children.

The board passed resolutions necessary to put a $385,000 bond issue on the Nov. 7. ballot. The measure is to finance a proposed waste treatment and disposal system for the community.

Bureaucrats Accused Of Film Mogul Trend

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Barry M. Goldwater Jr., R-Calif., charged the government with spending $500 million a year to become "the largest single audio-visual producer in the world" and said it is robbing professional performers and technical personnel of jobs.

Goldwater Wednesday urged action by both President Nixon and Congress, saying that in production of motion pictures and radio and television tapes the government "has adopted a policy of not using professional personnel, particularly from the performing unions."

His 66-page report, which he said was the result of his own investigations, said "the various agencies and departments use secretaries and any other regular government employes that might be available."

Goldwater was joined in his protest against "unfair government labor practices" by Bill Baldwin, president of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA), AFTRA National Executive Secretary Sanford (Bud) Wolff, and Jack Dales, executive secretary of the Screen Actors Guild (SAG).

Goldwater and the AFTRA and SAG leaders said the government was producing its own films while private production facilities in Southern California and elsewhere sit idle and thousands of professional performers and technicians are jobless.

Goldwater said the present Republican administration was not solely to blame because the situation was typical of a "bureaucratic tangle that is so evident in many areas of government."

He estimated spending at $500 million in 1971.

The report said preliminary inquiries at 13 agencies which produce the most audio visual materials indicated that about $35 million was allocated for such production during the 1971 fiscal year. However, the report said, further investigation showed the amount to be at least $120 million and actual spending was apparently far more, the report said.

The report estimated that the Defense Department alone had spent more than $214 million rather than the $60.2 million it said had been budgeted for the purpose.

The report suggested that lack of coordination which resulted in duplication was one reason for the heavy spending.

"For example, in the last two years the Defense Department produced 12 films on "How to Brush Your Teeth."

Two Black Angus Cows Slaughtered

Two pregnant Black Angus cows were butchered in an Olema pasture along Shoreline Highway late Tuesday or early yesterday by "rustlers" who apparently were scared away.

The slaughter of the beef cows, owned by Olema rancher Boyd Stewart, was discovered yesterday morning on the Righetti pasure land north of Eucalyptus Hill leased by Stewart.

The rustlers left behind two meathooks, a butcher knife and a sweatshirt and the front half of one cow, according to Pat Swift, partner in the Stewart ranch.

"I think someone startled them," Miss Swift said.

Cast aside were the bodies of the unborn calves. The cows were killed about 200 yards from Shoreline Highway and markings indicated the remains were dragged down to the roadway.

Miss Swift said she believed it took several persons to carry out the operation. "We'd like to find anybody who saw anything going on at the time, probably between midnight and dawn yesterday."

The cows were valued at $500 each and Stewart has offered a $1,000 reward for information about the killing.

WAR

fenders were heavily protected by big artillery pieces firing from up to 17 miles away.

Despite the limited success at Quang Tri, the situation was serious elsewhere and military spokesmen warned that a Communist force originally estimated at 100 tanks still menaced the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh and Saigon.

The tanks were reported near Highway 1 in the Kompong Trabek area 47 miles southeast of Phnom Penh and 85 miles northwest of Saigon. A Cambodian high command spokesman expressed fear the Communists would win at Kompong Trabek and then move toward Phnom Penh.

Meanwhile, seven Americans were killed in fighting in Vietnam last week and another 36 were wounded, most of them in a pair of Communist rocket attacks on U.S. bases, military spokesmen said today.

The U.S. command said 45,843 American servicemen have died in the Indochina fighting since 1961 and 303,296 have been wounded.

leased in Washington was peppered with references to McGovern by name. The Defense Department said "Those who suggest that we can solve our public spending problem by peeling some easy billions off the defense budget are arguing not only with the Pentagon, but with reality, and reality is a formidable opponent."

The Democratic presidential candidate described the two-day trip through New Hampshire, Connecticut and Rhode Island, ending in New York City Friday as a "listening tour."

McGovern prepared for his first full-scale campaign trip Wednesday by mending fences with House Democrats. Accompanied by Sargent Shriver, his new running mate, McGovern spent an hour and a half with his party's congressmen, posing for pictures and then addressing the group.

Jury Clears Youth In Holdup Trial

A jury in Marin Superior Court yesterday acquitted Flozell Jefferson Beasley, 19-year-old San Rafael man said to be an Army deserter, of a charge of robbing a Vietnam veteran in San Rafael May 15.

Beasley, who first gave his name as Theodore Alexander when arrested, had been accused of taking about $20 at knifepoint from Theodore Mark, a soldier stationed at the Sacramento Army Depot.

Mark had claimed Beasley robbed him after he had given Beasley a ride to his San Rafael apartment from San Francisco.

Cotati Trustees Slate Meeting

The Cotati School District board will meet in special session at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the district office to consider ways to provide temporary classrooms.

The Rohnert Park City Council Monday rejected a request to use city funds to buy temporary classrooms and suggested instead that the districts ask help from developers.

Developers have offered to lease houses adjacent to school sites for use as classrooms until schools are built.

OBITUARIES

Kevin Bardwell, 14, Dies In Ross Swimming Pool

Kevin Jude Bardwell, 14, apparently drowned yesterday afternoon while swimming in the pool at Cedars Development Foundation of Marin in Ross.

An autopsy has been scheduled, according to Deputy Coroner Bill J. Thomas, who said the boy had a history of epilepsy and that an epileptic seizure may have caused the drowning.

The boy was participating in a swim class as part of the foundation's summer school program when the accident occurred.

According to an official of the school one of the tpree teachers iced he was absent from the group and found him face down at the shallow end of the pool.

A native of Ohio, he moved to Marin 10 years ago. He lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bardwell at 87 Valley Road, San Anselmo. He attended Magnolia Park School in San Rafael.

He also leaves sisters, Cathie and Jolene, and two grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Nannini of San Anselmo.

A Mass of the Resurrection will be said at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at St. Rita's Church, Fairfax. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael. Recitation of the Rosary will be said at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills, San Rafael.

Memorial gifts to Cedars Development Foundation of Marin or Marin Aid to Retarded Children are preferred.

he could build to the existing zoning and density" if a developer meets the findings required by new planning laws, Von Gundell replied.

He pointed out that if the countywide general plan is adopted by the county and all the cities next year, state laws will require that all areas' zoning be revised to conform with it. Until then, the old zoning would apply unless the valley were changed to interim zoning as the supervisors did when they scrapped the so-called West Marin Master Plan for the Olema-Tomales area, last year.

Preserving the San Geronimo Valley may "be rough" on long-time landowners, the planner warned. "A lot of people will be hurt and disappointed" if they cannot develop their land, he said.

He said he knows only of minor subdivision plans in the valley now, but "there is something stirring in this area. We don't know what it is."

Gregg later said that so far as he knew, the large landowners mostly do not live in the valley. The major holder, he said, is the Lagunitas Land and Development Co.

J. Dietrich Stroeh, engineering chief for the Marin Municipal Water District, said the enlargement of the San Geronimo treatment plant, installation of new water mains and other projects in the valley were not related to new land development.

When the district took over the old valley water service in the 1950s, some of the "mains were only three-quarter-inch," he explained. The district has doubled the treatment plant to serve existing customers in southern and central Marin, Stroeh said, and to "optimize" the capacity of Kent and Nicasio lakes.

Lines are being extended in the valley only to make "loops for better pressure," not to serve new developments, Stroeh said.

Mrs. Behrensmeier explained that last night's meeting was called to get information on the developments hinted by the water system work and the "lifting of large parcels of valley land out of the agricultural preserve."

REFLECTIONS OF A 102 YEAR OLD

Memories of 102 years seem etched in the face of Emma Young as she is presented with a birthday cake at the McChesney Rehabilitation Hospital in San Rafael, where she has lived for the past four years. Surrounded by balloons, crepe paper and music, friends reminisced yesterday about her colorful life as a registered nurse and a professional opera singer who toured with opera great Enrico Caruso. Among her well-wishers were Marin County Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste and Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. President Nixon didn't attend, but he sent a letter of congratulations. Mrs. Young is the oldest patient at the institution, formerly Parkway Convalescent Hospital.

New Kind Of Flu Vaccine Developed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A new kind of flu vaccine containing live viruses has been developed by government scientists who believe it holds hope of greatly containing future influenza epidemics, it was disclosed today.

The vaccine still must be put through extensive tests and trials, before being licensed for use on the public. But scientists who reported the development were hopeful that this could be done before the next major expected U.S. flu epidemic in the latter part of the decade.

Disclosure of development of the new vaccine came in an article by the scientists in a monthly publication, "Journal of Infectious Diseases."

In their research at the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases of the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., the scientists said they employed the live, though weakened, viruses in developing the vaccine.

Present flu vaccines use dead viruses. They have been only partially successful in containing flu outbreaks, partly because, scientists say, flu viruses change their structure and can become resistant to both vaccine and natural immunities developed against them.

The new vaccine contains what was described as a hybrid virus that cannot withstand the heat of the lungs, where live virus can infect an individual. But it thrives in lower temperatures such as the nose and throat where it helps ward off infection, the scientists said.

They said they tested the vaccine on 45 volunteer inmates of a federal reformatory for men at Lorton, Va., near Washington.

They said 17 who took the vaccine via a nasal spray did not come down with flu when exposed to it, while 17 of the 28 others exposed to it, and not immunized, became ill.

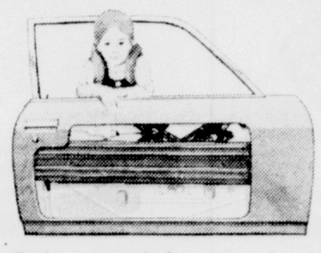
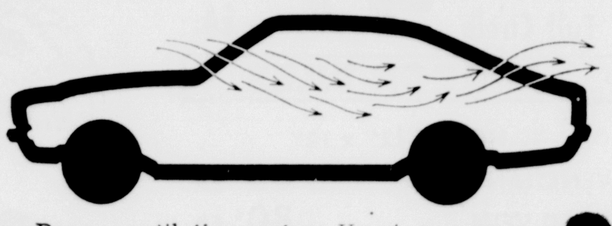
IT'S EASY TO MAKE AN ECONOMY CAR THAT SELLS FOR A FEW DOLLARS LESS THAN VEGA.

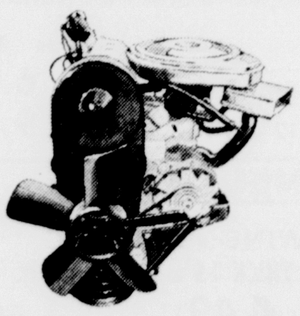
JUST LEAVE OUT THESE IMPORTANT FEATURES:



Side guard beams. Each Vega door is bolstered by a hefty steel beam that looks and works pretty much like the guard rails you see along a highway. You can't see them, but take our word they're there.



Power ventilation system. Vega's ingenious way to keep outside air continuously circulating inside even when the car is standing still and your windows are rolled up.



The engine. A specially designed overhead cam, aluminum block, 4-cylinder power plant. Big words to match an impressive performance. It delivers far more horsepower for its size than other little cars plus gas mileage that's right up there with the best of them.

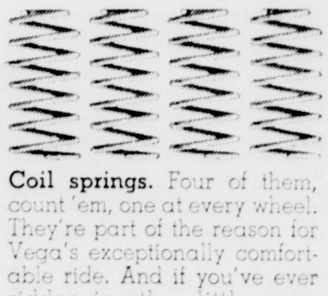
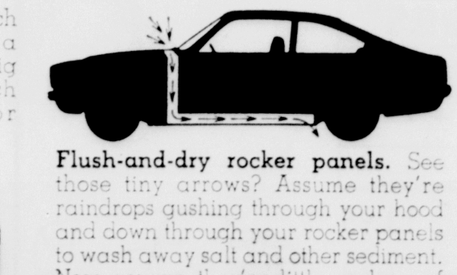
Hidden windshield antenna. Included when you order a factory installed AM or AM/FM radio.

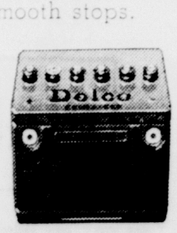
Full foam bucket seats. No half-way measures here—full deep foam for your bottom and back, tapering up to form a built in headrestraint. Very sporty, as well as comfortable, to go along with the rest of the interior.



Coil springs. Four of them, count 'em, one at every wheel. They're part of the reason for Vega's exceptionally comfortable ride. And if you've ever ridden in other little cars, you'll appreciate what we mean.



Flush-and-dry rocker panels. See those tiny arrows? Assume they're raindrops gushing through your hood and down through your rocker panels to wash away salt and other sediment. Now assume they're little zephyrs of air drying up all that rain. One very effective way to fight ugly rust.



The battery. Every little car has one, obviously, but only Vega has a sealed side-terminal energizer-type battery. Which means your terminals will probably never corrode.

Double panel roof. One steel roof firmly attached to another steel roof to make Vega a little stronger on the outside and a little quieter on the inside.

Remember, buckling your seat and shoulder belts is an idea you can live with.

The map pocket. No big thing, really. But it's indicative of the many little touches you don't have to sacrifice in order to drive our little car. Besides, it's a good place to stash your candy bar wrappers.

HE FINALLY GAVE IT A GO

Herbert Hoover's old college roommate decided that, after 101 years on the ground, he'd "give this flying thing a try." So, Dr. Charles D. Snyder landed in San Francisco yesterday after a jetliner trip from Baltimore and was met by his son and daughter-in-law, with whom he will live on the Peninsula. Snyder, the oldest living graduate of Stanford University, shared a room with the former President and graduated in 1896. (UPI Telephoto)

Olive Avenue Annexation Is Approved

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission last night approved annexation of 94 acres on Olive Avenue to the City of Novato.

According to Tracy Friedman, the commission's assistant executive officer, annexation was approved on a 4-1 vote with Commissioner Louis H. Baar dissenting.

Baar sided with two residents of the sparsely populated area who opposed joining the city.

Other commissioners noted, however, that to exclude those residents' land from the annexation would be to create an island of unincorporated area surrounded by the city.

The commission also approved annexation of 26 acres on Laguna Vista Drive to the City of Novato.

The commission also gave the go ahead to its staff for a "spheres of influence study" to determine what should be the ultimate boundaries of Marin's 11 cities and numerous special districts.

Friedman said the cities and districts have been asked to submit their proposed future boundaries which will be reviewed and discussed at the commission's October meeting.

The commission's next meeting was shifted from Sept. 13 to Sept. 7 at the request of several commissioners.

Typewriter Stolen

An electric typewriter valued at $175 was stolen yesterday from the United Methodist Church, Fifth and D Streets, Petaluma police reported. Entry was made by breaking the office window.

Mendocino Timber Fire Still Raging

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Firefighters retreated a half mile today before a brush and timber blaze in Mendocino County, then set up new lines and backfires along existing roads in an effort to contain the 5,800-acre fire.

State Division of Forestry spokesmen said the 520 men battling the fire near Laytonville had been unable to hold one side because of extremely rough terrain.

So they backed off to the existing roads and began widening them and setting the backfires. The fire was considered 90 per cent contained by mid-morning and fire officials hoped to have it completely surrounded by lines about midnight.

Stiff winds pushed the blaze Tuesday afternoon, moving the flames so rapidly at one point that a husband-wife firewatcher team had to flee their lookout on 4,233-foot Cahton Peak near Branscomb.

They drove down the tower's access road when the fire moved to within a quarter-mile of the lookout point.

The blaze, largest of a series of scattered forest and brush fires started by arsonists and lightning storms in northern California, was being fought with nine aerial tankers, 29 bulldozers, two helicopters and 33 trucks.

The division said the probable cause was arson.

No structures are threatened, the division added, although the fire has ruined new growth timber including Douglas fir, brush and some redwood trees.

The largest of Tuesday's 87 lightning-caused fires ranged over 530 acres of brush and grass near Fall River Mills in Shasta County before being contained.

Still burning out of control is another lightning-caused fire five miles south of Portola in Plumas National Forest. The 450-acre fire is moving eastward toward Beckwourth Peak in a timbered area and is being fought by 425 men from the U.S. Forest Service.

Federal spokesmen said two crews of Flathead Indian fire fighters from Idaho would join in that battle today as well as aerial tankers.

The Plumas fire, one of 10 caused by lightning in that area, was contained until rekindled Wednesday by strong winds.

Most of the other lightning ignited blazes were small and quickly brought under control in the Modoc, Klamath and Shasta-Trinity National Forests.

Child Injured

Karen L. Cook, 10, of 974 Camino Coronado, Rohnert Park, was reported in satisfactory condition at Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital with head cuts. She was injured when she fell from her bicycle yesterday at 8 p.m. on the bicycle path on Southwest Boulevard.

Bennett Files Suit Against Phone Co.

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Consumer advocate William M. Bennett of Kent Woodlands has filed a suit in the state Supreme Court against partial rate increases granted to the Pacific Telephone Co. by the Public Utilies Commission.

The suit filed in the clerk's office of the court here Wednesday follows the PUC's order earlier this week for Pacific Telephone to refund $163 million to subscribers and to reduce present rates by $87.9 million.

The commission's new order, which resulted from the state Supreme Court's order in June nullify a $143 million increase, also granted Pacific Telephone a $124.3 million interim rate increase.

Bennett, a member of the state Board of Equalization and one of the attorneys who won the case nullifying the original rate increase, contended in the suit that the PUC did not reduce the rates to the point where they were ordered to do so by the court.

Bennett also said in the suit that the PUC did not hold open hearings in making its decision on the new rates.

The suit asks the court to block the PUC's new order and prohibit Pacific Telephone from going ahead with the interim rate increase.

Boards Taken From Construction Site

Redwood and Douglas fire boards worth $200 were stolen from a construction site at 190 Wilson Way in Larkspur that city's police reported.

Merritt Peter Bitz of 19 Mountain View Avenue, Mill Valley, told police he delivered the lumber at 4 p.m. Tuesday and when he arrived for work yesterday morning it was gone.

FBI's Gray May Seek More Funds To Beef Up Manpower

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Predicting a resurgence of kidnapings in the wake of the hijacking craze, acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III said today he may have to ask Congress for supplemental funds to beef up his force of nearly 9,000 agents.

Gray said in an interview he would justify the need for more agents because of "the increased amount of crime occurring in certain areas which require instant diversion of agents." He listed hijacking, kidnaping, bank robberies and bombings.

"I don't have that many agents to work with when you consider all I have to do," Gray said, mentioning the recent hijacking to Algeria and the record $1 million ransom paid kidnapers of the wife of a Minneapolis financier as cases which required instant assignment of many agents.

"We just had another a few hours ago," Gray said, punching a button on the huge console beside his desk to check the facts in the most recent kidnaping of the son of a wealthy Visalia, Calif., rancher.

"I think we're going to see more kidnapings stem from the hijacking of aircraft," Gray predicted. "It's really an outgrowth of air piracy cases. Others are beginning to see how easy money is to take and they say to themselves, 'We'll jolly well take someone and ask for ransom.'"

Gray did not say how many more agents he might request.

The late J. Edgar Hoover, whom Gray succeeded last May 3, did not request any more staff when he made his annual appearance before the House Appropriations Committee.

Gray, who had been selected to become deputy attorney general until Hoover's death, ranged over many topics as he talked for more than an hour about his 14 weeks in the office occupied for 48 years by the founder of the FBI.

He said the first two women accepted as agent-applicants once he removed Hoover's all male ban were "doing very well" in their 14 weeks training period at the FBI academy at Quantico, Va.

Gray disclosed that he probably will not fill two top level vacancies in the FBI because the structure of the hierarchy established by Hoover "doesn't comport with the way I like to operate."

After Hoover died, two key men, who had held the title of assistants to the director, retired. They were Alex Rosen, who was in charge of all investigations, and John P. Mohr, who was responsible for all administrative matters.

"I prefer to deal more directly with the number two man," Gray explained, referring to W. Mark Felt, whom Hoover promoted to the number three spot behind his long time friend and associate director, Clyde A. Tolson. The ailing Tolson quit the day after Hoover's death May 2.

New Home Loan Rules Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Home Loan Bank Board proposed new regulations today to allow federal savings and loan associations to offer variable interest rate mortgages to home buyers for the first time.

The regulations merely permit savings and loan associations to offer such mortgages. Not only would the associations have the choice, but homebuyers could choose between a fixed and a variable interest rate when borrowing from federally insured savings and loan associations.

The regulations contain provisions for the variable interest rate to fluctuate both up and down according to a specified index that would be readily available to the homebuyer.

Variable interest rates could result in changes for either the term of the mortgage or the monthly payment or both. A mortgage could be extended to a maximum maturity of 35 years.

Chairman Preston Martin said the variable rate mortgage would appeal to the home buyer who finds himself locked into loans with high interest rates without being able to refinance them except by penalty fees.

He also said the change would make a home mortgage a more attractive investment, thus making money more readily available to borrowers, especially during tight-money situations.

Lenders like the idea because it offers protection against an inflationary impact as reflected by rising interest rates.

SEWAGE WATCHDOGS

Powerful New Bay Agency Forms

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — San Jose Mayor Norman Y. Mineta has been elected president of the powerful new Bay Area Sewage Services Agency at the initial meeting of the nine-county regional government agency.

The agency, created by the 1971 Legislature, is empowered to force construction of sewage facilities when local officials either cannot or will not act. The agency can step into a community and tax property to finance sewage facilities needed to meet the agency's master plan.

Run by a 21-member appointed board of trustees, the agency (BASSA) has until Jan. 1, 1974, to complete its regional water quality management plan. It also will enforce it by exercising veto power over water pollution control projects by local government agencies which do not conform with the regional plan.

The agency also will review applications by local agencies for state or federal funds for sewage facilities.

Alameda and Santa Clara counties each have five members on the board, San Francisco has three, Contra Costa and San Mateo counties each have two and Marin, Sonoma, Napa and Solano each have one. Marin's representative is San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini.

Mineta and San Leandro Mayor Jack D. Maltester, who was chosen vice president, will serve on the agency's executive committee along with San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein, Daly City Mayor Bernard J. Lycett and Charles Gibbs, a director of the Central Costa Sanitary District.

The board named Robert Bernicchi of Daly City, engineer-manager of the North San Mateo Cgunty Sanitary District, as temporary secretary to provide clerical support until the agency finds an office and hires a staff.

The board also voted to meet on the first and third Wednesday evenings of each month, probably in the Alameda County Board of Supervisors chambers in Oakland. Details of the next full board meeting, set Sept. 6, will be announced.

The executive committee, which will meet more frequently, will hold its first session at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the San Francisco Board of Supervisors conference room in City Hall.

The agency's costs will be paid by the nine counties, each paying a share proportional to its population. The maximum county share is the equivalent of a property tax rate of one-half cent per $100 assessed valuation.

$17.5 Million Added For Storm Victims

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Appropriations Committee has added $17.5 million to President Nixon's request for $1.56 billion to aid victims of tropical storm Agnes.

The committee approved the administration request Wednesday but added $1.5 million for a flood control project at Cowanesque Lake, Pa., and $16 million to replenish the emergency fund of the Army Corps of Engineers, which has been depleted by flood fighting work.

Copies Of Health Plan Available

Copies of the Marin County "Plan for Health" are available in room 400 of the civic center or by calling the Comprehensive Health Planning Council there.

Prepared by the council, the plan spells out specific recommendations for solving the county's health care problems. It will be the subject of four public hearings.

Dr. Michael L. Harris, council president, said, "It is extremely importnat that we involve as many people as possible. The hearings will cover each general area of the county, from Novato to Bolinas, providing an opportunity for broad community response."

Public hearings, all at 8 p.m., will be: Aug. 17, Board of Supervisors chambers, civic center; Aug. 22, Bolinas Public Utilities District building, Bolinas; Aug. 31, Manzanita Center, Marin City; Sept. 7, Novato Community Center.

1972-73 Tamalpais CSD Sewer Charges Unchanged

The Tamalpais Community Services District board has granted salary increases of about 9 per cent to its three full-time employees, according to board member Glenn Lambacher.

The new salary figures will add about $2,499 to the services district budget for 1972-1973.

The board also tentatively set district sewer service charges at $45 for a house and $22.50 for an apartment unit. According to Lambacher, the rates are unchanged from last year.

A public hearing will be held on the sewer service charges at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the services district office, 305 Bell Lane.

Last Tuesday night, the district's parks and recreation commission requested $13,000 more this year to develop Eastwood Park. However, no board action was taken on the request.

The board recommended that builders of the proposed additions to the Villa Marin apartments construct a new sewer line from the apartment complex to the district's pump station, rather than sending its sewage through the existing sewer main. A new line would be about a quarter-mile long, Lambacher estimated.

$138 Million School Budget Is Adopted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco's Board of Education adopted a $138 million budget early today for the 1972-73 fiscal year.

The budget is $1.3 million less than recommended by Superintendent Thomas A. Shaheen and would reduce the tax rate by two cents—making it $4.08 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Not One Objection At Annex Hearing

A decade ago, no one anywhere around San Rafael would have suggested that Terra Linda could be absorbed by the City of San Rafael without a knock-down, drag-out battle.

In 1961, Terra Lindans had turned down quite emphatically a proposal for annexation. A majority of them wanted no part of the city. They would "go it alone" — and have it much better, in their belief.

But on Monday night, not a single objection to the proposed annexation was raised at a hearing by the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission. Richard Less, chairman of the Terra Linda Community Services District — which will go out of existence if the area is annexed — did not even appear, figuring the matter was "just routine."

Those who organized the Terra Linda Community Services District in an attempt at 'home rule" and "escape from San Rafael domination" would have been flabbergasted.

QUITE A FEW things have happened to remove the hostility which residents "north of thehill" felt against San Rafael a decade ago. And most importantly, they have learned that it costs a lot of money to have "home rule" in a community which is almost entirely residential —and that the "home rule" obtainable through a community services district isn't very extensive.

This year, Terra Lindans paid a property tax of $1.48 per $100 assessed valuation to support their community services district. In return they got an almost-all-volunteer fire department, some community facilities and parks, and a recreation program.

San Rafael residents paid a city tax of 92 cents per $100 assessed valuation. In return they got full city services, including all-professional fire and police departments, city library, full recreation program, and better street maintenance than the county provides Terra Linda.

IT HAS BEEN evident to Terra Linda leaders for several years that they would get more for a lower tax bill if they joined the city. A principal hangup has been the bonded indebtedness of the CSD, which it in turn absorbed from the Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District.

About $181,000 of this indebtedness is still outstanding. Last year the CSD had to levy 14.5 cents per $100 valuation to make its payment. The bonds won't be paid off until 1991.

The City of San Rafael, however, can pay off those bonds out of revenues which will accrue from the annexation — including sales tax and state subventions which now go into county coffers —without any additional tax levy.

So, purely as a matter of economics, annexation makes such eminent good sense that there was no reason for opposition at the LAFC hearing.

BUT THERE'S MORE than economics involved. And perhaps weighing more heavily than the saving in taxes, for most Terra Lindans, is the realization that they may actually have more say about their local government as part of the city than as a limited-power CSD in unincorporated territory.

If the LAFC hearing is an indicator, the annexation will be voted overwhelmingly when it goes before the electorate. And that, too, would flabbergast those Terra Linda leaders of a decade ago.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Sauce For The Gander In Public Representation

By EARL G. WATERS

In a noble effort to inject more consideration for the public and less concern about the imagery of the various professions, Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco, sponsored legislation to broaden the membership of the professional licensing boards.

The idea that perhaps the public would be better protected by having public members serve along with the professionals on these boards is not new. Proposals to add a public member to such boards as the medical examiners and dental board came to fruition amid moans and groans from the boards during the administration of Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

On the theory that what's good for one is good for all, the Legislature adopted measures installing one public member on almost all of these boards.

IN PRACTICE it was learned that just having one layman on a board didn't achieve the purpose of enforcing upon the professionals the idea that their function was the protection o the public, not their professional image.

Either the lone public member was wooed and won by the professionals or else, not wishing to be the skunk at the party, refrained from expressing discordant views.

It was perception of this situation which prompted Willie Brown to sponsor his bill substantially increasing the number of public members.

In achieving passage in the Assembly, Brown argued that the influence of laymen with broad experience on the boards would have a balancing effect on the tendencies of the professionals.

BROWN WAS FAIRLY thorough in his coverage of the boards. He included nearly all of the healing arts professions and gathered in some others including the accountants and contractors.

Unfortunately, excepting the dry cleaners, he overlooked some of the boards which in the past have demonstrated a greater need for outside help than even the doctors or others in the healing arts.

Assemblyman Ray E. Johnson, R-Chico, was quick to point this out and offered an amendment to include the board of governors of the California Bar Association.

AMIDST SCREAMS from Brown that Johnson was hijacking his bill, Johnson argued that it didn't seem right to give the doctors and others the help of experienced laymen and deprive the lawyers of such leveling influence.

Despite the fact that there are a large number of attorneys serving assemblymen, Johnson's arguments were persua sive and his amendment carried the day.

The turn of events so confused Brown that he inadvertently voted against the bill and then quickly changed his vote. He said ruefully, however, that he wasn't sure he still supported the bill.

"Before entering public life, have you ever had the mumps, measles, chicken pox . . ."

Do All Who Shout 'Peace!' Really Want It? If They Did, The World Would Have No War

Politicians call for it. Governments say they want it. Protesters march for it — but do all the voices that shout "peace" actually want it? Never has the clamor against war been louder, but as this article, first printed in the Christian Science Monitor Dec. 16, 1936, shows, the longing for peace is nothing new. . . and neither are the munitions of war.

By ROBIN ENGLAND

Asked if he wants peace, the man in the street will answer "Yes," without hesitation. But this is not accurate. What he means is, "No, I do not necessarily want peace; I want war — when it suits me, where it suits me, how it suits me, and I want to be pretty sure of winning before I start. I certainly do not want to be forced to fight for something which does not affect or interest me personally, at a time inconvenient to me, or at a risk too great. But fight I will in my own time and place."

And fight he does. He verbally fights his neighbor over the garden wall — if he feels in the mood; he fights his rival through the law — if he is confident of victory; he fights by scheming to oust his competitor from the market — if he fears for his livelihood; he even fights by stealing — if he thinks he can get away with it.

ALL THIS STRIFE indicates a mental condition of perpetual opposition, strain, and stress: it pictures a state of siege, with everybody and everything forming the investing army. This is war in essence. These little private wars going on in individuals are the sparks that in time burst into the great conflagration. It needs but a clever and unscrupulous schemer to gather these war thoughts, focus them on a common enemy, fan them by propaganda, and lo! a first-class war!

But it is no new creation. It is but a collection, organization, and manipulation of what already existed. It seems unaccountable that so many great speakers today say, "The vast majority of the people in the world want peace." They do not. If they did they would have it, and have it permanently, for they entirely control the situation.

It is a well-known saying that it takes two to make a quarrel. If this "vast majority" would refuse to be the "ones" of the "twos," there could be no quarrel.s If they would "seek peace and ensue quarrels. if they really desired peace, peace with their relatives, friends, and neighbors, and made real efforts to live peaceably with them, then would prevail such harmonious living that even the word "war" would be eliminated from their vocabulary.

EVERY PERSON who harbors thoughts of enmity is a munition maker. Those who hate are manufacturers of bombs: those who are jealous are makers of poison gas. They are. Here is no metaphor. Hatred, jealousy, cruelty, greed, fear, pride, are munitions of war. The things made of iron and chemicals are but the inanimate expression of the real munitions: and are, of themselves, helpless, and, unsupported by the real munitions they are also harmless.

We read of the mystery that though the people individually do not want war, yet nations are surely drifting toward it; we need only to qualify the statement and the mystery disappears. Individuals certainly do not want the sort of war that nations indulge in, but unless they are actively engaged in seeking peaceful solutions to every domestic and business problem that confronts them, they are actively engaged in making munitions for the sort of war they do not want.

War is a terrible master, and once submitted to, once people consent to fight, quarrel, hate, and suspect, they have submitted to the decree of Mars, who says, "You have shown your liking for war, now you shall have it." It is a fallacy to suppose that individual peace-lovers can become united into a warlike mass. There is nothing in the mass that is not first in the individual, and the mesmerism of masses merely liberates the feelings that are normally restrained by pride, fear, shame, or honest desire to reform.

REAL REFORMATION must begin in the individual: it must come by quiet reading, thinking, teaching, and practicing. It is hopeless to try to teach a crowd. A cheering, hilarious horde is but noise, signifying neither friendliness nor enmity, support nor opposition, beyond the lifetime of the froth that has been beaten up: but a man who steadfastly sets himself the task of loving his neighbor is a real peacemaker.

Here may it be said that he, perhaps being English, for example, does not have to declare heroically that he loves Chinese, Hindus, Hottentots, and Bushmen, all of whom he is fairly sure not to meet, but he has to love the man next door with the too-loud radio, the lady whose car spoils his flowerbed, the boys who draw pictures in the dust on his new car.

It is here, right home in his own home in his own house, that he must begin to shatter the war-plant, and when he no longer produces the mental munitions, he will find that as he ceases to war on his neighbor, his neighbor has no incentive to war on him, and then another factory is demolished. By this process and by this alone can war be eliminated from human experience.

Reducing Sign Size Won't Hurt Business

Mr. Graff's letter (Aug. 3), complaining that ugly sign removal in San Anselmo will hurt business, is full of strange and fallacious assumptions about the consumer. Reducing sign size is approved of by just about everyone — consumer and taxpayer alike. Many people, myself included, do not patronize businesses with huge garish signs . . .

We in San Anselmo applaud our city planning commission, and no one, Mr. Graff, will drive on into San Francisco to buy shoes when you reduce your sign size.

Sign Complaint Aimed At Wrong City Board

Reference is made to letter to the editor entitled "Sign Removal Will Hurt Business" appearing in your issue of Aug. 3 and written by Mr. Rube Graff. It is obvious that Mr. Graff is in disagreement with our sign ordinance and it is also obvious that he has singled out the wrong body as his target for criticism. For the benefit of the general public, matters concerning signs are within the jurisdiction of the design review committee and are not the responsibility of the planning commission.

Buses Are Filled With Exhaust Fume

Ever ride one of our new buses to the city or anywhere in the county? If you do, and the sun is even shining (never mind what the temperature is), wear a gas mask. The operators of the new "air-conditioned" buses keep the air system going full blast, sucking in the exhaust fumes and stink from every car on the highway, and it is forced down a rider's lungs with aid of a motor! Ask one of these drivers to cut it down and you get a stony silence and no action.

They're yelling for business and doing what they can to discourage it.

Maybe if you'll publish this, the Transit Company there in San Rafael will sit up and take action to stop the bus riders from having to ride in a stinking, drafty bus.

Reasons For Not Restricting Handguns

1. Murder, assassination, robbery, kidnaping, etc. are already illegal, and they were common activities of mankind long before guns were invented.

2. If it is really the crime you want to stop, then put the blame on the perpetrator, not the tool he has misused. Punish him, not the law-abiding owners of similar tools, or their manufacturers.

3. Even if we could outlaw handguns (remember Jack Kennedy was killed with a carbine) effectively, the criminal would only turn to knives, poisons, meathooks, ropes, ground glass, baseball bats or even his bare hands. Would you outlaw all those too?

4. Did prohibition cure alcoholism? Has Ralph Nader stopped automobile accidents? Is the beer can manufacturer to blame for roadside litter? Are printing presses the cause of pornography?

5. Isn't it odd that the same slobbering social engineers who have stopped capital punishment also want to blame the firearms manufacturers for crime?

Your analogy with the licensing of automobiles or drivers was incorrectly drawn because you are talking about a prohibition of guns. Actually, handguns and their owners are already registered and controlled in a way similar to that of automobiles and their operators. In neither case have regulations stopped killings. . .

I don't own a gun. I never have, and I may never want one, but neither you nor Professor Zimring, who is a persumptious fat head for putting all homeowners down as clumsy jerks likely to shoot their own relatives, should prevent my neighbor from owning one if he desires. . .

STROUT IN WASHINGTON

Hazardous To Your Health But Subsidized By Your Taxes

By RICHARD L. STROUT

WASHINGTON — To Frank Moss it seemed ridiculous. Here the government has banned cigarette advertising from the airwaves and at the same time it spends millions to promote the raising of tobacco. Since Mr. Moss is the junior senator from Utah and, incidentally, a Democrat and a Mormon, he made his views known in Senate debate on the agriculture appropriations bill the other day.

It is rather odd, when you come to think of it. The authoritative surgeon general's report in 1964 left no doubt that cigarette smoking is a health hazard, and he has followed it up with half a dozen subsequent reports. Each cigarette package now carries a compulsory health warning. And yet tobacco farmers make their livelihood from the crop, just as do hard-working farmers in certain warm climates from raising poppies. The two things are not in the same order of magnitude, of course; yet each group has a big economic stake in his traditional agricultural pursuit.

WHAT GRIPES Mr. Moss is that the federal government should subsidize tobacco raising. All he wants to do is to let Uncle Sam's right hand know what his left hand is doing. Tobacco-state senators sighed as stocky, moustached Mr. Moss rose for the third year in his rather lonely crusade, which is virtually unnoticed by the press but has the possibility of becoming decidedly awkward. He would not ban tobacco raising; he would cut out government subsidies.

"We have going in this country a major effort to combat the effects of smoking," Mrs. Moss began. "We spend several hundred thousands dollars to publicize the health hazards of cigarette smoking.

"We spend several hundred thousand dollars to develop ways to help those who wish to stop smoking."

He paused and went on grimly:

"And we spend millions and millions and millions of dollars supporting the growth, export, advertising, promotion, and grading of this deadly plant which will result in the deaths of more than 50,000 people during the next year . . ."

NOBODY IS SURE what the government tobacco subsidy is, but it may reach $60 million or $70 million. There is the price support program, for example; also export subsidies to aid U.S. tobacco sales abroad; and the subsidized inspection and grading of tobacco, the only crop save cotton supported by free inspection.

Wouldn't it be more logical, reasoned Mr. Moss, to use some of that money to encourage tobacco farmers to turn to some other crop?

"This is a most vicious amendment," exclaimed Herman E. Talmadge, D-Georgia, who, by seniority, has risen to chairmanship of the agriculture committee. He said it would "make paupers out of tobacco growers and cause harm to our national economy."

NOBODY SUPPORTED Mr. Moss as he threw his annual brick into the angry hive of tobacco-state senators. There are around 500,000 tobacco farms in the country, raising two billion pounds, many from small allotments. Like others, Mr. Talmadge emphasized the economic argument. The proposal to make the industry pay for its own grading and inspection is "a contemptible provision," he said, "as are all of the purposes of the amendment."

Senators Cooper and Cook of Kentucky denounced the Moss amendment, as did Sam J. Ervin Jr. of North Carolina and Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, two other interested states. Mr. Ervin struck an emotional note:

"Mr. President," he said, "this amendment will take the bread out of the mouths of hundreds of little children residing in 25 different states."

Mr. Thurmond said whiskey is more dangerous than tobacco and why didn't Mr. Moss attack that? And Mr. Moss replied drily that "if the country ever begins to subsidize" the former he would be on the floor promptly to cut it out.

No roll call vote was taken, and the Moss amendment was rejected.

Everyone At ITT Was Rooting For Anderson On Eagleton Story

WASHINGTON — I am happy to report that Jack Anderson was not all alone during the greatest crisis of his career, when he falsely accused Sen. Thomas Eagleton of being cited for traffic violations while under the influence of.

I have jsut received the tapes of the first call Anderson received after the story broke that he had no proof to back up the charges. It was from his old friend, ITT lobbyist Dita Beard.

"JACK," SHE SAID, "I just wanted you to know that everyone here at ITT is rooting for you."

"It's nice of you to call," Jack said. "You know, it was all a terrible mistake."

"Of course, it was a terrible mistake. I was sying to Hal Geneen yesterday, 'Hal, I can't believe Jack would knowingly do something like this. He must have been under great pressure.' Hal agreed and said, 'It broke my heart when I read about it. I didn't sleep a wink all night.'"

"Geneen said that?" Anderson asked.

"I give you my word. He told me to call you and say that everyone in the ITT organization, including the Hartford Fire Insurance Co., is hoping you'll come out of this okay. He didn't talk to Attorney General Kleindienst, but he is sure he feels the same way."

"GOSH, THAT'S REALLY nice of all of you."

"What are friends for? Hal wants to know if you'd like the company plane to go away for a while."

"No, I'm going to stay here in Washington and keep apologizing."

"What about a good hospital in Denver where you could rest up?"

"I'll take the name, but I doubt if I'll need it."

"Would you like to go to San Diego and stay at one of our new Sheraton hotels?"

"WELL, COULD WE lend you our paper shredder? You mightwant to destroy the photostats of Eagleton's drunk-driving tickets."

"There are no photostats of Eagleton's tickets," Anderson said sadly.

"No photostats? Everyone here said there had to be photostats or you wouldn't have gone with the story," Dit said.

"It wasn't my fault," Anderson said. "I had this source, a former high official in Missouri, and he told me he had seen them, and I was afraid of being scooped because I knew a lot of reporters were on the same story. So I broke it."

"Well, that makes sense," Dita said. "Anyone would have done the same thing in your shoes. By the way, could you use some shoes? ITT makes nice shoes."

"I DON'T NEED anything, Dita. Your call is enough as far as I'm concerned."

"Geneen's been getting a lot of calls from the press asking waht he thinks of Anderson now, and you know what he's been saying? He's been saying that his opinion of you is the same as it was before the Eagleton story."

"That's what I call a pal," Andrson said.

"Would you like to go to the Kentucky Derby next year, when this whole thing blows over?" Dita asked.

"It sounds good," Anderson said. "Let me think about it."

"THE THING to remember, Jack, is that these things are forgotten in no time. It may be a big story today, but tomorrow people will be wrapping fish in it. Don't get discouraged, and keep in mind that the entire ITT group, including those companies the Justice Department is unfairly forcing us to divest, is behind you 1,000 per cent."

"I don't know what to say," Anderson said, sobbing.

Bar Association Opens Convention

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The American Bar Association opened its 95th annual convention today with its board of governors huddling in closed session and 7,500 members settling in for a week of speeches and seminars.

The 21-member board of governors, the administrative body of the association which represents slightly less than half of the nation's lawyers, held the first of two days of executive sessions.

The only meetings scheduled for the expected 7,500 members were the continuing National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, which began last weekend, a day-long session of the National Associaton of Women Lawyers, the start of a three-day seminar on traffic court problems, and luncheon session of the National Associaton of Bar Executives and National Organization of Bar Counsel.

Major general meetings won't get underway until Monday, when the 315-member policy-making House of Delegates and the ABA Assembly, consisting of all association members, begin four days of sessions.

During the convention, 21 of the ABA's professional sections, 32 committees and more than a dozen affiliated organizations will hold meetings.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger will deliver his third annual "State of the Judiciary" address to the Assembly on Monday and U.S. Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst will be keynote speaker Tuesday. Other speakers include the Rt. Hon. Lord Widgery, lord chief justice of England, and comedian Bob Hope.

The House of Delegates will consider recommendations and reports on "no-fault" auto insurance, uniform marriage and divorce acts, removal of criminal penalties for simple marijuana possession and government consideration of licensing marijuana distribution, encouraging law schools to admit more women students, a code of judicial conduct, electronic surveillance, citizen anti-crime patrols, the world court, and judicial review of all cases involving men now under death sentence.

The house's decisions are considered the official policy of the ABA, which has 157,182 members across the country. This amounts to 46 per cent of the nation's 342,980 lawyers.

Claybaugh's supervisors sent him home Wednesday when he showed up to walk his business district route wearing walking shorts and knee-high socks.

Big Missouri Welcome Planned For Eagleton

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., dropped as the vice presidential candidate on the Democratic ticket, planned a triumphal return to his home state tonight.

Many of Eagleton's supporters are expected to greet him as he steps off an airplane at Lambert Field. The pla was to land at the old terminal building on the edge of the airport so that crowds would not disrupt air service at the main terminal.

Shortly after Eagleton and democratic presidential nominee George McGovern made the joint announcement that Eagleton was no longer on the ticket Rep. James Symington, D-Mo., said that Missourians should begin preparing "the biggest welcome" for Eagleton when the senator returns home.

Apparently Symington's statements have struck a responsive note with other Missourians. In the voting by the Democratic National Committee Tuesday night on McGovern's choice of Sargent Shriver as the new vice presidential candidate the Missouri delegation cast all of its 73 votes for Eagleton in a symbolic show of support for the state's junior senator.

3 Sewage Plants To Be Consolidated

The San Rafael Sanitation District board last night agreed to consolidation of three Central Marin sewage plants and called for a joint meeting with the Ross Valley Sanitary District board.

The two boards will hammer out a consolidation and joint powers agreement regarding the administration, financing and environmental impact of the proposed plant merger before next April, according to Norris M. Rawles, San Rafael district administrator.

The board set no date for the joint meeting, Rawles said.

The consolidation plan, drawn up by consultants John Jenks and J. Warren Nute, calls for enlargement of the Ross Valley district's plant on East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and the eventual closure of San Quentin's plant and San Rafael's main plant on Irene Street off Francisco Boulevard.

Consolidation will cost about $13 million with 80 per cent state and federal funding, Rawles said. San Rafael's share will be about $1 million but "we don't know if the money will come from a bond issue, tax hike or other means," said Rawles.

Under the plan, sewage will be dumped into deep bay water off Point San Quentin, 200 feet below low tide level.

14 San Quentin Inmates Taken Off Death Row

The 14 include Dovie Carl Mathis, who in December 1966 came within 23 hours of going to the gas chamber when a federal court ordered a stay of execution and Charles D. (Tex) Watson, a member of the Charles Manson cult.

Watson, 26, on Death Row since last November, was convicted of leading the death team that committed the Tate-La Bianca murders in Los Angeles.

Others who will be integrated into San Quentin's general population are Lawrence Akin Jackson, 45, convictej of the rape-murder of a 52-year-old woman and a Death Row inmate since 1963; Norman J. St. Martin, 44, on death row since July 1970 for the 1968 stabbing of a fellow inmate at Folsom Prison; Dennis Stanworth, 30, on the row since 1970 for the murder of two teen-aged girls in Pinole and Thomas Lamas Varnum, on Death Row since 1968 for the 1963 shooting of a Los Angeles gas station attendant during a robbery.

Also returning to the general prison population this week are Robert Emmet Thornton, 45, the convicted killer of a 45-year-old San Gabriel housewife, on the row since 1967; 26-year-old Michael J. Schwerdtfeger, sentenced to die in December 1969 for the slaying of a service station attendant during a robbery in Vallejo and Herschel A. Gay, 28, a convicted murderer from San Luis Obispo who has been on Death Row since March 1971.

Robert Page Anderson, 35, also due to join the general prison population this week, killed a San Diego pawn shop owner in 1965 and subsequently held off police during a gun battle that raged for four hours.

Million L. McShane, 29, who came to San Quentin in 1969 after he was sentenced to death for shooting a victim he had kidnapped, was transferred to Vacaville.

Richard Welch, on Death Row since August 1969 for killing a young hitchhiker in the Tehachapi Mountains has been moved to Soledad Pirson.

John B. Miller, 52, who has been at the prison since August 1968, for killing a Stanislaus County sheriff's deputy during the investigation of a knifing, was transferred to Vacaville.

Aide Who Attended Convention Rehired

REDDING (UPI)—A Redding woman fired from her government job because she participated in the Democratic National Convention has been rehired to the post.

Mrs. Catherine Barr was rehired Tuesday night as administrative assistant to the Shasta County Community Action Project. The action was taken by the project's board of directors in an executive session.

Mrs. Barr was dismissed last month after she participated in the convention in violation of the Federal Hatch Act which restricts political activities by government employes. On July 31, a federal court ruled the act was unconstitutionally vague pending a U.S. Supreme Court review.

Mrs. Barr attended the board meeting to discuss her case.

She said she was prepared to reiterate her stand against accepting the job on those conditions but the board "decided it could rehire without those conditions."

Mrs. Barr, who said she was "very pleased" with the board's action, said she probably will file suit in an attempt to get her back pay. She attended the convention while on vacation.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Swearing Off 'Nice' Attitude Isn't Answer To All Problems

RAP:

"He wasn't so nice? Oh well, keep on being nice yourself and you'll find the right guy."

All my life I've had this "be nice" junk handed to me. They say if I'm "a nice girl" everything will turn out just great.

Well, maybe it works with bubble gun and balloons, but dating boys isn't the same as "Hand this good kid a candy bar."

I'm "nice" and I get hurt. The fellas end up saying "You're too nice." In other words, "I'm bored with you."

I tried being nice in another way to the boy I really fell for, but he just used me and now he's with a loudmouth who probably never earned anything for being "nice."

DEAR S.O.:

I'll bet there isn't a basically "nice," good-hearted (therefore somewhat easily duped) person in the world who at some time or other hasn't mourned, "Nice guys don't win!" — and resolved to get tougher.

But they seldom join the "black hats" because they aren't built that way and, though you won't believe it now, they usually come out winners in the long run.

. . . That is, if they aren't pushovers, but learn to be selective. — HELEN

SWEARING OFF:

. . . Especially if they aren't pushovers and learn to be selective!

Don't change the way you are. Just be careful in choosing your friends: "Nice guys" sometimes get hurt because they're attracted to "not-so-nice guys," who use them.

Smarten up but don't be bitter. — SUE

DEAR RAP:

Here's a new thing in wedding announcements. These two don't give a hoot about gifts!

We just received an invitation to the wedding of a college friend. Enclosed was a little engraved card which read:

"There are millions of poor who are cold and hungry and there are so many inequalities that this makes us aware of our riches. Therefore, if you had planned to give us a gift, we would appreciate a contribution instead to your favorite charity or cause so that, because of our marriage, life for others may be a little better. Peace."

Pretty neat, huh? — IMPRESSED

DEAR IMPRESSED:

We're impressed, too. (But somehow we doubt that this will start a trend: too many people still "give a hoot about the loot.") — HELEN AND SUE

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

Hoorah for "Respectable Parents" who learned from their kids that pot isn't harmful and are now for legalization.

While I was in Panama for 18 months, I smoked grass all day, every day, with no bad effects.

Believe me, if everyone in the world would have a joint before going about daily tasks, there wouldn't be a war to protest.

In addition, Helen and Sue, have you ever stopped to ask yourselves what the Indians had in those peace pipes while they were trying to gain freedom and peace from the white man? — FOR IT

DEAR FOR IT:

Your last question isn't exactly the best recommendation for pot. While the Indians got peaceful, their country got "took!" — SUE

DEAR FOR IT:

I don't think much of your next-to-the-last-sentence either! If everyone were constantly stoned the world might go up in smoke. Drifing smoke, that is. — HELEN

Dr. Mead Blasts The Suburbs

Anthropologist Margaret Mead has attacked American suburbs as dehumanizing.

"Suburbs don't do anything to enrich human life," she stated in an article for Pageant magazine. "Today's suburbanites are cut off from a fully human social life in which people are really related to other people and to the environment in which they live."

Full humanity, Dr. Mead said, is based on having an active relationship to all generations and different kinds of people that compose one's society.

"This is best exemplified in very small communities where you know everybody and you are 'related' to very old people and newborn babies," she said. "But our suburbs have progressively divided people up by age, religion, income, race, every possible category. We are dehumanizing people by simply isolating them in such small segments."

Dr. Mead believes the lack of easy meeting places in suburbs keeps them from being "truly human communities."

"The fact that everybody has to move around in automobiles also contributes to the breakdown in human relationships in the suburbs. In many suburbs there are no sidewalks, so there's no place that children can walk or even bicycle safely.

The solution is not in doing away with the suburbs, she said, but in more careful planning of new construction.

"They must have adequate public transportation, and be a place where the very young and the very old can walk. The suburbs have to be designed so that people of differing social status and ages and income levels can all live there," she said.

ART REVIEW

A Comfortable Belsky And A Violent Arnold

By LAURA DEVENDORF

A lot of art is being produced in Mill Valley, some of which eventually finds its way into the community's member-operated Genesis Gallery.

From this member group, Genesis is featuring two artists each month. Chester Arnold and Tom Belsky are the two for August.

Arnold and Belsky are not so far apart in style as they are in viewpoint. As a painter, Arnold's personality is grimly medieval. His violent twists of paint, heavy with dark green, black and reds, are an impassioned cry of doom and anguish.

His topics are no more forgiving. "Nightmare," "Prehistoric Landscape," "Dark Tuesday" and "Mesozoic Sea" reflect his obsession with dark ideas. "Night of the Wolf," for example is a thorough study of evil, the fanged black beast panting beneath a chill moon in a boiling red and deep blue sky. Even his car portraits lose their subjects in a jungle of sinister, frantic paint.

In Arnold's neater, less emotional canvases, the action slows but the foreboding remains. A street scene is distorted as if seen through a bent lens and a figure sits, cleaved open in an invitation to study its entrails.

No such terror invades Belsky's work, no matter how dark or busy his painting style becomes. Instead, his short dashes of paint have the comfortable look of needlepoint. And with this style he paints a continuous fantasy of still lifes, figures, animals, gardens and landscapes. They don't always work out, but when they do they are as musical as his "Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 19," an undulating rainbow of leaning, flower-like strokes.

"Month of the Fire Lillies" shimmers with these checks of color. They lend a fary-tale aura to a bent old woman and child deep in trees and spring flowers. And when Belsky paints heavily wooded areas in these dark-light chips they seem to sparkle with wet leaves and shadow-shattered sunlight.

A cynical drawing concerning the cruelties of politics, a gentle still life of vegetables, a woodcut and some loose, splashy watercolors show Belsky's competence in other media. But his larger storybook paintings in their wavy, check-dash style are the ones which make the viewer most responsive to him as an individual.

Gallery hours for the Arnold-Belsky exhibit are 1 to 5 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays.

Dinner Will Honor Over 100 In Novato

More than 100 volunteer workers and donors of material who created the "dream house" which netted the Novato Boys Club $26,000 will be honored at an appreciation dinner tomorrow at the Sportsman Lodge north of Novato.

The dinner will be preceded by a cocktail party at 7 p.m.

Dick Doughty, former television newsman who now heads Telezap Productions in Ignacio, will be master of ceremonies at the dinner given by Peter and Doris Lind, proprietors of Shipwreck Pete's, as their "gift in kind" to the club.

The "Dream House" was built in West Novato early this year and the profits from the sale were donated to the club's building fund campaign.

Reuben Kaehler, Novato contractor who spearheaded the project, will present a check for $26,000 to club president Edward T. Ghirardo.

Registration Opens At Novato Campus

Admission and registration applications for any of the 41 Indian Valley Colleges fall credit classes in Novato are being accepted. Classes start Sept. 11.

Some 800 to 1,000 students are expected to attend the College of Marin's Novato campus this fall. More than 350 enrolled during its first semester last year.

Day classes will be held at Hamilton Air Force Base, and students will be given permits to enter the base. Night classes will be taught at San Jose Junior High School, Novato High School, and at Hamilton.

Admissions and class reservations may be made by phone by calling Barbara Fouts at College of Marin.

The 41 classes in Novato cover most fields, except laboratory sciences and foreign languages. It is permissible for students to enroll at the Kentfield campus and the Indian Valley Colleges at the same time, and no charge will be made for sending transcripts between the two.

Registration for classes may be made during the first class meeting if space is still available.

Swimming Show Set For Novato

More than 80 swimmers will perform in the Novato Parks and Recreation Department's annual swimming show at 8 p.m. Aug. 18 and 19 at the Novato High School pool.

The theme of this year's water ballet, under the direction of Susan Hall and Mary Mariani, is "You've Come a Long Way, Baby," a salute to American women.

The show will include acrobatic and comic diving, solos and duets by members of the Piscean swim team, the department reported. There is no admission fee.

Death Penalty Issue 'Not Settled'

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—The chief justice of the California Supreme Court predicted Wednesday that although the U.S. Supreme Court has taken a step to abolish the death penalty, it must still face further decisions before the issue is setttled.

However, Justice Donald R. Wright said because of the slow legal system "it will be years" before the U.S. high court may again have to face a death penalty case.

Third Of Four Concerts Slated By Landmarks

The Bernhard-Carter duo will present the third of four Saturday afternoon concerts sponsored by the Landmarks Society Saturday at 5:30 p.m. at Old St. Hilary's Museum in Tiburon.

The duo composed of Barbara Bernhard (flute) and James Carter (viola) will play works by Mozart, Bach, Hindemith.

Assistant principal flutist with the San Francisco Symphony, a teacher at Stanford and the San Francisco Conservatory, Miss Bernhard received B.M. and M.S. degrees from the Juilliard School of Music in New York. She has played with the Lake George Opera Company, the Fellowship Orchestra at Tanglewood and as principal flutist with the Aspen Chamber Orchestra.

Carter, 20, is a member of the San Francisco Symphony and the youngest performer in any major symphony orchestra. A graduate of Curtis Institute, he has been soloist with many festival orchestras on the east coast and recently was soloist with the 16 concerts soloists of Philadelphia.

Facing Death: Religion Is Consolation To Some

By MARLENE FREEDMAN
(Last of four articles)

Religion and death seem to come together, a nurse wryly noted as she watched elderly patients at a convalescent hospital waiting to receive the last rites from a visiting priest.

"No matter what they are, even if an atheist, to whom God is not that man on the cross but a cloud," she said, "when they are dying, they still cry out, 'Oh God,' God.' "

Religion, in contrast to the other disciplines which are just discovering death as a topic of study, has always dwelled on death, its meaning and its aftermath.

Funeral rituals, burial procedures, mourning rites, all are explicitly governed.

But most of all, religion attempts to console. It holds out a concept of an afterlife, a promise that something better is awaiting the deceased. Some sort of resurrection. Of body. Of soul. Of spirit.

It doesn't have to be named "heaven." It doesn't even have to be a structured concept.

It shows the outline of a bird in black crayon. On the tip of a wing is a glob of yellow color.

"What does that mean?" asked a solicitous nurse. "That's a bird of peace," the boy replied, "and that's the glint of sunlight on his wing as he goes to heaven."

The next day, he died.

The sense of faith in the hereafter is so compelling that just about all hospitals have some sort of sanctuary, chapel or meditation room.

One woman, the wife of a dying patient, complained to a hospital administrator that she had no place to console herself.

He directed her to the chapel, but she retorted: "No, that's a place to be quiet and to pray. That's not what I need. I want a place where I can scream."

Rev. John S. Thornton, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Belvedere, visits many sick and dying parishioners as part of his pastoral duties.

Among his touching memories, he recalls an old woman he visited at a hospital where she lay dying.

"I didn't know what to say, so I started reciting 'Yea, though I walk through the valley of death . . . '

"As soon as I got to 'death', she heaved a loud sigh and she died.

"It was as though she had been waiting . . . "

Religious dogma generally treat death ambivalently, acknowledging the grief of the bereaved but stressing the inevitability of it all.

"Thy will be done," the Roman Catholic doctrine decrees.

A learned rabbi philosophizes, "We come into this world, we know not why; we leave this world, we know not when."

The Catholic Church, changing in many ways, is adopting a more positive attitude toward death.

Priests now wear white vestments instead of black at funerals, a white pall is placed on the casket instead of black, the Mass of the Resurrection can be substituted for a Requiem Mass and graveside prayers usually start with "The Lord is my shepherd."

And the last rites are now euphemistically called annointment of the sacraments.

Orthodox Judaism preaches the same sort of inevitability. "Thou are just, O Lord," it says in its prayer of interment. "The Lord has giveth and the Lord has taken."

Grief is not denied, but death is seen as the fulfillment of a plan that God has for all men.

Followers of Jehovah Witnesses await an earthly resurrection, one in which all the dead will be brought back to life in an earthly paradise.

Christian Science believers call "material death" unchristian, believing that life is eternal and so death means nothing.

Their doctrine is almost poetic.

"When we watch a glorious sunset fill the sky, we do not grieve because the sun is no longer visible. We are grateful for the beauty that it has brought into our experience and we know that it continues to shine on scenes now beyond our horizon."

Generally, Eastern religions revere and celebrate death.

The Baha'i sect, which has nine units in Marin, preaches an afterlife so pleasurable that death is looked forward to "with hope and expectation."

The doctrine asks of the bereaved, "Why shouldst thou be sad and heartbroken? This separation is temporal . . . thou shalt find him in the Kingdom of God . . . physical companionship is ephemeral, but heavenly association is eternal."

Whatever the religious ramifications of death, man's final experience on earth is more and more widely recognized as something with which he must come to grips if he is to deal adequately with life.

It is being more and more widely discussed by physicians, psychiatrists and social workers as well as religious leaders. And even among laymen it is gaining acceptance as a topic of discussion, less and less something to be whispered about in fear, snickered about in self-defense or ignored as something unrelated to oneself.

Nixon Rests, Readies Speech

THURMONT, Md. (UPI)— President Nixon has secluded himself at the Camp David mountain retreat to review material for his acceptance speech at the Republican national convention Aug. 23.

The President was expected to return to Washington later today, concluding a three-day stay in which he concentrated on his re-election campaign.

Nixon met with Cabinet members and his campaign leaders Tuesday night, then went into a planning session Wednesday with H.R. Haldeman, according to Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler.

Haldeman, White House chief of staff, assisted Nixon in preparing his schedule for the rest of August and September.

CANCER CRUSADE

Battle Surges On Many Fronts

(EDITORS NOTE: This past February federal legislation went into effect to speed and expand what the Nixon administration called a crusade against cancer. Following is a status report on that effort.)

By FRANK CAREY

In the latest development, the National Cancer Institute has awarded $44 million in construction grants to 17 U.S. medical-research institutions.

Award of the grants, soon to be announced formally, means the first time in almost a decade that the government has provided funds for construction work in the cancer field.

The cancer institute is administering the $500-million-a-year drive that seeks improved means of detecting, preventing, controlling and curing all forms of cancer.

NCI officials say cancer program costs will range from about a dime a day to feed each of millions of laboratory mice and rats to the $25,000 to $36,000 annual salaries for top researchers.

The building grants will provide new facilities, ranging from a 15-story research hospital for adult cancer patients in Boston to a unique project at the University of New Mexico Medical School in Albuquerque, says Dr. George Jay of NCI.

At the New Mexico site, a special unit will be built to prepare cancer patients for transport to the Atomic Energy Commission's nearly completed "meson factory" in Los Alamos, 90 miles away. There, pioneer trials are planned of a new type of powerful ray that may be useful for treating cancer.

NCI already has announced award of a $6.8 million contract to a private biological research firm to convert the former Army germ-warfare laboratories at nearby Ft. Detrick, Md., into a cancer research center and operate it for at least the first year.

The Detrick contract, largest ever awarded by any arm of the government's National Institutes of Health, was obtained by Litton Bionetics Inc., a subsidiary of Litton Industries, Inc.

The contract, labeled award-fee, is the first of its kind in the history of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The contractor has no guaranteed profit. What he makes depends upon the quality and effectiveness of his work, up to a certain fixed ceiling.

Its tasks include producing "literally buckets-full" of viruses known to cause cancer in animals, for use by researchers throughout the country, according to Dr. Robert Stevenson, who will manage the Detrick facility.

He says it also will be a major national center for the breeding of laboratory mice, rats, guinea pigs, rabbits and monkeys.

Since Feb. 23, the date the National Cancer Act of 1971 became effective, $19.8 million has been awarded for 138 research contracts to both profit-making and nonprofit organizations, including $4.9 million of the $6.8 million Detrick contract. About $15.6 million in grants other than the $44 million in construction grants have been awarded.

Almost completed is a master plan detailing the strategy for achieving the "expanded, intensified and coordinated cancer research program" called for in the act.

Among them is a multimillion-dollar program of research into some of the major fatal cancers, including malignancies of the bladder, large bowel and prostate gland, which NCI officials say have not received the attention they deserve.

Clinical and basic research has been expanded also into breast and lung cancer, which have been the objects of intensive study for some years.

NCI officials say, for example, that efforts are being pushed to automate the Pap test so that more women may be screend for possible cancer of the cervix.

Dr. Gio Gori, an NCI associate director, says the institute is pushing ahead with plans to play a much more active role than before in cancer control efforts nationwide. Plans include establishng programs for cooperating with state and other health agencies in the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of cancer and rehabilitation of its surviving victims.

Cancer-control programs that include public education are to be one of the major missions of an envisioned national network of comprehensive cancer research and demonstration centers, the first 15 of which are provided for in the new legislation.

On the international scene, NCI has worked to swap with Soviet scientists a number of viruses and promising new anticancer drugs, establish liaison offices in Japan and Europe to foster cooperation in the quest for better drugs, and allocate special laboratories at Ft. Detrick for joint research by American and foreign scientists, including researchers from the Soviet Union and mainland China.

Finally, it's seeking to develop an international cancer research data bank so that eventually researchers in all parts of the world can share their results through a system of computers.

COOL DRINK, CLEAN FEET

Younger Indicates A Possible Surprise For The Political Pros

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —State Attorney General Evelle J. Younger indicates he may surprise the political pros and not run for governor in 1974.

Whether he jumps into the crowded race—as has been anticipated by leaders of both parties—will depend on how he stands alongside other Republicans in the public opinion polls.

"We'll take soundings next year and if I'm the strongest candidate I'll probably run for governor. And if I'm not I probably won't," Younger said. "Even if I am the frontrunner I don't know whether I'll run."

Ever since the 54-year-old former Los Angeles district attorney was elected attorney general in 1970 he has been frequently mentioned in political circles as a probable gubernatorial candidate in 1974 when Gov. Ronald Reagan voluntarily steps down.

Younger until now has done little to discourage such talk—speaking frequently throughout the state, meeting with small political groups and lunching occasionally with newsmen.

Younger told a dozen reporters over lunch Wednesday that —like most aspirants for governor—he soon will begin circulating daily schedules of his activities to the news media. But reporters were cautioned not to interpret this as evidence he is running.

The attorney general portrayed himself as a man satisfied in his work and not particularly anxious to advance.

"I'm not just dying to get into another job," he said. "Unlike other potential candidates, I don't hate what I'm now doing. I find being attorney general exciting."

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke already has announced he will run for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Controller Houston I. Flournoy reportedly is 80 per cent certain of running. Presidential counselor Robert H. Finch is eyeing a race either for governor or senator.

Younger said a "bunched up" field would discourage him from running.

He added, "It's going to be tough for any Republican to get elected. You look at the registration figures and they're just devastating." Democrats outnumber Republicans in voter registration by 3 to 2.

Younger said he will decide by Labor Day, 1973, whether to run for governor. If the decision is no he will run for reelection as attorney general and has complete confidence of winning.

He also disclosed his 1970 campaign still is $80,000 in debt.

Younger ruled out running for the Senate, partly because he wants to remain in California, and said he does not desire to be appointed to the Supreme Court. He was a Superior Court judge once and left the bench "to get more involved."

Break To Lavelle Says Congressman

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Gen. John Lavelle, who was relieved of his command for ordering unauthorized bombing raids over North Vietnam, was given a large tax break as a "retirement present," according to Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis.

Aspin said Lavelle received a 70 per cent physical disability rating when he voluntarily left the Air Force last spring. Aspin said the disability rating allows $23,500 of Lavelle's $25,000 pension to be tax exempt.

Threat To Sears

The Sears store at 9000 Northgate Drive, San Rafael, was evacuated briefly yesterday afternoon after a female caller warned of a bomb hidden in the store's basement. No bomb was found, police said.

Pentagon Lashes At McGovern

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Pentagon accused Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern today of flying in the face of reality with his suggestion that defense spending be cut by $30 billion.

In a 200-page counter-attack peppered with references to McGovern by name, the Defense Department said: "Those who suggest that we can solve our public spending problem by peeling some easy billions off the defense budget are arguing not only with the Pentagon but with reality, and reality is a formidable opponent."

McGovern has proposed to cut the defense budget —now an overall $82.3 billion —by $30 billion. He lost an initial test of the concept when the Senate last week refused to hold military spending for the new fiscal year to last year's level —a $4 billion cut.

—It is a myth the defense budget keeps growing. In reality, it said, once inflation is discounted ,this year's defense budget is the lowest since 1951.

—It is a myth that more money is being poured into new weapons. In reality, it said, over the past nine years funds devoted to new weaponry rose only 4 per cent and, after discounting inflation, actually fell 24 per cent.

—It is a myth that McGovern's proposal to trim defense spending by $30 billion, or more than one-third, would convert the economy from a war to a peace base.

—It is a myth defense contractors soak the taxpayer for billions in unwarranted profits. In reality, the report said, a study by the Government Accounting Office showed profits on defense work were lower than the profits on commercial sales made by the same firms.

—It is a myth that cutting the defense budget would vastly increase the funds available for social and economic programs.

In actuality, the document said, federal, state and local governments this year are already spending $275.6 billion on nondefense programs and this is expected to reach the $420-$480 billion range by 1978. "It is rather difficult to maintain," the report said, "that we could achieve wonders with, say, $500 billion to spend on social and economic programs —wonders which would somehow escape us if we had 'only' $480 billion to spend."

Lady Bird Marks Project's Start

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Lady Bird Johnson, wife of the former president, who has spent the profits from her book "A White House Diary" for a tree-planting beautification in Austin, dedicated a bronze plaque Wednesday marking the project's start.

"My philosophy of beautification is summed up in two words —use and maintenance. Use it so you can enjoy it, and maintenance so the youngest one of you can enjoy it when you grow up," the former First Lady told a gathering of about 250 persons.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

A Long, Critical Look Into Future Health, Quality Of Life

Many of our leading citizens are taking a long, critical look at what we can expect in the future as pertains to health, well-being, and quality of life. We want our children and their children to do more than survive contamination of air, water, and land. We are more interested in what kind of life they will inherit in terms of personal satisfaction, group self-fulfillment, and social responsibility.

There is no doubt that the despoiling of our environment will also affect man. To obtain ecological stability, some restrictions on personal freedom will be needed. To limit our population, birth control may be one of the first things on the agenda. Or, perhaps, there will be definite restrictions to use or abuse of land, water, air, technology, and health care. But whatever route we take, let us not forget that man is governed more by emotions than by reason.

MANY PEOPLE do not realize that adult stupidity is a form of social pollution. It is the most dangerous of all because lack of intelligence hinders any attempt to solve our problems at their very core. We will need some kind of decision-making group that knows what has occurred and has the vision to look ahead. Emotions must be harnessed so as to direct our energies in rational rather than irrational approaches.

Everyone contributes to pollution and the disruption of our ecological balance. We want automobiles, electricity, toilets, warm homes, and chemical cleansers. We also must work in factories, foundries, and other industries. Farmers want pesticides and fertilizers. Something has to give and those entrusted with decisions should be apolitical, practical, and blessed with good judgment.

THIS IS NO time for emotionalism. So far, few humans have suffered physically as a result of pollution. By the same token, we have had very little progrress in correcting these problesm, despite our good intentions.

SORE THROAT

F. B. writes: My throat has been sore for six months. However, my doctor assures me that I do not have a growth. Do you think it would be wise to have further tests?

REPLY

Yes. A sore throat lasting six months may stem from nervousness, cancer, or a specfic infection.

SMOKING AND HYPERTENSION

REPLY

It might be. Why not have your blood pressure taken several hours after abstaining and then immediately after a cigaret? What about your lungs and heart?

RELAXANT

B. A. writes: What does belladonna do?

REPLY

It relaxes the muscles and valves of the stomach and intestine. It may also suppress sweating, dilate the pupil of the eye, and slow the pulse rate.

PULSE AND THYROID ACTIVITY

W. A. writes: Does a slow pulse accompany too little thyroid production?

REPLY

Yes, and the opposite occurs when the thyroid is overactive.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. has advised local election officials to extend the deadline for registering voters to 30 days before the Nov. 7 general election.

4 Major Issues Killed

Ecology Movement Continues To Have Trouble In Sacramento

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The return-to-nature craze is booming and even Madison Avenue is getting into the act by capitalizing on ecological awareness. But the ecology movement is still having trouble in Sacramento.

Four of the biggest environmental issues — coastline protection, wild rivers legislation, forestry protection and an enviornmental superboard — stalled or were killed during the first chunk of the 1972 legislature's session.

So while the ad men may show the young folk sipping vodka while lounging on grey, moss-covered rocks, many of the proenvironment legislators at the Capitol say it's still tough to sell ecology-type bills.

"We have made some very modest progress with bills that chip away at environmental problems," said Sen. Peter Behr, a San Rafael Republican who authored a tough wild rivers protection bill that stalled on the Assembly floor Aug. 4 — the last day of the session until it resumes Nov. 8 for a three-week session keyed to reapportionment.

"But time will not permit us a pace so slow nor results so small," he added in an interview.

Numerous legislative observaters say that if the environmental consciousness boom has had any real bite, it is in the way the "anti" forces go about their work at the Capitol.

"They've gotton more sophisticated and the arrogance no longer displays itself with them saying 'kill the bill.' They now have to try to make deals," said Assemblyman Willie Brown, a San Francisco Democrat who chairs the powerful Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

Assemblyman Edwin Z'berg, a Sacramento Democrat whose environmental superboard bill was killed on the Assembly floor, says the same forces always man the barricades to "oppose any major environmental bill. It's the subdividers, utilities, oil companies, etc. It's no secret who they are."

Going into the remainder of the session, these environment-minded legislators have behind them what Assemblyman Paul Priolo, a Pacific Palisades Republican who chairs the Assembly Planning and Land Use Committee, calls "a pretty grim scoreboard."

Here is a rundown of what the legislators will face when they return to the Capitol in November:

COASTLINE PROTECTION — Environmentalists have given up on getting their version of the coastline protection package through the legislature after seeing it killed twice in the Senate Natural Resources Committee.

Instead they are focusing their strength on the drive to get voter approval of the coastline initiative on the November ballot, the day before the legislature returns. In the November session they are also going to try to block another, less stringent coastline measure, authored by Republican Sen. Dennis Carpenter of Newport Beach, which they consider worse than no coastline law at all.

FORESTRY PROTECTION — The toughest of three lumbering regulation bills up this session has already been killed in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee and the other two measures are sitting in a committee chaired by the author of the defeated bill-Assemblyman Z'berg.

Z'berg has said he doesn't want to let either bill out of his committee — Assembly Natural Resources — without amending it to toughen it up, a move that would not sit well with California's $2.3 billion lumbering industry.

WILD RIVERS — Two rival wild rivers protection bills failed to win final passage on the last day of the session before the legislature recessed for three months.

The Assembly voted instead to take the issue up in November when it will debate if it wants to send either or both bills on to Gov. Reagan's desk. Behr has said he hopes to convince Gov. Reagan that his plan, which includes the Eel River in a 20-year moratorium on dams, is better than Sen. Randolph Collier's bill, which would allow dams on the Eel with permission of the legislature.

ENVIRONMENTAL SUPERAGENCY — Late in the session Z'berg and the Reagan administration hammered out a first ever compromise that would have combined the present Air Resources and Water Resources boards into one, hopefully setting up a more comprehensive approach to environmental protection. The new board also would have had jurisdiction over solid waste disposal.

The plan won the Sierra Club's backing but even some environmentalists remained wary, saying they were not satisfied that the proposed makeup of the new board would make for a tougher environmental approach.

The Assembly killed the bill, and Z'berg says he will try to muster enough Republican votes in November to win passage.

'Compensation' For Syphilis Project Blacks

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A bill that would compensate survivors of a government experiment under which more than 600 black victims of syphilis were denied treatment has been introduced by Alabama's seators.

Sen. James B. Allen said in a Senate speech the United States government has an "ethical responsibility" to compensate persons injured by the experiment.

Allen was joined by his Democratic colleague, Sen. John J. Sparkman, in introducing the measure. It would authorize payments of up to $25,000 per person.

Marichal Minus Fastball Equals Loss To Padres, 5-2

By JOE SARGIS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Juan Marichal is an enigma to the San Francisco Giants.

When he was winning with monotonous regularity, hardly a day passed that he didn't complain of some physical problem, real or imagined.

Now that he is losing almost as regularly —he dropped his 13th game of the year, 5-2, to the San Diego Padres Wednesday —Marichal rarely says anything. And the one thing he doesn't do is complain, yet his back bothers him to the point where his once-famous fastball is a thing of memory.

The Padres, hardly the kind of team to manhandle a pitcher of Marichal's stature, looked like the old Yankee "Murderers Row" in raking him for nine hits and five runs in seven innings Wednesday.

True, a couple of the hits off him were "seeing eye" singles that eluded converging shortstop Chris Speier and second baseman Tito Fuentes, but at least five others were hit pretty well, and he was never really in command.

Pitching coach Don McMahon said Juan's aching back —it's been hurting him for a couple of months now —has taken away "something" from his fastball and that he now has to rely on other pitches.

"No question, his fastball doesn't have that old velocity," said McMahon, who at 42 throws the ball harder than most pitchers in their 20s, "but his sidearm curve is a better pitch today than it was in the past. One thing about an aching back, you can't put every thing on the ball that you want to, and that's what I think is wrong."

McMahon, at least, has some observations about Marichal. Manager Charlie Fox, obviously puzzled, shrugs off all questions about the Dominican righthander or leans back and scratches his head.

Does this latest defeat mean Marichal may be taken out of the rotation?" someone asked.

"I don't know," replied Fox, looking off into space. "He won't pitch in the next four games anyway. After that we'll re-evaluate the situation."

How about Marichal, what does he have to say?

"No one knows what's wrong with my back," he said. "All I know is it hurts sometimes, even when I'm not pitching. Then there are games when it doesn't hurt at all. I'm not pitching that bad, but I'm not pitching good either. I just don't know."

Wednesday's game was over hardly before it was under way. A single by Dave Roberts, a double by John Jeter and an intentional walk to Nate Colbert filled the bases with one out in the first. Two runs scored when Clarence Gaston bounced a single up the middle and a third run came around while Garry Jestadt was grounding into a force play.

Jestadt, not noted for hi long-ball hitting, then teed off for his fourth homer in the third to make it 4-0, and the Giants never recovered.

Willie McCovey and Ken Henderson hit back-to-back homers off Clay Kirby in the fourth to cut the lead in half but Jerry Morales' third homer of the year made it 5-2 in the sixth.

The Giants, who left 11 runners stranded, finally chased Kirby in the eighth when Speier singled and McCovey walked. Fred Norman, a left-handed screwballer, came on to walk Henderson to load the bases but retired Dave Rader on a foul to first, struck out pinch-hitter Ed Goodson and got Fuentes on a rap to third.

The Giants made one more run at Norman in the ninth when he walked two batters with two out but Fred, a stocky little battler, struck out McCovey to end the game.

How about the Padres, who like the Giants are off today before going back to work on Friday night? Do you think there is anything wrong with Marichal?

"I'll say this," said Colbert, who has hit 31 homers this year, "He's not throwing as hard as he used to."

"That's my feeling, too," added Pads' skipper Don Zimmer. "I don't know what's wrong with him but he's not the pitiher he was two years ago or even last year."

Kirby was rewarded with Wednesday's victory. It was his ninth compared to 12 losses. Marichal slipped to 4-13.

Padres' Dr. Arlin: The Pitching Dentist

Dr. Steve Arlin, pitching dentist of the San Diego Padres, could drop baseball for dentistry but has no intention of doing so.

"I'm in baseball for as long as I can play," said Dr. Arlin. "I could work by a dentist's chair for 14 years and never have a nine-year-old boy come up to me and ask for my autograph."

DR. ARLIN is a streamlined 6-foot-3, 195-pound, 26-year-old righthander who received his degree in dentistry at Ohio State in 1970. He was the pitching ace of the Buckeyes during his undergraduate days. He led college pitchers with 165 strikeouts in 1965 and his 13-2 record made Ohio State runner-up in the College World Series. His 11-1 record and 1.58 ERA in 1966 made the Buckeyes champs of the collegiate world.

Detroit drafted him in 1966 but he did not sign. Philadelphia picked him in the special phase of the June, 1966, free agent draft and he signed with the Phillies. The Padres plucked him out of the Phillies organization in the 1969 expansion draft.

LAST YEAR was Arlin's first full season in the majors. His 9-19 record in 1971 was understandable since the Padres scored two runs or less in 13 of his 19 defeats. Four of his nine wins were shutouts, the most impressive a 2-0 three-hitter July 25 against the Pirates, who went on to become world champs. In that shutout he fanned Willie Stargell with the bases loaded.

This year he one-hit the Giants June 23 for nine innings in a 4-1 win. The one hit in that game was a second-inning triple by Garry Maddox, who scored on a sacrifice fly by Alan Gallagher.

"I WANT TO BE something in baseball," said Dr. Arlin. "I think I'm earning the respect of players as a pitcher of quality. I suppose as a player I don't display the type of emotion that indicates my devotion to the game. But that's probably the doctor's influence showing through. A dentist can't be emotional in front of a patient."

Dr. Arlin acknowledges that his patients want to talk baseball.

"And," said Dr. Arlin, "I enjoy talking baseball with them. It builds a stronger relationship between me and my patient. But I can't talk too long because the appointment schedule gets messed up."

THE PITCHING DENTIST has perfected a time-saving Q. and A. procedure in handling questions such as "What's it like to pitch to Willie Mays, Doc?"

"I don't usually answer until I have a drill in the patient's mouth," said Dr. Arlin. "Then he can't continue the conversation until I'm finished. The timing is important in keeping the schedule rolling."

LET US DANCE

New York Mets' Dave Marshall scored from third base as catcher Ted Simmons of the Cardinals reached for the ball last night in the first inning at St. Louis. The play came after a sacrifice fly to leftfielder Luis Melendez, who made the throw to the plate. Mets won, 8-3.

Olympic Training Begins For DeMont

I-J Special Report

WEST POINT, N.Y. — It possibly seemed like Christmas Day in August for Rick DeMont of Terra Linda.

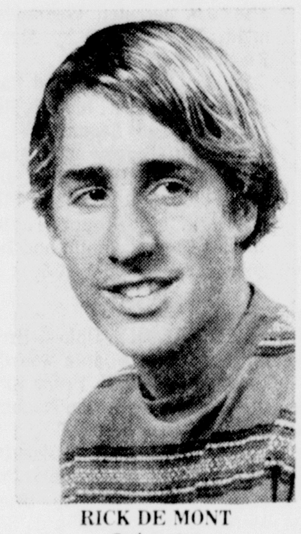
The 16-year-old world record holder in the 1,500-meter freestyle was bombarded with bounty this week, after qualifying for the Olympic games in the 400 and 1,500-free races.

Now here in West Point, N.Y., for the men's training camp, DeMont related by phone yesterday that he has received from the Olympic Committee a camera, anti-chlorine goggles for use during workouts, T-shirts, hand-paddles, shoes, clothing, luggage, not to mention the official team sweatsuits.

"This is all for free? I can't believe it!" he said.

DeMont and room-mate butterflier Robin Backhaus of Redlands, Calif., are currently sitting in the lap of luxury, as are the other 22 members of the U.S. men's team.

Coaching the squad are Peter Daland of USC, and Don Gambril of Harvard. DeMont will continue training, though, the same pattern as he has been with Don Swartz of the Marin A.C. DeMont said, "I will be in touch with Don tonight to get his workouts for me for the next few days."



RICK DE MONT
Swim star

He says ebulliently, "We're having a gas here," in a much more outgoing manner than immediately before the meet. His mother, Mrs. Will DeMont, said, "He was very quiet the last few days before he left. He didn't want to talk about a lot of things."

Although Rick only made the finals by .9 second before his world record swim, he said he wasn't worried about not qualifying. "I looked over and saw Don wasn't freaking out, so I kept going and touched out (Indiana's John) Kinsella to win the heat."

About Kinsella, the former world record holder who didn't make the team in an individual event, DeMont said, "He leaves his meet in the warm pool. He goes so hard before the race."

Since DeMont did not have an opportunity to return home, he called his mother and "asked me to send him some clothes," she said.

DeMont's two younger sisters and one younger brother, were also excited about the achievement. Ken, a Terra Linda sophomore, is a stubborn ping-pong adversary for his brother.

Ken will accompany his parents and grandmother to Munich for the Games, which begin for Rick Sept. 1. "We've got some things going," Mrs. DeMont said about getting tickets at this late date.

DeMont arrived in New York Tuesday, and was surprised at the amount of greenery around the "Army" campus. "There are lots of trees, I'm really surprised. I expected all city and people." Rick is well at home in the outdoors, and plans to major in forestry or wildlife conservation, he said.

Finley Sees A's Drop 3rd In Row

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Oakland Athletics owner Charles O. Finley sat in the grandstand here Wednesday nigt for the first time since he took the A's from Kansas City in 1968. He didn't like what he saw.

The A's dropped their third straight to the Kansas City Royals 5-2 and limped out of town with a 1-6 road record, the first losing road trip to Manager Dick Williams' two-year tenure.

About the only noise in the Oakland clubhouse was the whirring of fans. Players sat on stools next to each other and did not say a word.

'PLAYING BADLY'

"We're playing badly besides not hitting," said Bando. "I think our mental part of the game could be a lot better."

The A's open a four-game series tonight in Oakland against the Chicago White Sox, the team that is breathing down their necks.

ON ROAD

After the Chicago series, Oakland goes to Baltimore for two games and then to Detroit for three more. The A's will play nine straight games against contenders.

Kansas City Manager Bob Lemon likened Oakland's four-game series with Chicago to what he experienced as a pitcher for Cleveland in 1954.

"We clinched the pennant with about two weeks to go and won 111 games. But we had a letdown and we couldn't get it up again for the World Series. When things are going bad, you don't figure you're going to turn it around tomorrow."

ROJAS HOMER

Cookie Rojas slammed a two-run homer in the seventh inning, his first ever in Kansas City.

"They're in tough shape right now," the veteran second baseman said of Oakland. "They've got a good pitching staff, but they lost about a seven-game lead in no time flat. And Chicago is hot. I do think Oakland's pitching staff and bullpen is better than Chicago's. But when you're hot, sometimes those things don't matter."

Hardman Practicing Again After Surgery

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers' outstanding young defensive end Cedrick Hardmen is working at camp for the first time since his knee operation in the off season.

Coach Dick Nolan says he thinks Hardman will be ready for the season opener Sept. 17 against San Diego at Candlestick.

"I'm pretty sure I'll be ready for the opening game," the 6 foot 3, 235 pounder said after his workout Wednesdsy. Hardman practiced quick starts and cutting and sprinted 40 yards in 5.0 seconds, only a couple of tenths off his usual time.

The team worked out two hours on passing and the pass rush, getting ready for an exhibition game Sunday against the Cleveland Browns at Candlestick Park.

Two other injured 49ers, rookie wide receiver Terry Beasley and linebacker Marty Huff, also did some post-operative running.

Beasley, the team's No. 1 draft choice from Auburn, did a little light jogging in the cast put on his fractured toe. He is expected to run at full speed in two weeks.

Nicklaus, Palmer To Head Westchester Golf Tourney

HARRISON, N.Y.(UPI) — Jack Nicklaus and defending champion Arnold Palmer, both with excellent past performance records at the Westchester Country Club, head the field in the $250,000 Westchester Golf classic today with most of the top pros on hand except British Open champ Lee Trevino and Billy Casper.

Nicklaus, winner of the Masters and U.S. Open, won the inaugural Classic in 1967, won the Thunderbird over this course in 1965 and warmed up Wednesday with a five under par 34-33—67 in a celebrity pro am.

An "underground" oddsmaker listed Big Jack as the 3-1 favorite in a probable field of 153 Palmer, who won the tournament by five strkes a year ago, was pegged at 7-1 along with Player as second choices. Arnie had a 69 in the pro-am event and Player a par 72 over the 6,700 yard layout.

Palmer not only romped in last year's Classic but twice won Thunderbird titles when that event was scheduled at the Westchester course.The Classic's $50,000 first prize would give him an important boost up the 1972 money ladder on which he now ranks 27th with $60,197.

The $50,000 jackpot to the winner could cause quite a shakeup in the money list—or put Nicklaus out of sight. Jack already has won $190,213 to lead the parade, with the resting Trevino second at $134,097 and young Jerry Heard third with $124,577.

62ND ANNUAL EVENT

Mill Valley Dipsea Race Is Set Aug. 27

Biologists have told the tale many times of how the lemmings, in vast hordes, run pell-mell to the sea. But who ever heard of the lemmings paying $2 and $3 for the privilege?

Yet that will be the case on Sunday, Aug. 27, when the 62nd annual Dipsea race will be held. Sponsored by the Mill Valley Junior Chamber of Commerce, the scenic, rugged foot race will wind along the twisting, 6.8-mile trail from Mill Valley inland to Stinson Beach on the sea.

Entires are now being accepted, and to date over 500 have been received, according to meet director John Drew. He expects a field of about 1,400, the largest in history and some 200 more than last year. And it's a narrow trail.

Prospective entrants can get applications from the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce, 85 Throckmorton Avenue, or the San Francisco Office of the Amateur Athletic Union, 942 Market Street. Or they can write the Jaycees at P.O. Box 30, Mill Valley 94941.

Entry fee is $2 before Aug. 19 and $3 thereafter. Additionally, participants must have a valid AAU card, available from the San Francisco office for $1.50.

Entries will be accepted until the start of the race, but entrants are advised to take care of the paperwork earlier. AAU and race officials will be on hand from about 8 a.m. on race day. The first handicap runners will take off at exactly 10 a.m. and everybody will be running by 10:15.

TENNIS TOURNEY SLATED

A benefit doubles tennis tournament for the Mill Valley branch of the Boyd Natural Science Museum will be held for two consecutive weekends in September. Play will be in three doubles categories: men's, women's and mixed.

Entry forms are now being distributed to the local clubs and sport shops for interested players, according to publicist Priscilla Hoakanson.

Last Inning Rally Lifts King To Win

King Realty scored seven times in the final inning, with Al Hamilton singling across the two go-ahead runs, to defeat Industrial Credit, 10-8 last night in San Rafael adult softball league action.

McKee's edged Loose, 4-3 and Motorcycles Unlimited beat Timmer, 11-8 in other games.

Seals' Jarrett Jumps To WHA

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

CLEVELAND — Left winger Gary Jarrett, a member of the California Golden Seals of the National Hockey League for the past four seasons, was one of five players who signed contracts Wednesday with the Cleveland Crusaders of the World Hockey Association.

Jarrett, 29, averaged 14 goals and 18 assists during his five-year NHL career. His best year was with the Seals in the 1968-69 season when he had 22 goals and 23 assists.

The other four new Crusaders included defensemen Wayne Muloin, who was captain of the Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League last season. Prior to joining the Barons, Muloin spent two years in the NHL with the Seals.

Tennis

PHILADELPHIA — Top-seeded Marita Redondo and second-seed Laurie Fleming advanced in singles, and Bee Kilgore of Tiburon and partner were felled in doubles play yesterday, in the U.S. Girls' Grass Court Tennis Championships.

Miss Kilgore, who the day before had been defeated in singles, was paired with Cindy Hargadon of Indianapolis. The pair lost to Susan and Sandy Step of Deerfield, Ill., 6-2, 6-3.

Miss Redondo bounced back to win, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, after a shaky first set. Miss Fleming played similarly, winning 3-6, 6-0, 6-2.

Miss Redondo of National City, Calif., rallied to defeat Susan Boyle of San Diego, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2 to gain the quarter-finals. Miss Fleming of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. overcame a strong attack by Rayni Fox of North Miami Beach, Fla. to win 3-6, 6-0, 6-2.

Other seeded players who reached the quarter-final round were Susan Step of Deerfield, Ill., Ann Kiyomura of San Mateo, Calif., Daryl Gralka of Houston, Tex. and Brenda Garcia of Lafayette.

The Stap sisters, Susan and Sandy, advanced in doubles by defeating Bee Kilgore of Tiburon, and Cincy Hargadon of Indianapolis, 6-2, 6-3.

CLEVELAND — Ismail El Shafei of Egypt rifled 10 aces Wednesday night to upset second-seeded Arthur Ashe in the $50,000 Cleveland Tennis Classic, 6-4, 6-7, 6-3.

Rod Laver, unseeded here, also was defeated Wednesday night, 7-6, 3-6, 6-2, by Marty Riessen of Chicago.

In doubles, Ashe and Bob Lutz of Tiburon topped Roy Barth and Tom Leonard, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2; Cliff Richey and Gerald Battrick beat Nick Pilic and Allan Stone 4-6, 6-3, 7-6; Cliff Drysdale and Roger Taylor downed Haroon Rahim and Jeff Borowiak, 6-3, 5-7, 7-5.

CAMP PERRY, Ohio — Presley Kendall of Atlanta won the National Smallbore Prone Rifle title Wednesday at the National Rifle Matches here.

Kendall finished his shooting with a 6,394 score, same as that of Army Reserve Maj. Bruce Meredith of Spartanburg, S.C. In ties the winner is determined by the number of center hits. Kendall had two more than Meredith after the four-day matches.

Raiders' Wells In Action

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—Pass catcher Warren Wells, out of action for a year because of problems with the law, will see action Monday night when the Oakland Raiders engage in a tuneup with the Baltimore Colts.

Wells said at training camp that Coach John Madden asked him whether he would play a quarter.

"I told him that would be about all I could play," he said. "My wind isn't back yet. I'm not ready to play a whole game, but I will be by the time the season starts."

An Alameda County Superior Court judge allowed Wells to return to the Raiders this season after his probation was revoked for repeated scrapes with the law.

A. L. ROUNDUP

Contenders In Hot Flag Drive

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Yankees show signs of being for real, the Orioles of Baltimore are beginning to thrash their wings feverishly and division leaders Detroit and Oakland have developed a case of the "blahs" as the American League pennant drama is staged under the relentless gaze of the August dog days.

The Yankees split a doubleheader with the Tigers Wednesday, winning 2-1 after losing 6-0. The split left the New Yorkers three games behind Detroit.

BALTIMORE

Baltimore remained in second place, just a game off the pace, with a 10-0 rout of Milwaukee and Oakland continued to slump with a 5-2 loss at the hands of Kansas City.

In other AL contests, Boston beat Cleveland 5-2, Texas stopped Minnesota 3-2 and Chicago blanked California 1-0 behind durable Wilble Wilbur Wood.

Celerino Sanchez rapped a two-out single off reliever Fred Scherman in the seventh inning of the second game to produce his second game-winning hit in two days. The hit followed a single by Roy White and a double by Ron Blomberg.

PITCHERS

Starters Rob Gardner of the Yankees and the Tigers' Tom Timmerman locked in an excellent pitching duel in the nightcap, with winner Gardner carrying a one-hitter into the eighth and loser Timmerman yielding a single hit through the first six.

After Gardner gave up his second hit in the eighth inning, skipper Ralph Houk went to Sparky Lyle, the most consistent bullpen ace the Yankees have known since the days of Joe Page. The 28-year-old lefthander fanned Ike Brown and Bill Freehan and tossed out Willie Horton and went on to register his 25th save.

Woody Fryman, a veteran of six years in the National League, blanked the Yankees on six hits as he made his American League debut in the opener. Aurelio Rodriguez—with three hits, three runs batted in and two runs scored— led a Tiger attack that dealt Mel Stottlemyre his 13th loss.

Baltimore, struggling to break free of the lethargy which has unaccountably overtaken the AL champions of the last three years, received four-hit shutout pitching from Dave McNally (who aso hit his first home run of the year) to win its fourth straight game.

KEY HIT

Wood prevailed over the Angels' Nolan Ryan in a stirring pitcher's duel and accounted for the lone run of the game with a two-out single in the seventh inning to pull the White Sox to within a game of Oakland in the West and become the majors' first 19-game winner in the process.

The shutout was the sixth this year for Wood and tied him with Ryan and McNally for the league lead and set the stage for a crucial four-game showdown between the White Sox and Oakland beginning tonight.

APARICIO

The Red Sox managed to beat the Indians when veteran Luis Aparicio slapped a two-run single in the fifth inning to pave the way for Sonny Siebert's 10th victory. Gaylord Perry was dealt his 10th defeat compared to 18 victories.

The Bosox played without their $165,000-a-season left fielder, Carl Yastrzemski, from the fourth inning on. Yastrzemski, the center of the Red Sox' latest internal struggle, managed to ground into two double plays before leaving the game with what was described as intestinal virus.

Carlton Fisk, Boston's All-Star rookie catcher, had charged Tuesday that Yastrzemski and centerfielder Reggie Smith were not supplying the leadership expected of high-salaried players — in short, not hustling.

Yastrzemski missed a team meeting called before the start of Wednesday's game to presumably clear the air of the charges.

DiMaggio Baseball Title Go

One divisional title was decided last night, and another will be up for grabs this evening at 6 p.m., as Marin Joe DiMaggio League baseball pla enters the climax stage.

Annex Motors squeezed by Bank of Marin by a 2-1 score yesterday, using only two hits. Annex, now 9-5, is the champion of the Northern Division, and will vie with the southern champ Saturday for the county title.

Tody's Truckers and Italian Club tuned up for tonight's Southern Division deciding game at Novato High School with three-run victories.

Toby's shut out Villa Builders, 3-0, on the two hit pitching of John Billings. Russ Knudsen slammed a triple and a single, and Mickey Hurley knocked two singles to pace the Truckers' attack.

The Italian Club featured Matt Gondak's three-hit, three RBI power in a 4-1 victory ove Drake.

Tonight, Toby's probably will go with curve-balling Jim Petray, while the Italian Club should pitch hard-throwing Gene Frey, according to coach Gary Hughes of the Truckers. The game is a replay of a marathan, extra-inning contest last month that ended in a deadlock.

In the other tilt last night. Holiday Magic (7-6) outscored Kelleher Lumber (5-8) by a 9-8 tally.

Dr. Doug Ramsey of San Rafael has been selected to represent the Meadow Club in the sixth annual Marin County Tournament of Champions golf event Sunday.

Ramsey, an orthopedic surgeon, graduated from University of Oregon Medical School, after earning a bachelor's degree at the U. of Oregon. He played on the school's golf team for two years.

Ramsey's opponents in the tourney of champs will be Jack Sterley of Peacock Gap in San Rafael, Roy Hruska of San Geronimo, Al Randig of Indian Valley in Novato, Wayne Smith of Mill Valley, and Mike Jermane of Marin Country Club in Novato.

The tourney will be played at Marin Country Club, beginning at 9 a.m. Admission is free to the public.

Carlton Wins 13th Straight For Phils

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Steve Carlton doesn't dare to look back because the Philadelphia Phillies may be gaining on him.

"I don't think about records because they're something to look back on," Carlton said Wednesday night after he pitched a three-hitter and hit a homer to give the hapless Phils a 2-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates and run his winning streak to 13 straight games.

Carlton hasn't lost since May 30 and since that time the Phils have won 21 games including the 13 by Carlton. For the season, Carlton has almost half of the club's wins—18 of 40. Not since somebody named Noodles Hahn won 22 of 52 games for Cincinnati in 1901 has a National League pitcher Had such a high percentage of his team's victories.

Carlton struck out 12 to boost his league-leading total to 232 and his shutout extended his string of innings without an earned run to 54.

Philadelphia scored the only run it needed off loser Steve Blass, 12-6, in the second inning. Willie Montanez led off with a single, followed by Greg Luzinski's single and when the ball was mishandled by right-fielder Gene Clines, Montanez scored. Carlton then added his homer in the third inning for insurance.

In other National League action, Cincinnati topped Los Angeles, 6-3, Atlanta defeated Houston, 6-0, San Diego downed San Francisco, 5-2, Montreal beat Chicago, 8-2 and New York stopped St. Louis, 8-3.

Henry Aaron hit a two-run homer and George Stone pitched a six-hitter as Atlanta defeated Houston. Aaron hit the 23rd homer of the season and the 662nd of his career in the first inning to give Stone all the help he needed. Aaron is now only 52 away from the mark.

San Rafael Girl Near Best Time In National Swim

I-J Special Report

HERSHEY, Pa. — Jo Hislop of San Rafael notched a near-best 400-meter free clocking, as did two other Marin Aquatic Club swimmers yesterday, in the first day of the National AAU Open Swimming Championships here.

Miss Hislop swam 4:43.7, tenths off her best 4:43.4.

Maura Campion and Denis Ham competed in the 100-meter butterfly, timing 1:10.3 and 1:10.8, respectively.

No local swimmer made the finals ic three first day events, but coach Don Swartz indicates that there is a good possibility of high placing today.

He indicated that all the best swimmers in the country are participating, excepting those that are heading for the Olympics in Munich, Germany.

New York Teams Tax Relief Plans

NEW YORK (UPI) — The city of New York is studying plans to give tax relief to the New York Knicks and Rangers but buying Madison Square Garden is not one of the proposals under consideration, Mayor John V. Lindsay said Wednesday.

Other city officials had said Tuesday the city was thinking about puchasing the Garden and leasing it back to the Knicks and Rangers to prevent the teams from moving to New Jersey.

But Lindsay said "there is no talk about purchasing Madison Square Garden."

Lindsay said the city officials are studying the idea of a Sports Authority to function as a managing unit for various sports facilities. The mayor said, "the paper work has been done" but a final decision on whether to actually create the authority has not been reached.

What the teams want, a garden spokesman said Tuesday, is to gain the same type of tax positions the city has given teams like the Jets, Mets and Yankees. The Garden is reported to be paying $2.1 million a year in tax on the arena.

However, there was some opposition among city officials for any plan to give tax relief to the corporation since both teams are so successful.

Williams Jennings, the president of the Rangers, said he didn't want to give the impression that either team is in trouble financially. "I feel a mistaken impression has resulted that the Garden is trying to keep its head above water. I don't think that's the issue. The real issue is fair treatment and protecting stockholders. We're doing very well financially and hope to do better.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

The Smooo-o-oth One

By LEE TREVINO

The really velvet swingers — Gene Littler, Sam Snead, Julius Boros and Bert Yancey — all have the same slow take-away. Their backswings are lazy-like, but not floppy.

The attack area of the downswing is a reflex action of the backswing. The golfer who starts his swing by jerking the club away from the ball loses control at the top unless he has a great grip. If he retains that hurried tempo, he'll rush into the downswing. The result is a misdirected shot.

To concentrate on a smooth backswing, I always look at the target twice. After the forward press I think "one second" as I come back. Nothing else, just a mental "one" as I take the club away from the ball.

I've heard that Patty Berg used to think "ooom-pah" as she began her backswing. It's a good way to establish a tempo.

The speed of a man's backswing isn't that important. Arnold Palmer and Chi Chi Rodriguez have fast backswings, and who says those dudes can't play? It takes different speeds for different breeds.

The speed of your backswing isn't what counts — IF you keep it the same all the time. It's the way you bring it down that counts.

Anti-Trust Action Set vs. NBA Moguls

CHICAGO (UPI)—A federal anti-trust suit has been filed against the National Basketball Association charging that NBA owners have violated the NBA conflict of interest ruling by their association with Emprise Corp.

Irving H. Levin and Harold A. Lipton, both of Beverly Hills, Calif., filed suit Wednesday in U.S. District Court here claiming that NBA owners prefer those who "might assist" the Emprise Corp. The two filed suit after they were denied the transfer of ownership of the Boston Celtics by the NBA owners after the commissioner had approved the move.

Emprise has undergone nationwide investigations concerning reputed links to organized crime.

The men charged that NBA owners "attempt to limit membership in the NBA to persons who might assist Emprise to obtain concession privileges "in stadiums where NBA games are held.

Quarterback Dickey Tries To Earn Oiler No. 1 Spot

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

If Lynn Dickey is to unseat Dan Pastorini as the Houston Oilers' No. 1 quarterback, he must begin to make his move tonight.

Dickey, like Pastorini a second-year man, will get the starting assignment tonight when the Oilers play host to the Chicago Bears in the opening of a four-day exhibition football weekend.

Dickey, who completed 10-of 16 passes last week for two touchdowns in a losing cause, will work with the Oilers' No. 1 receiving corps, Charlie Joiner and Ken Burrough. Pastorini hit the speedy Burrough with a pair of TD passes in the first half last week against the Dallas Cowboys but Dickey worked with the second-string receivers in the second half.

In other action this weekend, Washington is at Denver Friday night while on Saturday, Buffalo is at New Orleans, Cincinnati plays host to Detroit, St. Louis is at Kansas City, Miami entertains Green Bay, the New York Jets take on Pittsburgh in Seattle, Minnesota plays host to San Diego, Dallas is at Los Angeles and New England is at Philadelphia. Cleveland is at San Francisco on Sunday while in a Monday night game, Baltimore plays host to Oakland.

In news from the training camps Wedneesday, Lance Alworth, Dallas' wide reeceiver, has a pulled hamstring muscle and may miss the game against Los Angeles. The Cowboys waived Lonnie Leonard and asked injured waivers on veteran cornerback Mark Washington and running back Bill Thomas, their NUO. 1 draft pick from Boston College.

Pittsburgh announced that Terry Brudshaw, who suffered an injured thigh last week, probably will start at quarterback against the Jets. Terry Hanratty, Bob Leahy and Joe Gilliam also should see action at quarterback. Joe Namath is expected to play about a quarter for the Jets.

Jerry Rhome, who spent four years with the Cowboys, will open against his former teammates. Rhome will quarterback the club since Roman Gabriel still is recovering from a collapsed lung.

John Ralston, Denver's new coach, said he will decide during the exhibtion season whether he will call plays from the bench or allow his quarterback to control the game. the Broncos play their first pre-season game against the Redksins.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY
Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance

South Has A Problem: What To Do With Eight Of Diamonds

It is possible to have too many cards in your best suit. In today's hand, for example, South would be much better off without the eight of diamonds.

FIRST ACTION

South can win the first two diamonds with the king and queen. He can then lead the nine of diamonds to dummy's ace. He would then be ready to win two more tricks in the dummy with the seven and six of diamonds — if he could only get rid of the eight of diamonds. As long as he has that eight, however, he will have to win the fourth round of diamonds in his hand; and then there is no way to get to dummy for a fifth diamond trick.

When the hand was played, South saw that the eight of diamonds was excess baggage, and he found an ingenious way to get rid of it.

West led the king of spades, holding the trick. West confidently led the queen of spades and held that trick also. West continued with the jack of spades and was allowed to win that third trick, too!

NOTHING BETTER

For lack of anything better to do, West led a fourth spade, forcing out dummy's ace. On this trick, South got rid of his offending eight of diamonds!

He could now easily take the king, queen and ace of diamonds in that order to establish the suit. Dummy won two more diamond tricks, and South made game with five diamonds, a spade, a club and two hearts.

CAN'T STOP

West couldn't stop South by switching to a different suit, since then South could take the first four diamond tricks in any sequence and get back to dummy with the ace of spades for the fifth diamond.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one no-trump, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - A 9 5 4
♥ - 6 4
♦ A 7 6 4 2
♣ - J 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs — the Stayman Convention.

This does not show biddable clubs but does ask your partner to show a biddable major suit, if he has one. If partner can show spades, you will raise to game; otherwise you will bid game in no-trump.

Market Is Higher At Closing

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market broke out of a mixed pattern today to close slightly higher in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Advances led declines by almost 200 issues among the more than 1,725 crossing the tape.

The upturn began late in the day and many analysts noted it came after the Commerce Department reported July retail sales increased by 2 per cent over June.

For the past three sessions, the market has been consolidating large recent gains. Some analysts noted stock prices are at a high level where many traders are willing to sell.

Bristol Myers was higher most of the day. The consumer products manufacturer recently reported better than anticipated second quarter earnings. For that reason, a major brokerage recommended buying the stock.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Fairmont Foods Should Be Held

By ROGER E. SPEAR

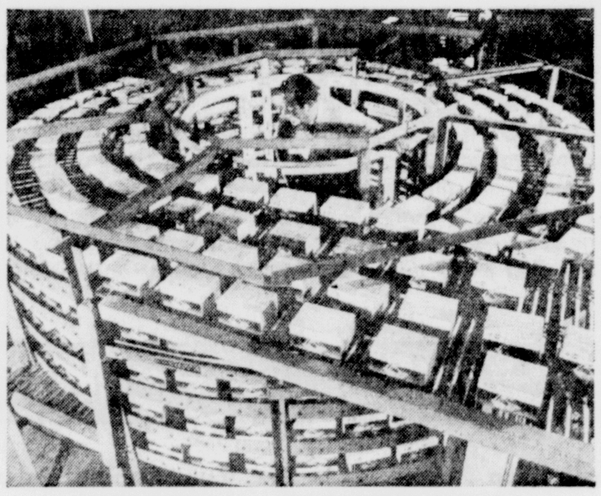
Q. I have had shares of Fairmont Foods (NYSE) for many years. They have never split nor paid an extra dividend and now have cut the existing one in half. They have, however, increased their business immensely. How do you account for this? — D.W.

A. Fairmont Foods' annual dividend was reduced following a depressed fiscal 1971 when earnings fell 27 per cent to 93 cents a share — 7 cents under the $1.00 dividend then being paid. Also, the company reported extraordinary charges that year equal to $1.34 a share, reflecting anticipated losses and other costs related to the closing and realignment of certain unprofitable and marginal operations. Hence, though the firm's volume has been expanding, profits have been having trouble nosing ahead.

This situation is imporving, however. Management recently announced plans to switch emphasis from its dairy products and food processing business (largely responsible for the earnings slump) to its more profitable convenience food business. Thus, with more concentration on nondairy foods, the withdrawal from less profitable product areas and the closing of marginal operations, Fairmont appears on the road to recovery, and may be held for that eventuality.

Q. I own shares of Airco, Inc. for which I paid 20½. What is your opinion of this and the outlook? — D.F.

A. A leading producer of indusrial gases and ferro alloys, whose largest customer is the steel industry, NYSE-traded Airco is and should continue to benefit from the cyclical improvement being experienced in this segment. Company reported significantly improved results in 1971 and thus far in 1972.



INDUSTRIAL MERRY-GO-ROUND

WILMINGTON, Mass. — A spiral conveyor that can be built in tiers up to 20 feet high and occupies half the floor space of conventional conveyor systems is expected to get widespread use in dairy, food, meat, packaging, and industrial markets. Called Tapertrak by its developer, Greer Industries Inc., a division of Columbia Precision Corporation, it has tapered ball bearing rollers that will go backward or forward at from three to 50 feet per minute. It will hold up to 900 linear feet of products like ice cream, TV dinners, cameras, or electronic assemblies.

Airlines Reach For Goodies

NEW YORK (UPI)—The airlines, trying desperately to make up some of their losses, have reached into the goodie bag and are offering everything from strolling minstrels to "Dracula tours'(to get people on board.

With recession-inflicted losses well into the hundreds of millions of dollars during the past two years, airline executives are reaching far afield to get out of the woods.

Typical of the airlines' new promotion campaigns are a series of tours and "inflight happenings" offered by Eastern, American, Pan American and United airlines.

Eastern, for example, is pushing a concept called "the wings of man versus the wheels of man." Company executives hope the promotion, designed to capture part of the vacation market which normally travels by auto, will result in sales approaching $10 to $12 million.

"Eighty-four per cent of the families who take vacations go by car," said Maurice Kelley, Eastern vice president. "It would increase our business fourfold if we got it all, but we'd be happy with only a few per cent." Kelley said Eastern is aiming at middle income families, with one or two small children. Included in the plan are car rental facilities at the destination, babysitters for the kids and other benefits all aimed at making "the experience at the other end" that much more enjoyable.

'Oxy' Agreement Creates Concern

By S. M. MARSHALL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

A massive wave of speculation rolled into the shares of Occidental Petroleum in response to the news of the concern's trade agreement with the Soviet Union and created chaotic trading conditions in securities markets throughout the United States.

This week, as investors stood back and tried to examine the fundamentals behind the stock that is widely known as "Oxy," it was becoming clear that answers to many important questions would be needed to make a sober appraisal of the issue.

Between its closing price July 14 and the peak it reached near to height of the speculation last week, Oxy's aggregate market value shot up by nearly $400 million and the price of the stock itself climbed well over 50 per cent.

On the New York Exchange (NYSE) alone, 5,710,000 shares of Oxy changed hands last week. At least another 3 million shares of the issue were traded in the over-the-counter market and on regional exchanges during the week.

The stock was by far the most active on the Big Board and may well have been the most active in history if you include trading in all markets. However, no records are kept on total nationwide turnover.

The intriguing aspect of the trading binge was that almost all the volume came in small lots to 100, 200, or 300 shares. Joseph Romano Jr., the specialist in Oxy, said there was a surprising absence of block trades.

This indicated that small investors were mainly responsible for the action and that institutions, less inclined to get caught up in the emotional speculation, were sticking to the sidelines.

The principal question about the company's extraordinary trade pact with the Soviets was how much it would be worth to Oxy in terms of earnings and how soon those earnings would be rolling into the company's coffers.

When rumors of the deal first began circulating in Europe July 17, somebody put a price tag of $3 billion on it. When Dr. Armand Hammer, Oxy's flamboyant chairman, confirmed that the deal had been made, he did not confirm the $3 billion figure.

Some of Oxy's followers in Wall Street say it is pure guesswork to estimate how much or when the company might benefit. They hope that the company expects to be paid with oil, gas, and possibly fertilizers,and possibly fertilizers, as well as nickel and chromium.

In other words, it's sort of an old-fashioned barter deal that does not involve a direct exchange of hard cash. This certainly must raise serious questions about the earnings that are likely to be derived from it.

"There is considerable hazard in Oxy's highly speculative shares at the recent price of 16 (NYSE)," said Standard & Poor's, "and the indefinite information about the Soviet deal leaves many question marks."

Since that advisory was issued, the stock continued to weaken, indicating that some of the enthusiastic speculators who had been buyers at 18 were becoming uncomfortable with their holdings.

"The stock should be purchased only by the hardened risk-taker who is able to live with its volatility," Standard & Poor's concluded.

The research concern said it was more significant that Oxy recently had brought in a discovery oil well offshore from Nigeria, producing an 18,600-barrel daily flow from two zones.

The company believes it has found a major oil field in the offshore area. Standard & Poor's concluded that "Nigerian oil could add importantly to Oxy's earnings, beginning in 1973."

The company has good potentials in Venezuela, Peru and the North Sea, where exploratory drilling will get under way this year.

But there are problems, too. Late in June, Libya ordered Oxy's oil production there to be cut back by 20 per cent. Another problem is weak heating-oil prices in Europe.

Standard & Poor's estimates that Oxy's earnings in 1972 should be about 50 cents a share, representing a strong turnaround from a deficit of $1.26 a share in 1971. But in 1970 the company earned $2.92 a share, and in 1969 it earned $2.97.

The deal with the Soviet Union does add up to a coup for the company, in that it apparently represents a first major step in opening trade relations with the Communist country. This fact no doubt was partly responsible for the investor enthusiasm.
